Congressmen Blast Sleuth Proposal.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—Vigorous protest was voiced today by members of congress against the New Deal proposal to create a super-intelligence unit to formulate national policy and strategy in the post-war world.

Exclusive disclosure of the plan by THE TRIBUNE, with the publication of a memorandum and appended suggested draft of an order, brought prompt congressional denunciation of the adoption of Gestapo [Nazi secret police], and OGPU [Russian secret police] methods in the United States.

The memorandum and appendix were sent to President Roosevelt last November by Brig. Gen. William J. Donovan, director of the office of strategic services, which gathers and correlates war information. In the memorandum Donovan said his plan was prepared at the suggestion of Mr. Roosevelt.

Secrecy Veils Operations.

Donovan could not be reached at his office for comment. The OSS has shrouded all its operations and the movement of its personnel with secrecy.

Administration officials also were silent on the proposal. Most of them knew nothing of the plan until it was disclosed by THE TRIBUNE, as there were only 15 copies of the memorandum and its appendix, which went largely to top flight military leaders and cabinet officers.

On Capitol hill members of congress showed no hesitancy in expressing indignation at what they condemned as a scheme to spy abroad and at home. Among those to blast the proposal were the following:

Sen. Johnson [D., Colo.]—I don't want any democratic Gestapo. I can't go along with any proposal for a domestic spy system.

Likens It to OGPU.

Sen. Bushfield [R., S. D.]—What is it they call that Russian spy system—the OGPU? It would certainly be nice to have one of those in our own country.

Sen. Moore [R., Okla.]—It looks as if we are not going to have too much confidence in our neighbors and our present allies in the post-war world if we are going to spy on them. Bill Donovan apparently formulated this plan on a request from the President. This is just another concentration of power in the President following the pattern of the collectivist states.

Sen. Capehart [R., Ind.] — I'm against any new super-duper Gestapo or spy system. We certainly have an efficient FBI which has proved itself capable of taking care of any domestic situation which may arise. Foreign intelligence should be under army or navy direction.

Enough Prying Now.

Sen. Wherry [R., Neb.]—I'm not in favor of any other federal bureau to absorb anything. We know they don't absorb them. If the report is true, I'm against any super-duper agency to pry into the private lives of American citizens. We have enough agencies doing that now.

Sen. Revercomb [R., W. Va.]—It

Welcome Sign Awaits Chief of Mine Union

BY GEORGE HARTMANN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Miami, Fla., Feb. 9.—Altho William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, continued to contend that the AFL executive board in session here is still discussing the re-affiliation of John L. Lewis and his United Mine Workers' union, the UMW is back in the AFL except for a few minor formalities, it was learned today.

A letter which the executive council voted yesterday to send to Lewis was mailed today.

Want Written Pledge.

Lewis is asked to put in writing a verbal agreement previously made with Green that he will come back into the AFL with his membership intact and afterward allow the AFL council to judge whether members of district 50 of the UMW, who are claimed by other AFL unions, should be transferred to those AFL unions.

Since Lewis previously agreed, no trouble is expected in getting Lewis to approve the arrangement in writing. The council expects to have Lewis' reply by Monday or Tuesday. Then all that remains is for the council to vote him back into the AFL.

May Ignore PMW.

Since the AFL board has made no decision on the protests of the AFL Progressive Mine Workers' union to the UMW's reëntry into the AFL, it is expected the PMW's pleas will be ignored, as Lewis has said he will "not interfere with the PMW."

AFL leaders have said repeatedly that "the 35,000 members of the PMW can't be let to stand in the way of the return of the 500,000 miners in the UMW." John Marchiando, PMW president who appeared before the council Wednesday, said afterward the "PMW might secede from the AFL if the UMW is brought back."

PROTEST ODT'S BAN ON CHURCH, LODGE MEETINGS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9 (AP).—Several house members voiced indignation today over ODT's convention ban after Rep. Rich [R., Pa.] reported an ODT regional office at Scranton, Pa., had forbidden a meeting of the Wyoming conference [Southern New York and North Pennsylvania] of the Methodist Episcopal church.

"If the churches can't have these annual meetings the churches of this country will be retarded," he said.

Rep. Rankin [D., Miss.] declared a similar ban has befallen the Masonic Grand lodge in his state and protested: "It violates the Constitution."

"You've been asking for it," chided Rep. Hoffman [R., Mich.]. "This is a typical New Deal invasion into the churches. What more can you expect when you find Earl Browder [communist leader] in the same political bed as the President of the United States."

The five airmen, Lt. William Spellman, 20, Jeffersonville, Ind.; Capt. Lorne W. A. Frame, 20, Ottawa, Ont.; Lt. Don Steepe, Sudbury, Ont.; Lt. Alfred Richter, 28, Chicago, and Lt. William Watson, 22, Ottawa, Ont., knew her as "Mom."

She eluded attention of the Gestapo by pretending she was dying of cancer. Carrying clothes baskets full of food from a little farm, she made frequent trips to Paris to feed allied flyers taking refuge there. Regarding the five men at the reunion she said:

"I took them to Paris, dressed in civilian clothes, where they were kept by several women until their escape could be arranged."

SENATORS HEAR GENERALS' TALE OF DOG 'BLAZE'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—Two generals and a colonel came up to the capitol today to tell a senate military affairs subcommittee the true story of the Roosevelt dog Blaze. Chairman Stewart [D., Tenn.] promised the subcommittee will make public tomorrow the secret of why Col. Roosevelt's bull mastiff was permitted to bump three service men off a plane Jan. 11 at Memphis, Tenn.

The officers who testified were Maj. Gen. Harold L. George, commanding general of the army air transport command; Brig. Gen. Wilton B. Persons, chief of the legislative and liaison division of the war department general staff, and Col. James H. Douglas Jr. of the ATC.

It was indicated the subcommittee has made so many discoveries about Blaze and travel priorities that the scope of the subcommittee's investigation may be broadened.

Wooden Leg Has More Uses than Being Stood On

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 9.—A crippled American internee at Santo Tomas had a foolproof method of hoodwinking the Japanese guards and carrying about a veritable treasure cache thru three years of imprisonment. Arthur Feldman, Blue network correspondent, said tonight that by pressing here and there on his wooden leg small pieces of wood fell out, revealing where he kept his most precious belongings.

Hide 23 Days in Loft Over Nazis' Heads

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE U. S. 7TH ARMY, in Alsace, Feb. 6 [Delayed].—The two soldiers lay on adjoining cots in the evacuation hospital.

Staff Sgt. Warren E. Maue, 26, of Dayton, O., on Jan. 14 had weighed 220 pounds. Now he was down to 180. Pvt. Richard W. Hartman, 25, of Lancaster, N. Y., had weighed 150 pounds. Tonight he was down to a haggard 100 pounds.

A few hours ago they were brought out of Herrlisheim, that village nine miles southeast of Haguenau which the Americans reentered today.

Maue was the leader of a rifle squad with an armored infantry battalion. Hartman was a medical aid man with the battalion. For 23 days they had been cut off and hidden in enemy held Herrlisheim.

Cut Off From Company.

Maue told some of the story tonight. Hartman couldn't do any talking.

"Just before 5 a. m. on Jan. 14, my company and three others attacked Herrlisheim," Maue related. "We had gotten into the village when some Heinies hidden behind the railroad tracks to our right opened up on our flank. About ten of us went out to take care of them. Then four German tanks swung in behind us and there were 250 German infantrymen with them.

"We were cut off sure enough, and the order was given, 'Every man for himself.' I ran amost head-on into a Heinie tank, and I hit the dirt. There was some one alongside me. It was Hartman.

Sprint for the Barn.

"When darkness came we ran for a barn and climbed into the hayloft. We buried ourselves under the hay. It was cold, about 10 above zero. We had no rations and only one canteen of water.

"The Germans came around and set up their defenses. They shoved a Tiger [60 ton] tank thru the door of our barn, just below the hayloft, and put a guard on it. Other Germans parked in the little house near the barn.

"We were under the hay for eight days, and we hardly moved. We tried to keep each other warm. We kept the canteen between our bodies, so the water wouldn't freeze.

"Every day the krauts would kill chicken, ducks, and rabbits belonging to the owner of the place. When they cooked the food it was awful to lie there, smelling those things roasting. The kitchen window wasn't more than 20 feet from us. Those guys baked, too, and we smelled the fresh bread. I think when this war is over I'll park in a bakery for a week and smell the bread.

"Sometimes chickens eluded the Germans and flew up near the hay loft. The Germans took pot shots at the fowl and there were a lot of holes in the barn roof, but Hartman and I were never hit. Heinies coming up into the loft nearly stepped on us a few times.

"On the eighth night we were so desperate for food we took a chance and slipped down a ladder. We weren't expecting to escape from the town, we were just searching for something to eat.

"We got by a careless sentry and found some frozen potato and apple peelings in a trash can. We went up in the loft with that. We caught some snow in our helmets and when it melted we drank it.

Finds Some Rotten Plums.

"I went down the ladder four more nights, but Hartman was too weak to go along.

"We didn't know the days but we had the time of day because I kept my wrist watch wound. Then one time we gathered that the Americans were attacking the town.

"The next day the Germans began pulling out, but we couldn't take a chance and come out yet. Finally, today, we heard kids' voices. I dragged myself to the hayloft door. The place was deserted, and I went down the ladder. I found a G. I. on the street.

"We went back and got Hartman. They had to carry him, and one G. I. had to support me, too."

SUBS SINK A WARSHIP AND 5 MERCHANTMEN OFF CANADIAN COAST

HALIFAX, N. S., Feb. 9 (AP).—Long range German submarines, sniping at allied convoys bound into and out of Canadian ports this winter, torpedoed a Canadian warship and five merchantmen within one period of 22 days off the Nova Scotia coast, it was disclosed tonight.

The sinkings included the Canadian minesweeper Clayoquot, a Canadian merchant ship, and four vessels of other nationalities. A total of 36 men, eight navy men and the rest merchant seamen, lost their lives.

The loss of the Clayoquot was announced by the navy Jan. 31 but details did not become available until a censorship ban was lifted tonight.

M'ARTHUR MEN PUSH ON UNDER JAP SHELLFIRE

Foe's Final Stand, General Says.

MANILA, Feb. 10 [Saturday]—(AP).—American infantrymen, driving down mined streets against pillboxes and mortars firing from the upper stories of office buildings, gained 2,000 yards toward Manila's dock area yesterday. It was clear the trapped Japanese defenders would contest every yard of ground.

Gen. MacArthur, describing the enemy's resistance there as a "final stand," said today the house to house fighting was "of the fiercest."

Enemy-set fires still were burning in three sections of Manila but appeared to be diminishing. Maj. Gen. Oscar W. Griswold, commander of the 14th corps, said "a lot of this destruction is wanton and of no military purpose."

Can't Stop Demolition.

Griswold said the Americans were virtually powerless to stop the enemy demolition crews who have turned much of Manila's heart into ruins.

The 13th infantry Yanks driving southwestward from their amphibious crossing of the Pasig river were heading into the flame-swept Intramuros district, a virtual death trap for its concentrated populace. In the Intramuros district the enemy made clear with mortars and entrenchments that the American campaign to clean up the southern half of Manila would be long and bitter.

The Intramuros, or old walled city, is between the Malacanan palace, where the Pasig river was crossed, and the south Manila docks. This commercial-residential district containing great numbers of Filipinos and Chinese was set afire by enemy demolition charges Thursday.

Fight from House to House.

Five battalions of the 148th and 129th infantry regiments crossed the Pasig Thursday morning and were fighting from house to house.

The Japanese were using their mortars with good effect and considerable damage to buildings.

In the Tondo district, along the waterfront just north of the Pasig's mouth, the Japanese tried to land a barge load of reënforcements, but these were wiped out.

To the south, two Japanese counter-attacks near Tagaytay, where the 11th air borne paratroopers landed to begin their lightning drive into south Manila, were repulsed. On Bataan, 38th division troops reached the town of Moron in a 10 mile advance from Olongapo.

Sixth division Yanks secured crossings on the upper Pampanga river at Rizal and Bongabong in clearing the enemy from the upper section of the central Luzon plain.

Nazi 'Jets' Fly Rings Around U. S. Bombers

LONDON, Feb. 9 (AP).—A mighty force of 1,300 American heavy bombers—guarded by almost 900 fighters—faced the greatest challenge of German jet planes today and escaped with a loss of 19 bombers and three fighters.

The heavy bombers made a 4,000 ton assault on the 174 acre synthetic oil plant at Lutzkendorf, small arms and truck factories at Weimar, and railway yards at Magdeburg.

The Germans, using new tactics against the American aerial blows, sent up jet propelled Messerschmitt 262s which flashed in and out of the bomber formations, literally flying rings around the heavy craft.

Baffled gunners aboard the Flying Fortresses and Liberators failed to shoot down any of these attackers, flying at a speed of 10 miles a minute, but escorting Mustang pilots knocked down five of the jets.

41 Destroyed on Ground.

Eighteen ordinary type Messerschmitt and Focke Wulf fighters also were blasted from the sky and 41 German planes were destroyed on the ground.

One witness told of a Flying Fortress crippled and forced to hide in clouds after a 15 minute attack by the "jetties" had left the Fortress gunners dizzy.

Sgt. Michael W. Goff, a gunner on the Fortress, gave this description of the battle:

"Three jets came in on our tail using very unusual tactics. They were so fast that they were running circles around the tail, attacking from one side and then the other when they got within about 50 yards. They came in at top speed with their jets going full blast. After about 15 minutes one of our engines was hit and we had to head for home and finally hid in a cloud."

"Quick Flip and Then Away."

A Fortress co-pilot, Capt. Francis M. Smith, Pasadena, Cal., said:

"The jets would come diving out of the sun or climbing up out of the clouds to within about 50 feet of the Fort. There would be a quick burst of fire, then they would flip over and get away fast."

Bomber crews said the jet planes attacked singly or in pairs, with ME-109s hovering in the distance to guard against American fighter interference.

First Break in Defenses.

A spokesman at United States air headquarters said this was the first time the jet planes had probed thru the American defenses and attacked the bombers, which usually plod along in formation at about 150 miles an hour.

American heavy bombers from the United States 15th air force based in Italy also attacked the reich during the day, hitting the petroleum plant of Moosbierbaum 22 miles northwest of Vienna.

An air force spokesman in Britain said later that "we believe that at the present time all crude oil refineries in Germany are out of production."

MESSAGES FROM YANKS.

PARIS, Feb. 9 (AP).—The Canadian 1st army broadened the front of its big new offensive to almost 10 miles today after sweeping up 14 towns in gains of nearly five miles, and drove to within four miles of flaming Kleve, imperiled northern fortress of Germany's western defenses.

The fury of the assault from the west mounted on a 200 mile front as Gen. Crerar's Canadian and British forces battered eastward between the Rhine and Maas [Meuse] rivers 27 miles from Wesel, at the northwestern corner of the Ruhr valley—last great source of the enemy's war potential.

Field Marshal Montgomery threw reënforcements into the mounting battle. Canadians and Tommies were slogging thru the mud against still relatively light resistance about 360 miles from the Russians on the eastern front.

Deep Into Reich Forest.

In the second day of the offensive they already were well into the Reichwald—a forest protecting Kleve from the west—and were hacking into the Siegfried line.

It was possible that at some point the attack had carried thru the first of three defense belts which make up the west wall on this front.

A front dispatch timed at 5 p. m., reporting the broadening of the assault lines, said the prisoner count had risen to 1,800.

Four hundred British bombers and fighter bombers pounded enemy positions ahead of the ground troops. Nearly 1,200 other warplanes bombed communication lines in an attempt to seal off the front from enemy reënforcements.

Move Thru Mine Fields.

Canadian and British troops plunging deeply into the Reichwald—cut by trenches and reënforced to guard the west wall's communications—had seized Frasselt, four miles west of Kleve and eight miles north of Goch, a second traffic nerve center.

The railway town of Kranenburg, a mile north of Frasselt, also fell and troops pushed out east on to the main highway to Kleve, capturing the village of Tuthees.

The northern wing of the attack was moving thru mine fields and trenches with which the Germans had extended northward the west wall [Siegfried line] defenses that once ended at Kleve. These forces captured the Dutch town of Leuth, a mile south of the Rhine. Flood waters of the Rhine spread over this sector and the attackers were using amphibious tanks.

Close In on Big Dam.

Eighty-five miles to the south Lt. Gen. Hodges' American 1st army outflanked the giant Schwammenauel dam, whose pent-up waters could be unloosed to crush any British and American drive on the Ruhr from their springboard positions north and east of Aachen. The Americans seized Hasenfeld, less than a mile east of the dam.

The 78th division advanced to within machine gun range of the giant dam behind one of the heaviest artillery barrages ever fired by that army. The guns were seeking out the Germans dug in east and north of the dam.

3D ARMY PERILS PRUEM

BY ROBERT CROMIE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH U. S. 3D ARMY ON THE SURE RIVER LINE, Feb. 9.—Small but consistent gains were registered today along Lt. Gen. Patton's entire 3d army front, with all 10 of the two day old crossings of the Sure and Our rivers either enlarged or strengthened despite mortar and machine gun fire from Siegfried line pilliboxes.

The strategically important town of Pruem in Germany toward the northern end of the 3d army line, was threatened from all sides, with the nearest troops less than a mile distant. Many of the roads comprising the Pruem network of highways are under our control.

Toward the southern flank the Echternach crossing, whose defenders are still being supplied largely by air, now is two and a half miles wide and one and one-half miles deep, altho some pillboxes are still holding out within that area.

Red Cross Flag Gets Thru.

The problem of evacuating wounded from that particular sector was eased today with the use of a motor driven assault boat flying a Red Cross flag, which, while definitely under Nazi observation, has not yet been fired upon.

Other major crossings include that at Dillingen, a mile and a half southeast of Wallendorf, now more than a mile wide and a mile deep; the Wallendorf lodgment across the Our river, where two counter-attacks were repulsed, which is a mile and a half wide and a half mile deep, and that three miles north of Dasburg, which is nearly a mile deep and a mile and a half wide.

Several small towns have been captured along the 3d army front. One crack infantry division, which is expert in the present type of fighting, cleaned up 129 pillboxes yesterday and Wednesday. This is a magnificent job, but hardly puts a dent in the total of more than 2,500 pillboxes known to lie in the area.

Rivers Main Obstacle.

Altho there is still heavy fire on crossing sites, the principal enemy remains the rivers themselves and the terrain beyond. The Sure, normally 50 feet wide at one point, now is 120 feet across, with a current about 11 miles an hour, and steep cliffs rise on both sides.

One unit which yesterday was largely supplied by tiny Piper Cubs today also was supplied by Thunderbolts of the 19th tactical air force, each dropping three belly tanks loaded with K rations. Among the Thunderbolt pilots was 2d Lt. Alfred M. Flater of Ida Grove, Ia.

Cub planes made about 30 trips without damage yesterday. Sgt. Fred Tebo of 184 W. Washington st., Chicago, accompanied a pilot as observer and helped drop supplies.

Among midwesterners seen today were Pvt. Samuel Friebus, 1605 S. 21st av., Maywood, Ill., who directed us to a fine observation point overlooking one of the Sure river crossings, and Capt. Neil Jantz, Rosendale, Wis., executive officer of one battalion.

28TH DIVISION ON RHINE

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH U. S. 6TH ARMY GROUP, Feb. 9.—When the American 28th infantry division reached the west bank of the Rhine at Gambsheim, nine miles south of Neuf Breisach, it was a partial revenge for the casualties the division suffered in mid-December as Field Marshal von Rundstedt's counter-offensive smashed against it in Belgium. This time it was the 28th, with the French 1st army, which was on the offensive.

Before getting to the Rhine the 28th had to cross the Rhone-Rhine canal and in that process it knocked out a number of German tanks, pillboxes, fortified houses, and a bunker. Staff Sgt. Willie B. Smith of Abingdon, Ill., led the first platoon of the division's 110th regiment over the canal. He had also led the division's first patrol into Germany on Sept. 11.

The speed and intensity of the 28th's drive to the Rhine was indicated in the remarks of Capt. Charles C. Brown of Pleasant Hill, Ill., operations officer of one of the battalions.

"It wasn't until today that I got a chance to read a pocketful of letters I received five days ago," Brown said.

Rhine Bank Cleared.

COLMAR, France, Feb. 9 (AP).—Colmar was in a holiday mood tonight. Lt. Gen. De Tassigny's French 1st army—which includes at least four United States divisions—had broken all organized enemy resistance west of the Rhine in southern Alsace from 10 miles north of Strasbourg to a point near the Swiss border.

Flags fluttered in the sunlight. Excited French troops piled thru the city, and De Tassigny rested in Colmar after his triumphant entry and reception last night.

The only Germans still in any strength in all Alsace were those north of the Moder river, north of Strasbourg, where they were resisting bitterly as Lt. Gen. Patch's United States 7th army tried to knock them out of Oberhoffen.

There was one small pocket left in southern Alsace. That was just north of the Swiss border on the west bank of the Rhine, where the enemy fought viciously in an attempt to hold on to a strategically unimportant sliver of France.

It was disclosed that the total number of Germans captured in southern Alsace since Jan. 28 was 13,888, and the tallying is continuing.

BROTHER AND SISTER, BOTH IN ARMY, VISIT IN DUTCH EAST INDIES

Lt. Alice Blomquist and Sgt. E. H. Blomquist Jr.

Staff Sgt. Ernst H. Blomquist Jr., 27, a reconnaissance photographer in the South Pacific, and his sister, 2d Lt. Alice V., 26, army nurse stationed in a hospital in the Dutch East Indies, held a reunion last month in the East Indies after a separation of three years, their parents, who live at 88 S. Columbine av., Lombard, have learned in a letter from their daughter.

The father said his son recently was sent to New Guinea just as Alice, who had been stationed there, was given a leave. She went to Australia for the Christmas holidays, and was then transferred to the East Indies. When Ernst learned where she was assigned, he hitch-hiked a ride in a transport plane and spent Jan. 26 and 27 with her.

Sgt. Blomquist has been in service four years and was sent overseas last December. Lt. Blomquist enlisted two years ago and went overseas a year later.

BISHOP ASSAILS PLAN FOR HARSH GERMAN PEACE

LONDON, Feb. 9 (AP).—Taking a stand against imposition of a hard peace on Germany and Japan, the bishop of Birmingham asserted today that the Germans would become strong again and that harsh terms would only hasten a new war.

The bishop, Dr. Ernest W. Barnes, 70, told a meeting of the National Peace council that no Christian could approve some peace terms which have been hinted at, adding that they would "bring undeserved suffering to millions of unimportant Germans powerless to influence their country's policy."

"Punishment of so-called war criminals is a matter of little importance," he said. "However, this might be useful as an outlet for popular passion and a Christian might allow that in certain cases it was deserved."

CHICAGO PRIEST WINS STAR FOR GUINEA BRAVERY

WITH THE DIXIE DIVISION, Morotai, New Guinea, Feb. 9 (AP).—Chaplain Capt. Aidan R. Potter, formerly of St. Augustine church, 5045 Laflin st., Chicago, where he edited The Franciscan Herald, has been awarded the silver star by the commander of the 31st division.

Father Potter's reaction to the award was: "Shucks!"

When an LVT came ashore on Morotai in the face of six machine guns which killed or wounded the majority of the occupants, Chaplain Potter left his position 75 yards away and ran to the scene, where he aided and comforted the wounded and dying while under fire.

NAZI FANATICS BATTLE CHAOS IN STRICKEN REICH

LONDON, Feb. 9 (AP).—Heinrich Himmler and his Gestapo held down the lid today on the German reich heaving under increasing invasion blows from east and west.

Reports from continental sources, including Berlin itself, gave a picture of Nazi fanatics battling chaos in anticipation of a last ditch fight within the imperiled capital and beyond that in the innermost reaches of the country. The Nazi radio propaganda agencies were operating haphazardly, with long periods of silence.

Himmler, emerging as the Nazis' "man of steel," called upon the besieged garrison of Schneidemuehl to hold that strongpoint "for me."

Mayor Hanged by Nazis.

The fate of Germans who fail to stand fast was illustrated in the announced execution of another mayor, a man named Schroeter, of the little town of Koenigsberg, between Stettin and Berlin. The German radio announced he had been "hanged for leaving his town without receiving evacuation orders."

This was the third such execution announced by Berlin within a fortnight.

Inside Berlin the Nazis feverishly pressed defense preparations under Himmler's direction.

The German radio itself reminded its listeners that "the Russians once temporarily occupied our capital in the time of Frederick the Great."

Barricades Arise.

The German Transocean agency said barricades and firing points were rising everywhere and that tanks rumbled thru the streets. Swedish correspondents said the Germans were fearful of parachute attacks, and that the eastern suburbs had been evacuated.

The Moscow radio said Himmler had replaced many high Berlin officials with trusted lieutenants of his own.

The Paris radio said foreign slave workers who had escaped prowled the capital, attacking Germans from bomb ruined buildings.

A rumor circulating in Copenhagen said German generals had refused to defend Berlin in accordance with orders already issued, the Swedish newspaper Aftontidningen said.

Hint Big Developments.

A Berlin dispatch to the Swiss newspaper Neue Zuericher Zeitung tonight suggested that important developments were impending in the Nazi capital.

The wireless dispatch described chaotic conditions in Berlin and then said, "Nothing seems to be certain. Maybe the big change, which will overthrow everything and create completely new conditions, will happen tomorrow."

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 9 (AP).—In a simple ceremony at the Book-Cadillac hotel tonight, Miss Agnes Berges of New York City became the bride of Maj. Gen. Ralph Royce, former commanding general of the army air forces' first tactical provisional air force in France. The bride met Gen. Royce while she was a Red Cross worker in Cairo, Egypt. The general's first wife died a year ago.

Flyers Raid Jap Isles from Kuriles to Yap

PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Feb. 10 [Saturday] (AP).—Iwo in the Volcano islands was hammered Thursday for the 64th consecutive day as United States aircraft made wide ranging attacks on Japanese held bases from the Kuriles to Yap, Adm. Nimitz announced today. Three enemy interceptors attacked the United States flight, knocking down one of the bombers. A Japanese fighter was shot down.

BUTTER HITS $13 AND STILL PARIS CAN FIND NONE

BY ROBERT SAGE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Feb. 9.—A small amount of butter still on the black market roared to a price of $10 to $13 a pound today in Paris. Discontent with the food situation, which is growing worse, was approaching the boiling point.

There has been an acute shortage of almost all staples since Christmas but the main source of irritation is the lack of butter. For more than a month not an ounce has been available in stores to holders of ration cards, who had to content themselves in January with two small distributions of low grade margarine. Day after day official reports on the quantity of foodstuffs arriving here have been repeating monotonously, "Butter—none."

Supplies Reported Plentiful.

Yet only a few hours away lie the great dairylands of Normandy and Brittany, where travelers report butter is plentiful. Why a portion of this butter can't be sold to Parisians is something reporters have been trying futilely to learn. All that is known is that none is being brought to Paris by agencies of the food ministry and that black marketeers who try to smuggle in 10 or 20 pounds in a suitcase invariably have their treasure seized by the police on the roads or at railway stations.

Where does all the butter go? There is a rumor in Paris that it is taken home by the English. The average Parisian family believes this report and it hardly makes for better international understanding. Americans come in for their share of the blame, too, as they do when anything goes wrong. The common man believes there would be improvement if the army aided the domestic transport system by furnishing more trucks, tires, and gasoline.

One Trainload Enough.

Railwaymen have stated that one train would be more than enough to transport 400 tons of butter, 3½ ounces for each Parisian.

A newspaper reported two wholesalers had been arrested on a charge of illegally selling five and a half tons of butter and cheese. Another wholesaler, the paper said, offered to deliver 20 tons of butter daily on condition the two prisoners were freed. But the official report said again today: "Butter—none."

$2,500 MINK COAT STOLEN.

Mrs. Patricia Boysen, 237 E. Delaware pl., wife of Navy Comdr. Harry Boysen, now in the Pacific area, yesterday reported to police the theft of her $2,500 mink coat from her apartment.

34 Norwegians Executed in Nazi Reign of Terror

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Feb. 10 [Saturday]—(AP).—Fifteen more Norwegians were executed Friday on charges of being members of a patriotic organization committing sabotage against factories, railways and ships. This brought to 34 the number put to death in the last two days during the Nazis' newest wave of terror in Norway, the official telegraph bureau announced. The executions were reported to be in reprisal for the assassination of Maj. Gen. Carl Martinsen, commander of the Quisling elite guard troops in Norway.

REPORTS THEFT OF $95.

Theft of $95 from his apartment at 4053 Ellis av was reported to police yesterday by James Robbins.

HOUSE TO HOUSE BATTLE RAGES IN MANILA STREETS

Fire Down on Yanks.

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 9 (AP).—The Japanese defense of Manila is so strong and determined that it will take some time to clean the Japs out, NBC Reporter George T. Folster said in a broadcast from Manila tonight.

"The Japs have mounted heavy guns on the second floors of the modern buildings," Folster said. "They are firing down on the American troops practically over open sights, and they are shelling the north bank of the Pasig river in an attempt to impede our progress over the river.

"Many of the streets have been found to be heavily mined, and the removal of these mines is being made very difficult because the Japs are keeping covering shellfire over the whole sector.

"Most of the enemy's big guns and mortars appear to be still intact, for they are continuing a heavy, arresting fire over much of the city of Manila."

American army nurses, flown from Leyte, have arrived on Luzon and are anxious to relieve the army nurse veterans of Bataan and Corregidor who are in the liberated Santo Tomas camp.

ARTILLERY POUNDS YANKS

BY WALTER SIMMONS.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

WITH THE U. S. AIR BORNE DIV., MANILA, Feb. 8 [Delayed].—Paratroopers of Maj. Gen. Joseph M. Swing's 11th air borne division are encountering the severest artillery opposition yet experienced in the Pacific war.

Field pieces and naval guns emplaced in concrete pillboxes on the ridges about Nichols field, along the water front of the city and on high ground to the west pound our troops who are inching their way northward.

From all appearances the Japs had fortified the southern approaches to the city against the anticipated main attack. Some of the pillboxes in the Nichols field area are reported to have six foot roofs of reinforced concrete and cobblestones. Against these most of the 11th division's artillery shells make little impression. It has been necessary to take these strong points one at a time.

YAMASHITA "SATISFIED."

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

American entry into Manila is the signal for the "beginning of our campaign" on Luzon and Gen. Yamashita, the Japanese commander, is "completely satisfied with current developments," a Japanese Domei news agency broadcast said yesterday.

The broadcast was based on a Domei correspondent's report from Luzon, which said Yamashita, conqueror of Malaya and Singapore, had smilingly remarked, "Now the enemy is in our bosom."

This meant, Domei said, that the "general trend of developments on the Luzon front so far has been exactly as he had envisaged and superbly planned."

ALLIED PLANES SLICE RAIL LINES IN NORTH ITALY

ROME, Feb. 9 (AP).—Rail yards at Verona, the crossroads of all-important lines supplying German armies in northern Italy, smoldered today after a massive overnight attack by R. A. F. heavy bombers. Swarms of American medium bombers and fighter-bombers had spent yesterday cutting tracks at 55 places in northern Italy and destroying or damaging 34 locomotives, 100 rail cars, and 107 other vehicles.

Rising temperatures brought a foretaste of spring to the muddy battlefront. In the Serchio valley there was sharp fighting when the Germans attacked in company strength against the newly won allied positions near the village of Barga. A 5th army patrol ambushed 30 Germans northwest of Castelnuovo, between the Serchio river and the west coast, and killed or wounded half the enemy party.

Negro troops of the 92d division, riding on the backs of tanks, made a strong attack in this Ligurian coastal area yesterday and made gains of up to a mile. Artillery and planes supported the surprise thrust.

JAPS' PRISONER WRITES MOTHER CARE OF TRIBUNE

A Tribune reporter yesterday delivered to Mrs. Nyra Timmons, 3755 N. Drake av., a card written to her by her son, Sgt. Wallace L. Timmons, 36, from a prison camp in Japan. The Jap censored card had been addressed to the 78 year old mother in care of Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE TRIBUNE. Mrs. Timmons said it was the fourth message she has received from her son within the last year. "I am well and working for pay," Sgt. Timmons wrote. "Do not worry about me." He sent his regards to several relatives, including a sister, Mrs. Florence Tansor, who has been dead for two years. Sgt. Timmons has been a prisoner of the Japanese since Corregidor was captured.

JAPS TRANSFER WAINWRIGHT TO MUKDEN CAMP

17 Other Generals Also Are Moved.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9 (AP).—The Japanese shifted 177 American prisoners of war, including Lt. Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright, from a prison camp on Formosa to Manchuria, the war department reported today.

Wainwright, who became commander in the Philippines after Gen. MacArthur left for Australia in 1942, was taken prisoner after the surrender of Corregidor on May 6, 1942. Mrs. Wainwright lives in Skaneateles, N. Y.

Eighteen Generals Moved.

The transfer, which may have been a reflection of Japanese fear of an invasion of Formosa, was completed in November, the war department has been advised. The prisoners were moved to Hoten camp at Mukden. The group included 17 generals besides Wainwright, 119 colonels, six navy captains, and 34 enlisted men.

Chicagoans Identified.

Chicagoans and other midwestern prisoners moved to Manchuria, with next of kin, are:

Col. Thomas A. Lynch—Mrs. Grace C. Lynch, 1751 E. 73d st., Apt. 2, Chicago.

Pvt. Edwin A. Wuerst—Mrs. Alto J. Wuerst, 6437 N. Hamilton av., Chicago.

Capt. Robert Gaylord Davis—Mrs. Robert G. Davis, 837 Haskell av., Rockford, Ill.

Col. John W. Thompson—Mrs. J. W. Thompson, 312 St. Larence av., Beloit, Wis.

Col. George Walter Hirsch—Mrs. Edith H. Hirsch, Columbia, S. C., and Mrs. E. R. McLead, Alameda, Cal., and V. A. Hirsch of State Bank of Medford, Medford, Wis.

Col. Archibald M. Mixson—Mrs. Tove A. Mixson, 333 S. State st., Waupaca, Wis.

Col. William H. Braddock—Mrs. William H. Braddock, Wood, Wis.

Col. Frank Nelson—Mrs. Droste S. Nelson, 3 Park pl., Keokuk, Ia.

Pvt. Murrell Nichols—Mrs. Vera Nichols, Traverse City, Mich.

SISTER IN EVANSTON.

Tech. Sgt. Gordon B. Gonzalves, 38, is a brother of Mrs. Georgia Paupeney, 124 Keeney st., Evanston. She said their father, George F. Gonzalves, now of Washington, D. C., received a letter from him a month ago in which he said his health was good. Sgt. Gonzalves, employed by the Marsten Mining company, enlisted in the Philippines in 1942.

FIND KWAJALEIN COULD BE USED AS NAVAL BASE

Kwajalein atoll which the army and navy are developing into a great peace time aviation base, is strategically located for military purposes. It also could be developed into a naval base, for it has a lagoon 66 miles long, large enough to accommodate all the fighting ships of the world.

Kwajalein is the largest of the Marshall Islands, which are all low lying atolls, built up by coral blocks, debris, and sand accumulated by storms and thrown up on reefs by the surf. They include 32 islets and 867 reefs scattered over 800 square miles of the mid-Pacific, and are divided into two parallel chains. On the east is the Radak [sunrise] group; on the west the Ralik [sunset].

The atoll called Kwajalein consists of 90 small flat, sandy islands, all similar in shape and appearance. The largest of these, at the southeastern extremity of the atoll, is called the island of Kwajalein.

20 Entrances to Lagoon.

The island is 2,437 miles from Honolulu and about 1,300 miles north of the shortest shipping and aerial route between Honolulu and Sydney, Australia. Its position is on a direct line between Honolulu and New Guinea.

The lagoon of Kwajalein atoll has at least 20 entrances, but many of them are narrow and have shoal reefs scattered in them. Gea channel, nine miles northwest of Kwajalein atoll, is crooked, but suitable for large vessels. There are not many shoal reefs inside the lagoon, except in the northern part. However, there are many detached reefs near the reef forming the rim of the atoll, especially on the southwest side.

All the Marshall Islands were Spanish possessions from 1686 until 1899, when Germany acquired them by treaty. Under the Germans the islands made progress from the adoption of European economic methods, but their economic importance is still small. Sugar cane industries, a small bauxite deposit, and some phosphate workings provide the only commerce.

Japs Build Defenses.

At the outbreak of World War I, a Japanese expeditionary force took possession of the islands. Japan accepted a league of nations mandate over them in 1919, and made reports on them annually until about 1933. After 1938, when she withdrew from the league, Japan kept her administration a closely guarded secret, and barred foreign shipping. This provided ample opportunity to build up the islands' defenses.

These defenses were crumpled on Feb. 1, 1944 by a terrific land, sea, and air bombardment, which prepared the way for landings on several islands of the atoll by the 4th marine division and the 7th army division. Organized resistance ceased on Feb. 8.

Adm. Nimitz announced that more than 8,000 Japanese were killed in the operation, while the American dead totaled only 286.

BURGLARS TAKE $400.

Walter Kosiba, 3143 W. 19th st., told police yesterday that burglars stole $400, a portable typewriter, and jewelry and other articles valued at another $135 from his home.

IT'S 'GOOD NEWS' ON AIR THEATER THIS EVENING

The Chicago Theater of the Air will present "Good News," musical comedy of the 1920s, over W-G-N, WGNB, and the Mutual Broadcasting system from 9 to 10 o'clock tonight. The program will be broadcast before 4,500 guests in Medinah emple auditorium.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE TRIBUNE, will speak on the program.

Betty Mulliner, New York radio soprano, will sing the rôle of Connie Lane, a beautiful co-ed. Bruce Foote, baritone, will sing the part of Tom Marlowe, football hero.

Dramatic rôles will be taken by Sondra Gair, William Everett, Laurette Fillbrandt, Johnny Coons, Rita Ascot, Carl Kroenke, Arnold Robertson, and John Barclay. Robert Trendler will conduct the W-G-N orchestra and chorus.

Thirty-six members of William McKinley camp, United Spanish War Veterans, will be among the guests. They will be in uniform.

FREED INTERNEES SEE FIRST BREAD IN THREE YEARS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9 (AP).—Hundreds of excited internees crowded around a jeep and trailer loaded with bread which rolled into Bilibid prison in Manila yesterday, the American Red Cross reported. It was the first bread they had seen in three years. They wanted to touch it.

Mrs. Rupert Foley of New Bremen, O., held up her 2 year old son Michael, born in internment, to see. Her husband was interned at Santo Tomas in Manila.

"We tried to make bread of rice flour, but it didn't work," she said. "If we had our choice, we'd take real wheat bread in preference to steak." The bread was baked by the army in San Fernando.

BRITISH ADVANCE 55 MILES IN DEEPEST BURMA PENETRATION

CALCUTTA, India, Feb. 9 (AP).—British 14th army troops, advancing 55 miles from their last reported positions near Tilin on the Myittha river, now are operating against light Japanese resistance at Chauk, 110 miles southwest of Mandalay, allied headquarters announced today.

This advance marked the 14th army's deepest southward penetration in central Burma and constituted a flanking threat to all Japanese communications southward along the Irrawaddy river.

Troops northwest of Chauk across the river now are engaged in mopping up, it was announced. Enemy commanders evidently are experiencing the same difficulties the allies faced in 1942 when they found it impossible to man the entire length of the Irrawaddy.

CHINESE ATTACK IN 3 PROVINCES; TAKE 2 TOWNS

CHUNGKING, China, Feb. 9 (AP).—Successful Chinese counter-attacks in three provinces were reported by the high command tonight as preparations for a Chinese-allied offensive against the Japanese were announced by Maj. Gen. Kung Chi-kuang.

Chinese forces struck back at the invading Japanese in Hunan, Kiangsi, and Kwangtung provinces. They were reported to have recaptured Chihing, 30 miles east of Japanese occupied Kukong, on the Canton-Hankow railroad in Kwangtung.

Recapture of Chihing severed a supply line to Japanese forces which threatened the important wolfram mining center of Tayu in Kiangsi province after pushing past Chihing to take a United States 14th air force base at Namyung.

WARNS SLIGHTS TO CHINA PERIL FUTURE PEACE

Rep. Judd Calls on U. S. to Voice Its Policies.

China's position as an ally is threatened by the philosophy of British imperialism and the lack of a definite statement of American principles of peace making, Rep. Judd [R., Minn.] told the Executives' club in the Hotel Sherman yesterday. Unless Chiang Kai-shek's government is given honest support, Judd said, another war with Japan will see China joining to drive the whites from Asia.

"China is on our side this time because of a great moral decision to fight for democratic principles against race," said Judd. "When the war is over, we will be tempted to withdraw our help, get our boys home and leave China to its own resources. If we succumb to that temptation, God help our children.

Japs Count on Second Chance.

"The Japs do not think they will win this one, but they are confident we will lose and they will have another chance. If we betray China this time, China will be with the Japs next time. And those two can outdo all the white men in the world."

China has held on against Japan, the speaker said, because of the Chinese capacity to "eat bitterness." He said that as a result of strategy determined by President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill, China had received, until a few months ago, only 2 of 1 per cent of the 2 per cent of American supplies allotted to the Pacific war.

"Last September two white men met in Quebec to settle affairs in Asia," he said. "There was no Asiatic present. Churchill said then that after all the lavish help the United States had given China there was nothing but defeats.

"For Burma But Not for China."

"The British didn't do so well after Dunkirk and the Russians couldn't have held out without our help. At the time England had received 26½ million tons of American supplies, China had had 212,000 tons. We have trained Chinese troops to help save Burma for the British empire, but none to help save China.

"We can't do business with China on Churchill's terms. I am not accusing him; I am quoting him. He said he was not made prime minister to liquidate the British empire.

"Why doesn't the United States get a stake driven down, as Stalin and Churchill have? We don't get there first because we wait to hear what the others have to say. Why don't we decide what we stand for? Why don't we make a clear statement that we stand for certain basic principles of freedom?"

FAILURE TO CURB NAZIISM IN WAR CAMPS ASSAILED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—The war department was condemned in the house today by Rep. Sikes [D., Fla.] for permitting "fanatical naziism" to flourish among the 600,000 German prisoners of war he estimated to be under American supervision.

Official reports yesterday gave the number of German prisoners of war in the United States as 305,867. Sikes said his 600,000 estimate included European figures and was based on reliable sources which set the number of Germans under American-British control at more than a million.

Sikes declared the Russians have an intensive program aimed at indoctrinating their German prisoners with soviet theories of government. The British also are busy with plans for the reeducation of prisoners of war, he remarked, but the United States is "doing practically nothing along these lines."

Need Americanism.

"It is common sense," he told the house, "to realize that our experience with German prisoners of war is a foretaste of what we shall meet in dealing with a defeated Germany. I fear that the net result of our policies thus far has been to convince our enemies that we are soft and to strengthen their belief that they can have another try at world conquest as soon as they can ready themselves. If we bungle this job, how shall we expect to fare better in Germany after the firing ceases?"

The prisoner of war, taught to know and appreciate Americanism, would be of valuable assistance in the rebuilding of a democratic Germany, Sikes remarked.

"But the army seems frightened at the idea of doing anything to dampen the fanatical naziism of German prisoners, despite the fact that there is not a word in the Geneva convention which forbids nonforcible propagandizing of prisoners," he asserted. "The soviets are using prisoners and other nationals under their control to set up provisional governments to operate in every country which falls under the Russian sphere of influence. What about spreading a few American doctrines abroad?"

Experience Needed.

The German prisoner of war, eventually returning to his own country, can assist the allies in the establishment of good government, he noted, and a program of education in the prison camps at the same time can give Americans experience in developing effective educational programs for use in Germany in the post-war period.

Secretary of War Stimson doesn't know the facts when he says the prisoners are not being pampered, Sikes said, and the people in the vicinity of the camps are resentful not only of the good food and comforts provided for the Germans, but at lax administration and lack of effort to curb naziism among the captives.

URGES OREGON ACT TO PREVENT RETURN OF JAPS

Gresham, Ore., Feb. 9 [Special].—An estimated 1,000 persons jammed the high school auditorium of this berry growing center tonight to hear Walter M. Pierce, former Democratic governor and congressman, urge immediate legislative action against the return of Japanese to this area.

The meeting was called by the newly organized Oregon Property Owners' Protective league, successor to Oregon Anti-Japanese, Inc.

Pierce accused Gov. Snell [R.] of being afraid to make his views known, and professed astonishment that the Oregon legislature is nearing adjournment without acting.

On the other hand, Pierce asserted, Gov. Wallgren of neighboring Washington has sounded a warning and asked for action. The state of Washington, Pierce said, has filed three court actions to recover land Japs now own in Seattle. He recalled that as governor in 1922 he signed a bill making it illegal for aliens to own property in Oregon. This law, Pierce said, is still on the books and needs to be enforced.

JAP WOMAN, 19, BARRED ONCE, IS IN HOSPITAL

Miss Toyoko Murayama, 19, American born Japanese, of 4000 Lake Park av., who was refused admission to Jackson Park hospital as a patient, was taken into Chicago hospital last night. She will undergo an operation. Her physician, Dr. Selig A. Shevin, World War II., veteran, resigned from the Jackson Park staff after charging the hospital with "intolerance and un-American conduct." Miss Murayama, a domestic, is a Red Cross blood donor and has an uncle and a cousin in the United States army.

MRS. OSMENA, 3 CHILDREN SAVED IN 30 MILE HIKE

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9 (AP).—Mrs. Sergio Osmena, wife of the Philippines president, and three of their children have reached the safety of American lines after a 30 mile hike over mountainous trails.

Their trek was disclosed today but the commonwealth office declined to discuss the adventures of the president's wife and children.

Mrs. Osmena and 10 of the president's 11 children remained in the Philippines when the Japanese captured the islands and presumably hid in the hills until American troops drove to Manila. The eleventh child is in this country. The whereabouts of the seven others who remained with their mother has not been disclosed.

RUSSIANS DRIVE FOR STETTIN; BIG PUSH IN SILESIA

Reds Outflank Breslau, Say Nazi Reports.

LONDON, Feb. 10 [Saturday] (AP).—The Red army swept to within 29 miles of Berlin's Baltic port of Stettin yesterday in its swift drive to seal off all northeastern Germany. The enemy announced that a new "gigantic" soviet southern offensive had deeply outflanked Breslau by rolling 35 miles west of that Silesian capital.

On the Berlin front the Russians were said by the Germans to have crossed the Oder and cut direct north-south communications between Kuestrin, Frankfurt, and Fuerstenberg at points within 35 miles of imperilled Berlin. These three fortresses are Berlin's major shields and the Russians were trying to encircle them.

Report Big Silesian Drive.

German broadcasts said that several Russian armies had been hurled into the swelling Silesian drive that sent soviet spearheads to the edge of Liegnitz, big transit center and manufacturing city of 76,000 astride the direct Berlin-Breslau communication lines.

Breslau's garrison on the upper Oder 35 miles east of Liegnitz was threatened with imminent encirclement, only a 33 mile gap still being left open west of the city. The Russians simultaneously were threatening to break open the door into German Saxony in a wide flanking move thru Liegnitz, which is 135 miles southeast of Berlin.

In East Prussia the Russians drove new spearheads to the Baltic coast and surrounded the harbor city of Elbing, between Koenigsberg and Danzig territory, thus dimming further escape possibilities of the remnants of 200,000 to 250,000 Germans originally trapped in a pocket below Koenigsberg.

Cut Nazi Line in Center.

While the Germans said the heaviest fighting on the eastern front was in Pomerania and Silesia, they also gave further details of the struggle along the Oder due east of the capital.

The Russians were disclosed to have built a bridgehead on the river's west bank at Lebus, five miles north of Frankfurt, cutting direct lines between that fortress and Kuestrin.

South of Frankfurt other soviet units which recently crossed the river were said to have cut lines between there and Fuerstenberg. The Russians also were fighting in the outskirts of Frankfurt's eastern suburb of Damm after whittling down the slender Nazi holdings on the east bank.

One German broadcast also told of a new soviet penetration to the Oder opposite Schwedt, 36 miles northwest of besieged Kuestrin, and said the Russians apparently intended to try to cross the Oder in that area 45 miles northeast of Berlin.

Big Barrage Laid Down.

Moscow dispatches said Marshal Zhukov's 1st White Russian army was laying down one of the heaviest artillery barrages of the war on German lines between the Oder and Berlin.

Attacking on a 30 mile front in Pomerania, northeast of Berlin, the Russians rolled within 10 miles southeast of Stargard, big communications center on the Stettin-Danzig railway and highway, with the capture of Brallentin, 29 miles from Stettin, capital of Pomerania.

The Russians gained up to 11 miles in their swift move to reach Stettin and seal off thousands of German troops in Pomerania in a movement similar to their recent encirclement of 20 to 25 Nazi divisions in East Prussia.

Few Nazis in Budapest.

Miles to the south units of another soviet army captured 15 more blocks in the western part of Budapest, Hungarian capital, and took more than 900 prisoners. Reports from Moscow indicated that less than one German division still was holding out.

Southwest of Budapest Marshal Tolbukhin's 3d Ukraine army was fighting its way back toward Szekesfehervar, 32 miles from the Hungarian capital, over ground lost to a German counter-attack in January.

WOMAN ROBBED OF $2,000.

Mrs. Irene Pangos, 32, of 747 S. Lombard av., Oak Park, was robbed by two men on Van Buren st. near Canal st. yesterday of $2,000, the week's receipts of her father's restaurant at 336 S. Canal st., she told police. The men shook her and ran with the box in which she carried the money.

Nurse Wanda Kronmiller holding Jacqueline Loster in the Norwegian American hospital yesterday.

Jacqueline Marie Loster who weighed 1 pound 15 ounces after she was born Nov. 12 at the Norwegian American hospital, tipped the scales at a healthy 6 pounds 7 ounces yesterday. Hospital authorities said the mother, Mrs. Florence Loster, 1239 N. Harding av., could take the baby home tomorrow. The baby's father, Corp. John E. Loster, has been overseas since last August.

TELLS OF NAZIS' SPYING ON U.S. ROCKETS, PLANES

New York, Feb. 9 (AP).—William Curtis Colepaugh's statement that he and Erich Gimpel, accused as Nazi spies, came to this country to obtain war information for Germany about shipbuilding, airplanes, and rockets was entered against him today in their trial before a seven man military commission.

Colepaugh was quoted as saying the mission was to last two years. Colepaugh, a native of Niantic, Conn., and Gimpel, a German electrical engineer, are accused of entering the United States by submarine the night of last Nov. 29 to commit espionage and sabotage.

FBI Agent Allan H. Belmont read a statement he said Colepaugh made regarding his mission.

Colepaugh also was quoted as saying "The German government and Hitler looked good to me." He said he returned to the United States as a German agent, instead of joining the German army as he hoped to do, because "from what I have seen in Germany, it is necessary that you do what you are told."

Clear 100,000,000 Words Thru Censors Since D-Day

PARIS, Feb. 9 (AP).—More than 100,000,000 words of news have been cleared thru censorship since D-day, supreme headquarters announced today. SHAEF and British ministry of information censors have passed 1,500,000 photographs and approximately 3,000,000 feet of moving picture film.

WHAT NAZIS SAY ABOUT FIGHTING ON EAST FRONT

The German war bulletin as broadcast yesterday by Berlin and recorded by the Associated Press said:

"The garrison of Budapest still is holding out parts of the city in front of the castle against ever-increasing enemy attacks. South of Belencze Lake, units of the Waffen S. S. threw the soviets out of a penetration dent and destroyed 16 tanks.

"In Slovakia and north of the western Beskids the soviets continued their attacks without achieving notable success.

"In tough resistance our troops prevented the enemy from achieving the desired expansion of his two bridgeheads north of Raitbor and in the area of Brieg.

"In the area of Steinau the soviets launched strong attacks. In heavy fighting which extended almost to the east fringe of Liegnitz, 80 enemy tanks thus far were destroyed."

LUBLIN REGIME BALLYHOO LED BY LEFT WINGER

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9 [Special].—A delegation of Polish-Americans headed by State Sen. Stanley Nowak of Michigan, a New Deal politician once indicted on a charge of falsifying a naturalization statement, today urged the state department to recognize the soviet sponsored Lublin provisional government of Poland.

The delegation declared that an understanding with Russia is essential to any permanent peace and expressed doubt that a compromise ever could be reached with the Polish government in exile in London.

The Lublin government, which many Polish-Americans assert is Russian inspired and does not represent the Polish people, has been recognized by Russia as the legal government of Poland. The United States and Great Britain continue to recognize the Polish government in exile, which maintains headquarters in London.

Alleged Communist Leader.

Nowak is a foreign born Pole who allegedly helped organize the American Communist party in 1919 and was still a member in 1938 the year when he became a citizen of this country.

A Democrat of Detroit, Mich., he was indicted in his home city on Dec. 11, 1942, on a charge of violating the naturalization laws. He was accused of falsely stating, at the time of his request for naturalization, that he was not affiliated with any organization "whose principles teach the overthrow of organized government."

Nowak was known in the Michigan legislature as a left winger. He also had been an organizer for the CIO United Automobile Workers, was dismissed, and later was an organizer for another CIO union, the restaurant workers. He was a leader in an unsuccessful fight to try to prevent the Communist party ticket being removed from the Michigan ballot in 1941.

Cleared by Biddle.

However, the charge that he falsified his oath in his request for citizenship was dismissed Feb. 8, 1943, on the written motion of Atty. Gen. Biddle, who said he felt that membership in the Communist party should not be the basis for criminal prosecution.

Nowak lived in Chicago after coming to this country when he was 10. He was educated in night schools there, worked as an office boy, and later as reporter for a Polish newspaper. He participated in a Chicago stockyards strike in 1921 and for some time prior to going to Detroit in 1932 was active in Chicago as an organizer for the Amalgamated Clothing workers.

Nowak's delegation to Washington talked with senators and representatives and submitted to the state department a 3,000 word memorandum seeking support of the delegation's demands and complaining about the tactics of their opponents.

Calls for "Free" Poland.

The memorandum urged that [1] Poland be reconstituted, not only as a buffer but as a strong independent state with control over industry of Silesia and the Baltic coast up to the Oder, and [2] that proper machinery be set up to insure a free and Democratic plebiscite in Poland.

Nowak said the delegation represented the Polish labor council, the American Slav congress, the Kosciusko league, the People's Voice weekly, and the Polonia society.

Judge Charles S. Dougherty in Felony court yesterday dismissed charges of taking indecent liberties with a girl, 11, against Leroy Lyons, 27, of 3036 Princeton av., after the court was told Lyons was scheduled for induction in the army next Tuesday.

LONDON POLES ASK JUSTICE, CITING AID TO RUSSIAN ARMY

LONDON, Feb. 9 (AP).—The London Polish government claimed today that Poland had made specific as well as general contributions to the campaigns of the Red army and the western allies and demanded "justice and respect for her rights." In a statement issued as a tribute to the recently disbanded home army, the government urged the Polish nation "to keep the stand it took in 1939 when its independence and rights were threatened."

In addition to the Polish air, sea, and land forces fighting with the western allies, the statement cited the home army's guerrilla warfare behind the German lines and intelligence work for the allies including the first news of buzz bombs.

The statement asserted: "The work and struggle of the home army was made all the more difficult by the fact that after having taken advantage of their aid the advancing soviet armies immediately proceeded to disarm Polish units, imprison soldiers in concentration camps and deport them and some times even shoot Polish officers."

LABOR MEETING KILLS INVITATION TO LUBLIN POLES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 9.—In the face of British opposition, the world trade union conference in London today dropped a proposal to invite attendance by delegates from Polish unions with headquarters in Lublin. The committee considering the invitation failed to agree and the conference accepted its recommendation to forget the whole matter, as further discussion would "be harmful to world trade union unity and give the press an opportunity to comment on our divisions."

Labor leaders, discussing the post-war treatment of Germany supported unconditional surrender and demanded the punishment of war criminals, restitution of stolen property, and complete demilitarization of the reich. Walter Citrine, trade union congress general secretary, suggested international bodies should control the Rhine and Danube valleys.

Tho many delegates demanded the Germans provide man power to repair damage done in allied countries, Citrine said it was unlikely Britain and the United States would make any claim on German labor.

CANADIAN SAYS WORLD LOOKS TO U.S. LEADERSHIP

The world looks for leadership to the United States, which has inherited obligations and responsibilities along with its position as the dominant creditor nation, James S. Duncan, industrialist of Toronto, Canada, told the English-Speaking union yesterday at a luncheon in the Blackstone hotel.

He said the only hope of the establishment of lasting peace lies in a United States that is aware of its importance and a Britain that is restored to economic strength.

"If, having fought and won the war together," he continued, "we should, on account of misunderstandings, of intolerance, of political or commercial rivalries, rend asunder the ties which have bound us together in war, then there seems little hope of the lasting era of peace for which the world yearns."

Duncan is the chairman of the recently formed British-American-Canadian agricultural and food machinery committee, which is dealing with the problem of the world's requirements in farm implements.

D.S.C. AWARDED TO CHICAGOAN WHO BEAT JAPS

Pvt. Amedeo Mungai.

Pvt. Amedeo Mungai, 28, of 1246 Wellington av., has been awarded the distinguished service cross for destroying single handed a Japanese pillbox on Bougainville Island March 24, 1944, the war department announced yesterday. Mungai leaped atop the pillbox, tossed two hand grenades thru gun slots, caught three more grenades lobbed to him by a comrade, also dropped them into the pillbox, and wound up his gallant act by killing a Japanese who was about to shoot a Yank officer.

Another Chicagoan, Pfc. Arthur Frosinotes, 3519 S. Halsted st., was awarded the silver star for heroism in the Solomon Islands March 22, 1944. Frosinotes assumed command of his group, got his wounded leader to safety, and then directed the outfit successfully.

Col. J. F. R. Seitz, 212 E. Westminster rd., Lake Forest, and his regiment have received a Presidential citation for action against the Germans Dec. 16, his wife, Helen, learned yesterday. Col. Seitz holds the silver star, the bronze star, and the combat badge.

OCEAN EPIC HERO TELLS OF WORK TO AID VETERANS

Operations of the United States Christian commission were described yesterday by Lt. James C. Whittaker, who was co-pilot of the plane on which Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker was lost in the Pacific for three weeks in the autumn of 1942. Lt. Whittaker, now on the reserve list, was rescued with Rickenbacker and other crew members. He said that the commission raises funds which are distributed in various forms by service chaplains to wounded fighters. Lt. Whittaker, whose home is in Burlingame, Cal., is on a lecture tour in behalf of the commission. The organization is nondenominational, not for profit, and dedicated solely to the betterment of disabled fighters in need, he said.

Henri Charpentier's Column

General MacArthur and his valiant soldiers have kept faith and America's word of honor. "We shall return," they said. For three years a cloud covered the sun, the symbol of the American flag. But Old Sol broke through at last, saying, "Under this banner, the Stars and Stripes, lives a race of people who are kind and honorable and who are fighting to protect civilization and the Liberty of mankind—not like the Sons of Heaven who are a race of cheaters. Buy more bonds. God bless America.

Women's hands are a great worry to us

IF EVER you have had trouble keeping your hands white and smooth—that trouble is multiplied today.

So it may be of more than ordinary interest to you to learn how seriously Good Housekeeping takes your hand problems.

Years ago, we set up a guiding principle for Good Housekeeping Magazine. We decided that this magazine must provide you with material upon which you could depend—which would consistently represent "the best interests of the public."

With this as our aim, we analyze, examine and re-examine ideas, methods and products—thinking always of how they will best serve you.

We take no beauty claims for granted

Suppose a manufacturer says your hands can be lovelier within a given time, if you use his mild soap for dishes, instead of a strong soap.

Do you know what we do for you? First of all our chemists analyze the soap.

Then we actually put girls to work washing dishes. In one such case, we had them wash breakfast, lunch, and dinner dishes every day for four weeks.

They used a strong soap for two weeks. Then their hands were photographed. (Color photos, that showed every trace of redness and irritation.)

After that, dishes were washed with the mild soap for two weeks. Then we took more photographs. And the two sets of photographs were compared.

While all this went on, the dishwashers' hands were examined daily by the head of our Beauty Clinic. Her findings were recorded. Charts were kept, including even such details as temperature and rainfall—to make allowance for chill or wet weather.

An accredited dermatologist checked our findings . . . to make doubly sure results were scientifically correct.

If our investigations hadn't proved to our satisfaction that the manufacturer's claims were justified, you would never have read his advertisements in Good Housekeeping Magazine!

You see, we try to make sure that the advertising information you get from our pages is as accurate as the editorial information.

That's how far we go to deserve your faith, your confidence in Good Housekeeping.

What touches your hands touches our interest

To give you dependable advice about hand creams, we have testers try out a new cream on one hand and elbow, and a lotion whose effect we know on the other.

We check for dampness, stickiness, and odor . . . as well as the effect on the skin.

When we examine nail polish for wear, we give our testers two manicures, a week apart, then observe results carefully. We count the nicks and chips . . . and their size. We see whether the polish stays glossy or grows dull.

A cuticle softener must demonstrate that it softens cuticle without irritation, and easily—before we give it our OK.

So that we may see the effect of two toilet soaps on the skin, dozens of women soak hands, to the elbow, for 20 minutes at a time, three times a week for a month.

When a preparation is supposed to protect skin from grease and dirt during work, our testers give it a work-a-day work-out with grease-stain, ink-stain, and paint-stain. And if it doesn't help protect hands from stain you'll never see a word about it in our editorial or advertising pages.

All this takes time and trouble . . . money, and a patient, skilled staff. But we'd not be content with less.

For we've won your confidence through just such effort. And that's the way we propose to keep it.

Polish must come off easily, as well as go on that way. So our Beauty Expert tries a new polish remover on the hands of testers, who then get free manicures.

So that you can count upon us in the future, as you have up to now, we make you this pledge, a pledge which embodies a principle:

That at no time, and not for any reason, or any profit, will any page of Good Housekeeping—editorial or advertising—trade unfairly on your trust.

TUOHY WILL SUE TO VOID ICKES' TAX CUT FOR '43

County Then Can Sell Loop Building.

State's Atty. Tuohy's office announced yesterday that court action will be started next week in an attempt to invalidate a $4,274 tax cut granted by the board of tax appeals to Secretary of the Interior Ickes on his five story building at 231-33 S. State st.

The court action was decided upon after an earlier plan by Tuohy had run into a snag in the person of County Treasurer Schlaeger. In either case the goal was the same: Sale of "Honest Harold's" loop property on the allegation that he had made misstatements as to income in getting the big tax reduction.

The projected court proceedings will culminate Tuohy's inquiry into the manner in which Ickes obtained the cut. In person and thru an agent, Ickes had contended that his annual rental income was about $24,000 a year, and that in 1943, the tax year involved, he had incurred a loss.

$35,000 Profit Indicated.

Assessor Clark later showed, however, that the building rental was above $61,000 a year, and that Ickes had made $35,000 profit. The opposite showing made by Ickes was possible, it developed, thru a dummy operating corporaton which he owned, and to which he charged his own income—paid out in the form of rent—as expenses.

Ickes won the tax reduction last December, at which time he owed $10,000 in taxes. The cut slashed that figure to $6,009, which he paid. Meanwhile, however, he had been declared in default in County court, and on Nov. 13, Judge Edmund K. Jarecki had ordered his property sold, along with others.

It is on the basis of that Nov. 13 order that Tuohy plans to proceed against Ickes. He first sent a letter to Schlaeger in which he advised the treasurer to sell Ickes' property on the ground that the tax cut was illegal.

Misstatement of Facts Charged.

"We have ascertained," Tuohy wrote, "that the certification of revision [the tax cut] was obtained by a misstatement of fact with reference to the income of the property in question."

Schlaeger replied he was fearful that if he tried to collect more taxes than showed in the tax warrant his action would be illegal. He suggested that, if the tax cut was obtained "by a misstatement of fact," it might be possible to have the tax cut voided in court. In that case, he said, "I feel I could properly offer the property for sale for the alleged unpaid balance."

Jacob Shamberg, Tuohy's assistant who has worked on the Ickes matter, promptly said the alternative would be to go into County court—probably Tuesday—and ask that the tax cut be nullified.

POSTPONE TESTS FOR PATROLMEN UNTIL AFTER WAR

Walter L. Gregory, chairman of the city civil service commission, said yesterday that examinations for the promotion of police patrolmen to sergeants, or for the permanent appointment of new patrolmen, will not be given until after the war.

It would be an injustice to the patrolmen in military service to hold an examination before they return, he said. There has not been an examination for the appointment of sergeants in seven years. Thirty-five Negroes have passed examinations for temporary appointment as patrolmen without civil service status and will enter training in another week.

The final graded papers of all lieutenants who took examinations last September for promotions to captaincies may be seen by the lieutenants in the civil service commission's office, Gregory said yesterday. Unsuccessful candidates for promotions have complained that the commission refused to show them their graded papers. Gregory said the papers were withheld until final ratings were prepared.

SYNTHETIC BABY GIVES DIVORCE TO EX-SOLDIER

Frank Hoch, 27, of 2237 S. St. Louis av., who testified he did not believe the story of his wife, Lorraine, 25, that a child born while he was in the army had been conceived by artificial insemination, was granted a divorce yesterday by Judge Michael Feinberg in Circuit court on the ground of adultery.

Hoch, discharged last Dec. 23, said he had not seen his wife from Nov. 6, 1942, until January, 1944, when he went home on a furlough. Mrs. Hoch told him she was expecting a child, he said. The baby, Patricia, was born last July 23.

"It is not adultery if a woman becomes pregnant by synthetic methods," Judge Feinberg said, "but adultery is indicated in this case by the testimony of witnesses and the fact that Mrs. Hoch has not contested the divorce."

Woman Held for Shooting Ex-Suitor on Street Car

Ella Davis, 34, Negro, of 2345 Lake st., was held by police yesterday after she shot and wounded Frank Wesley, 37, Negro, 46.1 Wentworth av., a former sweetheart, in a fight on a loop bound Lake street car early in the day. Motorman Frank Mundt was slightly wounded by a stray shot. The woman said Wesley menaced her with a knife. About 60 passengers fled to the street when the fight began.

DEATHBED TALE OF LOVE SLAYING READ TO JURORS

Tells of Shooting in Soybean Patch.

Princeton, Ill., Feb. 9. [Special].—Charles Neufcour, 32, Sheffield farm hand, was shot by his erstwhile lady love, Mrs. Lucille Dhamer, 27, under the goading of her husband, Harry, 42, the deathbed statement of Neufcour disclosed today to the Bureau county Circuit court jury trying the Dhamers for Neufcour's slaying.

The statement was read to the jury by State's Atty. Joseph R. Peterson, who said it had been given by Neufcour in Perry Memorial hospital, Princeton, a few hours after he was shot in a soybean field last Oct. 14. Neufcour died Oct. 25.

Says Woman Shot Him.

"Who shot you?" Neufcour was asked by Peterson in the presence of Dr. P. H. Poppens of Princeton, Pearl I. Erickson, superintendent of nurses at the hospital, and Deputy Sheriff L. E. Bolton, all of whom signed the statement as witnesses.

"Mrs. Dhamer," was the reply.

Q.—Will you tell me how it happened? Neufcour replied he was out in the field when the Dhamers came there.

Q.—Do you mean Lucille Dhamer and Harry Dhamer? A.—Yes. They came out there and he had been sore a long time. He started to talk to Andre [Andre Dreissens, Neufcour's brother-in-law, who rented the Dhamer farm where the shooting occurred]. She jumped out and shot me.

Denies Making Threats.

Q.—Did you make any move toward her? A.—No sir.

Q.—Did you threaten her in any way? A.—No.

Q.—She jumped out of the car and shot you? A.—Yes.

Q.—What was said leading up to the shooting? A.—She said, "All get in the car." She was going to shoot us all. She aimed at Andre but she didn't shoot him. I was hit on the side of the face. That's all I remember.

Q.—She shot you before you got into the car, didn't she? A.—Yes.

Q.—Then she ordered you into the car after she shot you? A.—Yes sir.

Q.—Did Harry Dahmer say anything to you? A.—He said I had it coming for a long time.

Q.—Did he say, "Let him have it?" A.—Yes, and then she shot me.

Shot in Right Breast.

Dr. Poppens and Dr. N. S. Johnson, Sheffield, testified today to the treatment they had given Neufcour after the shooting. They said Neufcour had been shot in the right breast, the bullet piercing his lung and lodging under his shoulder blade.

Prosecutor Peterson tentatively rested the state's case after reading into the record a post card which he said Mrs. Dhamer had sent to Neufcour from Chicago March 7, 1944. The card told of a "good time" Mrs. Dhamer had had at a dance with her husband. It mentioned that she had seen a lot of men and it closed with this line:

"I just met a wolf—woof, woof!"

25 BEGIN DUTIES AS SUBSTITUTE GRADE TEACHERS

Twenty-five new substitute teachers, employed after they received temporary certificates because they lack Chicago Teachers college certification, were at work in elementary schools yesterday, Supt. of Schools Johnson said.

The board of education expects to process another 27 applicants for temporary certificates as substitutes early next week, and expects to have at least 100 on the job by the end of the week, he said. Two hundred temporary substitutes are needed to prevent teacherless classrooms, and Johnson said he would take 400 applications if he could get them.

The superintendent said he is refusing to grant sabbatical leaves to regular teachers unless an acceptable substitute is available. When the 300 teachers already on sabbatical leave return next fall the schools will be assured an adequate number of teachers, he said.

INSIST ETHIOPIA IS STILL OPEN TO WORLD AIR LINES

BY JAMES SLOAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 9.—The recently concluded agreement between Britain and Ethiopia, which guarantees to British civil air lines full freedom of operation over and in Ethiopia, will not exclude other allied countries from operating commercial services there, it was emphasized here today.

Both Ethiopian and British authorities insisted no monopoly was set up by the treaty as signed Dec. 19 in Addis Ababa. Britain's position was defined because at present it is the only country which has air relations with Ethiopia, it was said.

Reports Door Is Open.

An Ethiopian spokesman said it would be the policy of his government to allow the air lines of any allied country to operate there if they qualify under the safety and operational regulations in force at the time, and that only the permission of his government will be required, the approval of no outside country being necessary. He emphasized that the treaty rights granted to Britain do not imply the exclusion of other countries from similar privileges.

The spokesman recalled that Ethiopia's 1902 treaty of friendship, commerce, and navigation with the United States still is in force, and may cover relations between America and Ethiopia regarding air traffic without special amendment. To his knowledge, he said, there has been no recent agreement with America along the lines of the treaty concluded with Britain, tho, he added, none should be required for American civil air lines' entry into Ethiopian trade.

A British spokesman insisted it was not Britain's intent to obtain a monopoly on air traffic in Ethiopia thru the treaty. He added that the treaty contains no secret reservations, that Britain in no case will be able to interpret it unilaterally and has no intentions of applying pressure on Ethiopia to exclude other nations' air lines.

Subject to Modification.

The treaty specifies that "if obligations of either contracting party should be in conflict with his obligations under a future general international agreement or convention relating to civil aviation, provisions of the treaty shall be deemed to be modified so far as is necessary to avoid such conflict."

In addition to safeguarding Britain's prior position in Ethiopia, the two year agreement grants to Britain, as well as other allied powers, full rights in maintaining military air bases in Ethiopia.

Reciprocating Ethiopia's concessions, Britain extends the same privileges to Ethiopian aircraft anywhere in the empire.

Ethiopia will permit British air transport organizations, designated by the British government, to operate regular passenger, mail, and freight services thru the country, provided its aviation regulations are adhered to, will maintain and guard air fields, grant free access to landing grounds, equipment, facilities, and assist in the provision of more fields.

Ethiopia will help maintain British or allied military air fields, help build more if necessary, and allow passage of British air force personnel and aircraft stores to and from landing grounds.

"I wish you could stay longer. I hardly see any one since we can't borrow butter and sugar from each other."

REPORT ITALY ASKS BIG THREE TO EASE ARMISTICE TERMS

ROME, Feb. 9 (AP).—Premier Ivanoe Bonomi has telegraphed the Big Three conference asking that the allied armistice terms for Italy be relaxed, it was learned authoritatively tonight.

The premier's appeal was understood to be similar to one made by Foreign Minister Alcide de Gasperi to Harry Hopkins when President Roosevelt's adviser visited Rome recently on his way to the Big Three meeting. De Gasperi asked Hopkins for a revision of the financial clauses in the armistic as well as removal of allied control over Italy where it did not directly concern military problems.

The Italian government has asserted recently that the nation's economy is unable to bear the strain of the financial burden imposed by the armistice and has asked repeatedly for an end to allied control of administrative affairs.

C. A. Koehler, director of senior scouting in Chicago, said the local program is placing increasing emphasis on air scouting, offering aeronautical activities. The flight will be part of the observance of Scoutdom's 35th anniversary week.

Prices on Canned Oysters Increased 3 and 4 Cents

The price of canned oysters is going up. OPA yesterday increased canners ceiling prices for eastern and gulf oysters 25 cents a dozen for No. 1 cans and 35 cents a dozen for No. 2 cans. This will mean an increase to consumers of 3 cents for No. 1 [7½ ounce] and 4 cents for No. 2 [14 ounce] can. OPA said the increases in ceilings were necessary because of increasing labor costs.

RAIL UNION HEAD FEARS 'SLAVERY' IN LABOR DRAFT

Senate Warned of Peril to War Morale.

BY PHILIP DODD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—The New Deal's "work or jail" bill was denounced today as a stepping stone to future slavery by a labor executive testifying before the senate military affairs committee, whose members were reported becoming increasingly opposed to the measure as hearings progress.

The witness was J. G. Luhrsen, executive secretary of the railway labor executives' association, an organization of officials of 20 railroad brotherhoods including engineers and firemen, conductors, switchmen, signalmen, sheet metal workers, machinists, freight handlers, and dining car employes. Luhrsen said his association opposed all compulsory labor legislation.

A Blow to Morale.

Commenting on army and navy statements that the "work or jail" bill would lift morale at the front, he told the senators that soldiers' morale would diminish if they believed their fathers and brothers had to be forced to produce war supplies.

"Why destroy," asked Luhrsen, "that practical feeling of prayer, each one for the other at home and abroad, by advocating what is nothing more or less than a stepping stone to future slavery?"

Sen. Chandler [D., Ky.] told reporters after today's closed meeting of the committee that its members' "ardor for the bill is rapidly cooling." He predicted the measure, which sets up federal control over civilian activities of men between 18 and 45, would be reported out by the committee, but with rigid provisions adopted by the house removed.

Eric Johnston Speaks.

Eric A. Johnston, president of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, another witness opposed to the bill, told the committee the chamber favors the present voluntary man power placement machinery of the war man power commission "until that machinery breaks down." He said WMC powers should be strengthened by legislative action.

Johnston told reporters after the hearing that he did not agree with testimony of army and navy representatives that WMC system has failed.

"The voluntary labor-management coöperation fostered by the WMC has been one of the most valuable things that has come out of this war," Johnston said. "We don't want it disrupted by compulsory labor legislation. It should be preserved for the post-war period."

A doctoring of a government report to show a need for drafting of labor is charged to army and navy chiefs in the current issue of Labor, the publication of the railway brotherhoods.

Tells of Revision.

Labor said a recent report of the WMC showed a sharp gain in employment in war plants, with 100,000 workers being added last December and January. The publication asserted that before the report was made public it was revised to stress man power shortages.

The war and navy departments the WMC and the OWI tonight refused to comment. It was known, however, that the WMC release as first submitted emphasized the increase in employment. It was learned that the OWI requested the rewriting of the first paragraph to stress a continuing man power and munitions deficiency. The news release, after alteration, finally was cleared by the WMC on which are representatives of the war and navy departments.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 9.—As an indirect cost of the Illinois unemployment compensation law, the state legislature will be asked this year to appropriate approximately $100,000 for the recording of checks, Treasurer Conrad F. Becker said today.

Some 12 million unemployment compensation checks, cashed by idle workers and returned by banks, are overflowing vault space in the Merchandise Mart in Chicago, Becker said in an interview.

Becker's solution is to microfilm the checks, front and back, at an estimated cost of $100,000. Only if that is done, under authority of a 1943 law, will he have authority to destroy the old checks. The film, microscopic in size compared with the original records, can be stored in the archives building here and the old checks turned over to paper salvage.

NAME ACCUSED VOTE OFFICIALS, CAPEHART ASKS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9 (AP).—Sen. Capehart [R., Ind.] today called on Frey Bays, Democratic state chairman of Indiana, to name the Republican officials involved "if widespread fraud and illegality were practiced as Bays contends" in the Indiana election.

Capehart described as "ambiguous and general" a recent resolution by the Indiana Democratic state committee urging the senate privileges and elections committee to continue an investigation of the balloting. Capehart, who was seated Jan. 3 "without prejudice," is a member of the senate committee.

The resolution asserted "widespread fraud and illegality were practiced by certain Republican officials and party workers . . . to prevent voting by Democratic and independent voters."

MORE WOMEN GO INTO WAR WORK UNDER NEW RULE

WMC Reports 50 Pct. Rise in Hirings.

Women workers since last Monday have been under the same job and hiring controls in the Chicago area as men, which frequently prevent them from taking jobs to their liking, William H. Spencer, regional war man power commissioner, said last night.

Incomplete figures indicate more than 15,000 women have sought war plant jobs this week thru United States employment service offices, he said, a 50 per cent increase over the number in the previous week.

Aimed at Job Changers.

The new controls, requiring every applicant for a job in a plant employing eight or more persons, to apply to the USES, restrict personal choice of positions, Spencer admitted. The purpose of the regulation, he said, is to divert job changers and men and women who are entering or returning to the labor market from nonessential jobs to war plants needing them most urgently.

In hundreds of cases, he said, women applicants this week have gone to USES offices for approval of a new job obtained while working at another plant or office, only to be directed to a third position.

"This unquestionably works hardships on a great many individuals, but an over-all increase in war workers is what man power authorities are seeking," he said. "There are critical war plants to staff, and until their production schedules are brought from behind, a lot of people are not going to be able to get jobs in other businesses.

None Forced to Take a Job.

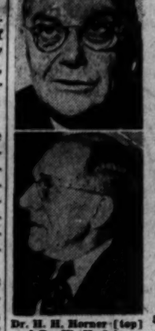
"No one is forced to take a job, however. Any applicant is free to refuse a job if it would work a severe hardship on him or her. But those who refuse jobs for other reasons will not be given referrals and will not be free to take jobs of their own choosing for 60 days."

Spencer said new estimates of war plant worker needs will be received from more than 700 larger plants next week. These, he said, probably will show a total need considerably less than the 55,000 workers asked by the same plants last Dec. 1.

DENTISTS' GROUP DENIES IT URGED RACIAL QUOTAS

Secretary of Council Remains Silent.

Dr. Harlan H. Horner, secretary of the council on dental education of the American Dental association, who has been accused of advocating a quota policy based on racial origin for aspirants to a dental education, last night declined to comment on the matter or to answer questions. The president of the association, Dr. Walter H. Scherer, and the council on dental education had issued statements disavowing the policy which Dr. Horner is alleged to have favored.



Dr. H. H. Horner [top] and Dr. W. H. Scherer.

Dr. Scherer issued his statement from the association's headquarters at 222 E. Superior st., where both the board of trustees and the council on dental education were meeting.

President Issues Statement.

"Dr. Horner's alleged statements," Dr. Scherer's statement read, "particularly those referring to student quotas in the dental schools thruout the country, were made without the knowledge or sanction of the governing body of the American Dental association and, therefore, are not an expression of the views of this association."

The council on dental education, whose chairman is Dr. Roy O. Elam of Nashville, Tenn., emphasized in its statement the right of every qualified student, regardless of race or creed, to seek a dental education.

"The council has not suggested in the past and will not countenance in the future," the statement read, "the establishment of any quotas for dental schools based on race or creed. . . . Improvement [in dental education] will not be served, in the opinion of the council, by the selection of students on the basis of race or creed. The council completely disavows such a motive on its own part or on the part of its employes."

Justice Makes Charges.

In New York City Tuesday, Supreme Court Justice Meier Steinbrink, chairman of the eastern region of the anti-defamation league of B'nai B'rith, asserted that Dr. Horner had submitted to New York university and to Columbia university a report urging the adoption of a quota policy based on racial origin. This policy was intended to limit the number of Jewish students in dental schools, Justice Steinbrink charged.

Gets $2,000 Award

Thomas Gulin, 8, of 5431 S. Marshfield av., who charged he was kicked in the elbow by a watchman, was awarded a judgment of $2,000 yesterday by a jury before Judge Robert E. Crowe in Superior court. The boy, represented by Atty. Victor Frohlich, said he was kicked Oct. 9, 1943, while playing cops and robbers at 1947 W. 46th st., by Paul Hoffman, an employe of the Central Watch Service, Inc., 19 S. Wells st.

FIGHT OR QUIT: PLEA TO G. O. P. WAR VETS TODAY

Proposals to inject more courage into the Republican party will be considered today at a meeting of the officers and executive committee of the Illinois Republican Service Men's league. The G. O. P. veterans later will attend the Lincoln day dinner to be addressed by Sen. Brooks, Gov. Green, and Rep. Shafer [R., Mich.].

Charles M. Burgess, president of the Burgess-Norton Manufacturing company, said he will propose that the league either be made more important or be disbanded. He would start a drive for new members among veterans of World War II and make the league a greater force in election campaigns.

As Illinois junior national committeeman of the league, which has chapters in 15 states, Burgess said one of the letters to be taken up at the meeting in the Morrison hotel was received from William J. Grace, former Illinois commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, asserting that the G. O. P. has lost its grasp because of lack of courage and honesty in its issues and urging that the veterans' league conduct forums and debates on Dumbarton Oaks and the fundamentals of Americanism.

GET A WAR JOB! KEEP IT!

Let's face facts. Not long ago, many people were saying "the war will be over by Christmas." But it isn't over—not by a long shot. It may last many months longer, unless new shortages of military supplies are met now.

Meanwhile, each time the clock ticks, our boys die—in foxholes and twisted wrecks of tanks, in planes plunging earthward like terrible flaming comets, and in choking icy seas . . .

YOU can help cut short the killing, bring victory closer! YOU AND YOUR NEIGHBORS can speed triumph and peace, not just by hours but by months . . . if you will take a war job.

Because our military leaders would rather sacrifice a million rounds of ammunition than a single American life—we have actually used up munitions intended for use in April . . . Shells are now being rationed on some fronts . . . Tanks, jeeps, big guns, aircraft engines, trucks are desperately needed.

These shortages can be met only if the war plants listed here get more men and women workers at once. Come on! Lend a hand! If you are not already in war work, get one of these jobs today, and KEEP it. The more you supply, the fewer of our boys will die.

There's no more bulge at Bastogne!

Eisenhower's forces sent the Nazi reeling backwards, exacting 140,000 casualties among the dwindling German formations—a terrible toll for so temporary a triumph!

Workers in the war plants listed on this page were part of Eisenhower's combat team.

For example, locomotives made by Electro-Motive division of General Motors transported the supplies; C-54 cargo planes built by Douglas rushed vital equipment to the front; Dodge B-29 airplane engines, which include a number of vital parts manufactured by Stewart-Warner, powered the assault planes; and Western Electric signal equipment formed the communications network that kept the attack rolling.*

WAR MANPOWER EMERGENCY COMMITTEE

Ellender, McKellar Can't Agree on Williams.

BY WILLIAM MOORE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—"My distinguished friend, Sen. McKellar," said Sen. Ellender [D., La.], bowing.

Sen. McKellar.

"My delightful and lovable friend, Sen. Ellender," said Sen. McKellar [D., Tenn.], bowing back.

Senate courtesy having then been duly observed, the two senators began slugging verbally at each other enthusiastically at the senate agriculture committee hearing on the proposed senate confirmation of Aubrey Williams as rural electrification administration chief.

Draws a New Picture.

McKellar was present, as a witness, to alter the picture Williams had drawn of himself before the committee.

Williams has portrayed himself as a foe of Communists who nevertheless, according to some senators, is pursued by Reds. The organizations he sponsored or helped as deputy works progress administration administrator and national youth administration head are under fire as communist groups.

Pro-Williams members of the committee have brought out testimony that his appearances before communist front organizations took place before such groups went communist.

McKellar sought to refute this today. He read testimony taken by congressional committees in support of his contention that Williams knew the communist nature of the organizations and that Williams was a member of four communist front societies.

Charges He Aided Radicals.

McKellar charged Williams "consorted with and gave assistance to" these organizations.

Ellender, leader of the committee members favoring Williams' confirmation, questioned McKellar at length, but McKellar refused to change his testimony.

Ellender and McKellar accused each other of bias, and McKellar shouted that Ellender had been defending Williams for 4½ years.

"For several years," McKellar said, "I was under the influence of the blandishments of Mr. Williams myself. But when he began running NYA as a communist front organization, I had to part company with him."

Once McKellar looked at Williams and demanded of the committee:

"How many senators are going to fall for this stuff at this hearing?"

When the committee adjourned until Wednesday, McKellar and Ellender beamed and shook hands for pictures which photographers captioned, "Distinguished and Lovable Friends."

SENTENCE DAD, SON TO HANGING IN IOWA KILLING

Spirit Lake, Ia., Feb. 9 (AP).—District Judge Fred M. Hudson today sentenced Phillip H. Heincy, 72, and his son William Henry Heincy, 45, to be hanged for the murder of Robert W. Raebel, 63, West Okoboji lake resort operator. The date for the hanging was set as March 29, 1946.

Raebel was shot and beaten and Mrs. Raebel was beaten in their home Dec. 16 by the Heincys, formerly employed by the Raebels. The shooting took place while the Heincys were robbing the Raebel home.

'COMMON SENSE' SCHOOL PLANNED TO BLOCK FIRES

Watchmen Will Get Training.

Watchmen and other night employes in hotels, garages, factories, and public buildings will be educated in the "common sense" principles of fire prevention in a school described yesterday by Division Marshal John L. Fenn of the fire department.

The training, he said, could prevent repetition of such tragedies as occurred at the General Clark hotel fire Jan. 16, when the alarm was delayed for five minutes because an employe who first saw the fire did not know how to work the fire alarm box. A recent south side factory fire burned for several minutes. Fenn said, while the Polish speaking watchman was running half a block down the street to give the alarm to a Polish speaking bartender.

School Given Approval.

Fire Commissioner Corrigan and Fire Marshal Mullaney have approved the training school, and oral indorsement has been obtained from the National Board of Underwriters and associations of manufacturers, hotel owners, and garage owners.

Intelligently trained watchmen are necessary to eliminate fire hazards and to give prompt alarms, said Fenn, who is in charge of the fire prevention bureau. There have been 14 fires with loss of life or with injury since Jan. 1 in Chicago, he said. Seventeen lives were lost in fires in January, including 14 in the General Clark hotel, and 44 persons were injured.

Five Lectures Planned.

The fire prevention school probably will open in a month, he said. He and his staff are preparing a curriculum, which he said probably will consist of demonstrations and five lectures in the department drill school. Diplomas will be issued for completion of the course.

"Large companies and hotel operators pay big salaries for safety experts," Fenn said, "but many of them make a practice of hiring incompetent watchmen who don't know how to pull a fire alarm or remove inflammable materials from dangerous places."

Cab Driver Fined $50; Refused Ride to Marine

Harry Forman, 63, of 1311 N. California av., a Yellow Cab driver, was fined $50 and costs by Judge Joseph B. Hermes in Speeders' court yesterday on a charge by a navy shore patrolman that he refused to take a marine from the Illinois Central station at Michigan av. and Roosevelt rd. to Chicago airport. Forman pleaded that he had a sailor in the cab and was in a hurry.

Father Jailed

Judge John F. Haas in Superior court ordered milk served to three children in his chambers yesterday when their mother, Mrs. Catherine Nanos, 23, of 1763 Ogden av., said she had to bring them to court without breakfast because she did not have money for food.

While the children, Paul, 4, David, 2, and Elizabeth, 1, were drinking milk, Judge Haas lectured their father, Peter, 24, of 118 S. Hoyne av., and sentenced him to jail for six months for contempt of court for failure to pay support.

Mrs. Nanos, represented by Atty. Ira Jacobs, obtained a divorce last June on the ground of cruelty, and was awarded support of $21 a week. She said yesterday that Nanos owed her $470.

TRIPLE INQUIRY OPENS IN FATAL WAR PLANT FIRE

A three-way inquiry was opened yesterday into a fire that destroyed the Vierling Steel Works, 313 W. 23d st., early in the day. It cost the lives of two workmen and caused damage estimated at more than $150,000 by Fire Marshal Mullaney. The company manufactures ordnance equipment for the navy.

J. G. Pankratz, plant superintendent, said the two employes who perished were John Gagajewski, 66, the night watchman, who lived in the 4800 block on Throop st., and Mark Lightfoot, 60, of 6731 Langley av., a Negro laborer.

Pankratz said that all the 19 other men working at the time the fire broke out were accounted for.

Separate investigations of the fire were being made by Coroner A. L. Brodie, Mullaney, and Henry Eckhardt, fire attorney in the corporation counsel's office.

Mullaney and Eckhardt agreed that the fire started when sparks from a grinding wheel ignited lacquer residue in a dipping tank on the first floor.

SABATH BLOCKS MOVE TO LIMIT F.D.R. WAR POWER

BY LAURENCE BURD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—The New Deal, retreating in the face of mounting opposition to having Henry Wallace made secretary of commerce, today postponed a test vote by the potent house rules committee on the controversial George bill.

The measure, approved by the senate, would divorce the vast federal lending agencies from the commerce post, and thus, New Dealers hope, would assure senate confirmation of Wallace with limited powers.

Rules committee Chairman Sabath [D., Ill.], a New Deal stalwart, abruptly adjourned today's stormy hearing until Wednesday after committee members in both parties threatened to pigeonhole the bill or pave the way for writing into it new restrictions on the commerce secretaryship and the President's war powers.

Charge Bill Is Rushed.

The house banking committee's Democratic majority was charged at the hearing with rushing approval of the George measure for "political" purposes and without adequate consideration.

Sabath temporarily avoided the possibility that the rules group might send the George bill back to the banking committee and thus force the senate to vote Wallace, up or down, for the commerce job, including the loan powers.

Republican leaders said Sabath's delaying action will give time for two Democratic members of the committee, Rep. Delaney [N. Y.] and Colmer [Miss.] to return from out of town for next Wednesday's session.

Spence Urges Action.

Chairman Spence [D., Ky.] of the banking committee urged the rules group at today's hearing to send the George bill to the house floor under a rule permitting only amendments adjudged relevant by Speaker Rayburn [D., Tex.].

This, it was said, probably would eliminate from house consideration two major restrictions authorized by Rep. Wolcott [R., Mich.]. One of these amendments would remove the commerce secretary from membership on the board of the export-import bank. The other would forbid the President from transferring new powers, besides the loan functions, to Wallace.

BEFRIENDED, HE STEALS $250.

Mrs. Goldie Szeigis, 3338 North av., told police yesterday that $250 and two $25 war bonds were stolen from her home by a man who gave his name as James [Johnny] Russ, 25, whom she befriended after he told her he was a discharged soldier.

Robbed of $5 in Subway and Forced to Undress

For the second time in two days a Negro gunman yesterday held up and robbed a victim in the restroom of the subway station at Roosevelt rd. and State st. William E. Schultz, 34, of 1431 Cuyler av., told police he was robbed of $5 and forced to remove his clothes before the Negro fled. On Thursday Raymond Hill of 6428 Maryland av. lost $22 to the robber.

UNIVERSAL ARMY TRAINING URGED BY 14 EDUCATORS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9 (AP).—Disputing a contention of 12 other educators, 14 college heads today called for immediate consideration and adoption of universal military training.

They said in a letter to President Roosevelt, who has expressed himself as favoring post-war universal training:

"If adopted now, we believe that a sound plan for universal military training will enable the United States to speak with greater authority at the peace table in favor of an international organization to enforce peace.

Wants Action Now.

"Its adoption now will reassure the other peace loving nations of the world that the United States proposes to coöperate with them in outlawing war and will not again retreat into isolationism."

They wrote that "contrary to the opinion expressed by some, we believe that the judgment of the nation is now more sound on this issue than it will be after peace is declared. We know too well the reaction which occurs after a conflict is over; the general desire to 'forget it.'"

Signers Are Listed.

Signers of the letter made public today are:

John G. Bowman, chancellor, the University of Pittsburgh; Edwin S. Burdell, director, Cooper Union; Robert C. Clothier, president, Rutgers university; Karl T. Compton, president, Massachusetts Institute of Technology; Thomas S. Gates, chairman of the board, University of Pennsylvania; Ernest M. Hopkins, president, Dartmouth college; Robert L. Johnson, president, Temple university; Stanley King, president, Amherst college; William Mather Lewis, president, Lafayette college; Charles Seymour, president, Yale university; Franklyn B. Snyder, president, Northwestern university; John J. Tigert, president, University of Florida; Levering Tyson, president, Muhlenberg college; Blake R. Van Leer, president, Georgia School of Technology.

Other Group Asks Delay.

The other group of educators wrote Mr. Roosevelt last month to urge delay in consideration of what they termed the highly controversial question "at least until complete victory over Germany is achieved."

Signers of the previous letter were heads of Vanderbilt, Harvard, Cornell, Princeton, Tulane, Stanford, Brown, and the Universities of Chicago, Missouri, Kansas, California, and Indiana.

Wins Damages

CHARLOTTE THOMPSON.

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 9 (AP).—Charlotte Thompson, movie stand-in, and her husband, Kenneth M. Rundquist, a radio singer, were awarded $1,552 damages today after the actress testified she was bitten and so terrified by a chimpanzee that she has recurring nightmares. Their suit against D. Vejar, alleged owner of the animal, said the chimp grabbed her around the knees on a studio set May 28.

"He threw me off balance and I fell to the floor," she testified. "He climbed on top of me, growling and making horrible noises. Since it happened I have been having recurrent dreams in which a great hairy ape is about to attack me."

U. S. TO REQUEST SENATE O.K. ON AIR COMPACTS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—The United States today acted to put into effect international aviation agreements written in Chicago.

A state department announcement said the senate would be asked to ratify a treaty for establishment of a permanent international civil aviation organization. This government also accepted as executive agreements provisions for a temporary world organization.

The provisional body, which will have its headquarters at Montreal, will not come into being until 26 nations have validated the signatures of their delegates.

BIGGER AND BETTER SPYING.

Mr. Roosevelt evidently intends to keep the government in the spy business in a big way after the war. On Oct. 31 he asked Brig. Gen. William J. Donovan, the director of the office of strategic services, to plan a permanent organization of the so-called intelligence services of the government. Within less than three weeks, on Nov. 18, Wild Bill laid the plan on the Presidential desk.

The scheme calls for a new government agency, as yet unnamed, with a director who will take his orders straight from the White House and have an advisory committee of cabinet officers to help him. He will command his own staff of sleuths and, in addition, will have authority over all the existing detective agencies scattered among the departments, such as the FBI, the military and naval intelligence, and the secret service.

It is easy to see why Mr. Roosevelt is concerned about this matter. He intends that this nation play power politics all around the world from now on and he knows that nobody can play that game who hasn't a full apparatus of spies in a position to tip off the secret plans and preparations of other nations. It's nasty and it's dirty but that's the way the game is played.

For lack of such an apparatus we have been at a disadvantage in this war. The navy thought that the Japs were heading for Indo-China when they were bound for Pearl Harbor. The Germans got away with their preparations for the Ardennes drive because our spies, if we had any in the area, fell down on the job. It's hard to improvise an efficient spy service. It has to be built up over the years of peace. In this respect, it seems, Mr. Roosevelt is at a distinct disadvantage in comparison with allies and enemies.

Of course the desire for a more efficient intelligence service is, itself, an evidence of Mr. Roosevelt's lack of faith in his Dumbarton Oaks plan. If he believed that would work, he wouldn't need to organize an elaborate intelligence service. There would be no worry about military preparations abroad or about plans for economic penetration because all that sort of thing would belong to the ugly past. Good faith and integrity would characterize all international communications. If our government wanted to know what was cooking, it would address polite inquiries and they would be answered in all candor, with nothing hidden. Mr. Roosevelt knows that this isn't going to happen. On the contrary, he knows that if his foreign policy is triumphant we shall surely be involved in every back fence war in Europe and Asia from now on, and it is for that eventuality that he is preparing.

At the same time he cannot be suspected of overlooking the domestic advantages—as he sees them—of a super-spy service. The police state needs spies and the presence of a well integrated spy system hastens the development of the police state. More than any other thing, it is the police organization of Germany, Russia, Japan, and Mussolini's Italy that make their systems of government peculiarly odious. That is the direction in which Mr. Roosevelt is moving.

The readiness with which Gen. Donovan produced his plan deserves a special note. He worked it out in less than three weeks, starting from scratch. That suggests, among other things, how eager the war-expanded burocracy is to find ways to reorganize itself for bigger and better pay rolls once the excuse of war necessity can no longer be invoked.

CHICAGO'S AUDITORIUM.

Mayor Kelly's desire to preserve the Auditorium theater and hotel from the wreckers after the war will be universally approved by Chicagoans. The buildings have served a fine purpose during the war as one of our service men's centers. When the war ends, however, the property owners will be confronted with a problem which they have never in recent years been able to overcome. That is that earnings have not been sufficient to meet the tax bill.

The mayor's proposal is that the city or park board acquire the property and convert it into a permanent public recreation center. The theater can easily be restored and, inasmuch as it has had the greatest difficulty paying its way, the public, which has a firm attachment to it, would undoubtedly welcome its acquisition if that is the only means of saving it.

The present owners of the adjoining office building and hotel, if freed of the theater's tax load, would probably be able to operate those structures at a modest profit. If so, there would be little reason for the city to purchase them, for no particularly compelling uses have been suggested for them. It is the theater which has a firm claim upon the regard of Chicagoans. It is unmatched in this country and has been an adornment of the city's cultural life for so long that no one would want to sacrifice it.

"FASCIST."

In the New Deal book, one of the easiest ways to win an argument is to call your opponent a "Fascist." Henry Wallace used very circumspect language when he was up before a senate committee hoping to have his nomination as secretary of commerce approved, but when he felt he could be his true self his language was unrestrained.

In Detroit on July 24, 1943, he conveniently discovered that all of Mr. Roosevelt's opponents could be classified as "isolationists," "reactionaries," and "American Fascists," and thought he was being clever when he said sweepingly that "old-fashioned Americanism is the last refuge of Fascists." In Milwaukee 11 months ago he said, "In their thinking they [plant managers] are sheer Fascists. The President should have the power to draft their brains for what they are worth."

It so happens that there are no Fascists in this country of any consequence except those in the New Deal. Fascism was dreamed up in 1919 by Mussolini, who was moon-struck by the glories of ancient Rome and, in naming his party, was inspired by the fasces, or bundle of elm or birch rods, carried by Roman lictors as symbols of their power. As far as we know, the only avowed Fascist in this country was Lawrence Dennis, who wrote a book about it. The German-American bund, now dissolved, and a few lunatic fringe outfits like the Silver Shirts and Knights of the White Camelia, were fascist in ideology, but completely without influence.

The fact is that "fascist," as used in this country, is an epithet chiefly employed by Communists to smear the opposition. Like the term "isolationist," which was coined by Sir Wilfrid Laurier 25 years ago when he was prime minister of Canada and was referring to Britain's "splendid isolation," "fascist" is a foreign expression whose chief value to careless thinkers and name callers is its very lack of susceptibility to exact or meaningful definition. If an expert in semantics should ask Mr. Wallace what he means by "Fascist," the eminent champion of the "common man"—another meaningless term—would be forced to reply, "I mean anybody against us."

COBBLERS AND THEIR LASTS.

Sen. Brooks performed two useful services in his attack on the work or jail bill. One was the reminder that the 13th amendment forbids both slavery and involuntary servitude except for the punishment of crime. Whatever the system of forced labor may be called, whether an industrial draft or national service, it obviously would involve forcing men to work against their wills and would be unconstitutional.

There is no parallel, as Sen. Brooks pointed out later off the floor of the senate, between drafting men to bear arms in defense of their country and drafting men to work for a private employer.

Sen. Brooks also injected a healthy note of skepticism regarding the recommendation of the bill by the professional heads of the army and navy. "The fact," he said, "that Gen. Marshall and Adm. King have added their voices in the demand for such a work or jail law does not impress me. They are professional men, trained in the art of strict naval and military tactics and discipline, but they are not experts on assembly lines and on the art of labor and management coöperation so necessary to maximum production."

This is self-evident and yet many people fail to recognize it because of the apparently incurable American habit of crediting omniscience in all things to any person who is particularly prominent in any line of endeavor. The press, it must be confessed, is partly responsible for this since it is always inviting from prominent persons pronouncements on subjects on which their opinion is no more valuable than that of any other well informed but humble citizen.

There are no completely omniscient persons in this or any other nation, despite pretensions in that direction by some of our politicians. Gen. Marshall and Adm. King are well fitted by lifelong experience to the conduct of warfare. Their opinions on the problems of industrial production and labor relations should be given no more weight than those of Mr. Fairless of the United States Steel corporation, or Mr. Murray of the CIO, on military strategy.

In the ordering and conduct of battles iron discipline and strict obedience are vitally necessary. Gen. Marshall and Adm. King should not be blamed for believing that the same system of military discipline would produce equally satisfactory results in industry. That they hold this belief merely demonstrates that they know very little about the principles of industrial management.

The people who are capable in that field are virtually unanimous in holding that free men will produce more efficiently than men forced to work against their will. The CIO, the AFL, and the National Manufacturers' association find themselves making a common cause on the work or jail bill. All are bitterly opposed to it.

The least impressive record of the services in this war is in the fields where they have intruded most deeply into industrial production and this is not solely because the army, at Mr. Roosevelt's insistence, has turned its supply problems over to his favorite WPA colonel. The current investigation of disposal of surplus military goods is disclosing some of this inefficiency. One branch of the service is disposing of articles as useless for military purposes which it or some other branch is still having to produce.

If the army and navy will stick to fighting, which they understand, and leave production to those civilians who understand it, the war will be ended sooner and with less loss of life.

PRIMERS FOR KIDDIES.

Pueblo, Colo., has recently been subjected to a New Deal youth movement in which the OPA introduced about a ton of primers into the public schools to teach that tho the butcher and grocer are likely to cheat, the OPA is a match for them. One sixth grade problem was couched as follows: "A grocer listed his ceiling price on sugar as five pounds for 35 cents. When Mrs. Jones weighed the sugar on reaching home she found it only four and one-half pounds. What was her loss in money, and what was her loss when computed in percentage of sugar?"

We haven't looked in the back of the book, but the answer probably is that when the burocrats get done harassing and driving merchants and small business men out of their stores and offices, the New Deal will then turn to the problem of providing 60 million socialized jobs.

MR. PEPYS' WEEK.

10th Feb.—Have had a long week and don't know why, because everything has moved along easily. But have had a queer feeling that this week contained eight days. Maybe it is because I spent one day with MacArthur's men, in imagination, taking Manila.

On such a day in bygone years my family would have put out its Decoration day flag, which was quite a large one, in front of the little old house on the south side. Many thousands of other citizens would have done likewise. Old Glory would have been flying everywhere, for it was a great day in our history. But I saw no signs of its recognition as such except in the newspapers, and people went plodding on their war-dulled way as usual.

Groaned over the new snowfall and changed from rubbers to galoshes. Noted that few men wear such useful articles, but that women, often spoken of as the sillier sex, have taken to similar footgear in great numbers. Anyway, this is the winter when fashions for the fair have taken a large step forward in stadium boots.

Now to get ready for Lincoln's birthday, Valentine day, Burton Holmes' lectures, and anything that will shorten the eight-day week.

Lead forth, O Spring! your daffodils,
Your poets with their golden quills,
Your thrushes with enchanted bills.
Let's walk instead of sliding!

Bring out your catalog of seeds,
Your rain and mud, your early weeds,
Shake out the moths from last year's tweeds.
An end to giddy gliding!

Come soon! Before on icy stone
I fall and break that precious bone
Yclept my neck, and with a groan
Depart this cold world's chiding!

Tho city dwellers oft attest
That pigeons are a perfect pest,
They help the esthetes who complain
To keep in touch with things mundane.

About the pigeon's homing lore,
For when it's late they cease to roam
And know enough to head for home!

I. D. P. writes: "I married a soldier in World War I. He returned from service in 1919 and, after spending a few days at my parents' home, left for Nebraska to get our home ready for us. From that day to this, we have had no word from him. I believe he is dead, but I cannot prove it. Is it possible to file a claim for pension and insurance benefits?"

Public law 591, 77th congress, provides that "the unexplained absence of any individual for seven years shall be deemed sufficient evidence of death for the purpose of laws administered by the veterans' administration," . . . provided "satisfactory evidence is produced establishing the fact of continued and unexplained absence, that diligent search does not reveal any evidence of his existence after date of disappearance, and provided, further, the finding of death by the administrator shall be final and conclusive." The first step is to send a report to the press bureau, veterans' administration, Washington, D. C., accompanied by a picture and description of the individual and if possible his fingerprints or a photostatic copy of such prints. If he cannot be located, the administrator may proceed under the law to make a finding of death.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

by Dr. Irving S. Cutter

[Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune.]

AS OLD DISEASES ARE CONQUERED, NEW ONES APPEAR.

CAN it be that certain diseases have become bewildered? We are encountering numerous maladies which fail to run true to form. They seem to be confused. In fact, not a few will exhibit the primary characteristics of many different conditions.

We have had a good deal to say about pneumonitis, or virus pneumonia. As yet, no one has been able to portray the antics of this affliction accurately or to establish its behavior pattern. We wonder, then, what has come over the standard reliable disorders of a generation ago. Have they taken on modernistic characters? Are they victims of world confusion?

At least one explanation may rest with the widespread use of vaccines. We have been immunizing children against smallpox, diphtheria, tetanus, typhoid, etc., long enough for a goodly proportion of these "protected" youngsters to have offspring of their own. Furthermore, we have been employing bacterial products against various other ailments. During World War I., we administered anti-typhoid to millions of our young soldiers. Still another factor may be the influence of coal tar compounds, particularly the sulfonamides.

Within another few years there will scarcely be any one who has not received at least one of these chemicals. The net result may point to changes in resistance. Thus we may turn aside the arrows of infection and avoid fatal wounds.

There is every reason, therefore, to watch present day illnesses with more than a normal critical eye. It is not unusual to find an individual who displays many indications of pneumonia but who, instead of breathing 30 to 40 times a minute, is inhaling and expelling air at the average rate. Nevertheless, an X-ray of the chest will disclose a fuzzy state of the lungs although the air sacs proper are not involved. We recognize instantly what has been commonly termed "pneumonitis" and we ascribe the cause to an unknown virus.

Fortunately, most of these cases have returned to health altho the period of convalescence may be prolonged. But now and then a severe attack will be encountered, with signs of toxicity which may destroy life. The only safe plan to follow, therefore, is to oblige all patients who manifest typical symptoms, to remain in bed, drink plenty of fluids, breathe moist air, and maintain nutrition at a high level. We are dealing with an irritation of the pulmonary tissues which is not a true pneumonia; which acts like influenza in its onset; and which goes steadily onward to recovery within from two to four weeks.

The only specific treatment thus far advocated is exposure to X-rays. It may be possible to cut short the interval of invalidism and to give the sufferer greater comfort. In not a few instances, a type of pain similar to "devil's grip" will be experienced. Here, again, the cause is not a true pleurisy but something akin to neuritis involving the pleural membranes. The remedy is careful strapping of the thorax over the affected side to prevent movement.

The heart rate offers a fair index of what is going on. Even slight exertion may jump the rhythm 20 to 30 beats per minute. This emphasizes the importance of the resumption of activity gradually. In other words, the pulse must not rise more than a few beats during a walk of 100 yards.

DRY, FIRST.

A. D. writes: I go to bed right after shampooing my hair. My girl friend tells me I will develop sinus trouble. Is this possible?

REPLY.

Indirectly, yes. One of the best ways I know of to catch cold is to allow cold air to blow on wet hair. This practice reduces resistance markedly. Dry the locks thoroly or, at least, wrap up the head for protection. Repeated colds may eventually involve the sinuses.

CAN'T TAKE IT.

Mrs. G. writes: Can alcoholism be considered a disease?

REPLY.

Yes. Because of constitutional inadequacies, the victim needs to wear rose colored glasses. In other words, the woes of the world are too much for him.

SPEECHLESS.

H. S. writes: Is it possible that hysteria could cause loss of voice?

REPLY.

Yes. If skilled examination shows no physical origin, a psychic disturbance may be responsible. It is up to the physician to ferret out the victim's dilemma.

OUR ENTHUSIASTIC PATIENT

Front Views & Profiles

By MARCIA WINN

Mind Without Yeast.

A brief news item the other day about the physician who resigned from the staff of a Chicago hospital when his patient, an American-born Japanese woman with two close relatives in our army, was refused admittance brought to mind an amazing book advertisment that appeared two weeks ago in the Saturday Review of Literature.

The advertisment was headed, "A Publishing Failure." Beside the title were two rows of Japanese characters, presumably saying the same thing. Beneath were about 1,000 words of bitter and disillusioned prose which told the history of a book that failed.

The trouble with the book, "The New Sun," was that its author, Taro Yashima, an artist, is Japanese. His book was published in November, 1943, dedicated to the people of the United States. His simple dedicatory note said:

"I thank the America which lets me talk and write freely about people and events which I shall never forget."

To quote the advertisment of his publishers, Henry Holt & Co.:

"Taro had been in this country five years when we first knew him, and he was very poor. He and his wife, also an artist, escaped from Japan, where all of their young lives had been spent in the fight against militarism and fascism. They had gone to live among factory workers. Taro had already had several exhibits of cartoons and oil paintings and had been writing, but he deliberately sacrificed his recognized standing to denounce openly with his various works the growing fascistic tendencies which he saw thruout Japan.

"He joined a progressive movement, and later an underground movement, traveled thru the country, made a living by illustrating cheap magazines. When even that became impossible, he continued to fight by working on an underground newspaper. He was jailed 10 times, and his wife was seized, too, and before they escaped from Japan they had lost two sons."

They published the book, they said, because they thought Taro a fine artist with a great story to tell. They said it heartened them to know that there is an underground movement in Japan. But the book trade warned them: "Nobody will buy a book by a Jap."

They gave away 700 copies in advance, to the vaunted liberals in every walk of life, as well as to the reviewers. In general the reviewers were lethargic. If not lethargic, they were cagey. Or the review never appeared at all. A few persons, a very few, were quite excited about the book. A publicity man offered his services free, and was baffled when he got nowhere. Another publicity person called, abused the outfit for "not doing right by this wonderful book," and said she personally would make it a best seller. Nothing happened. The publishers thought the book would help at the nine Japanese relocation centers, but so many couldn't read English that Taro did a Japanese translation to be offered free with every copy sold to the Japanese. They printed 2,100 copies of these. Taro made posters to accompany the latter "because he wanted them to be encouraged about the future." No go there, either, except that one commissary department head returned the book and said he hadn't ordered it: what did they mean by bothering him?

Altogether, 1,800 persons bought the book. Publishing associates said that wasn't so bad "for a book by a Jap." But the publishers feel pretty bitter. They speak of "the imperturbable prejudices of the public, the vast areas of indifference which can kill a book," and conclude: "'The New Sun' is a failure, not because it lost us a few thousand dollars, but because, as far as we know, it supplied no yeast for the American mind. More than that, it is disheartening to think of that mind's influence on the rest of the world and its future."

She Won't Budge.

"You know, dear,' the 88 year old lady said to her niece, "I don't care what my neighbors say, I like Stalin's face."

REPUBLICAN COUNTY ORGANIZATION.

Chicago, Feb. 6.—You recently wrote, "The Republican organization in Cook county is no good." The recent aldermanic elections prove it indisputably. The Republican candidate in the 6th ward was miserably defeated by Mr. Whalen's candidate. This was always one of the great Republican wards, and for years turned in handsome Republican majorities running into the thousands. In the 10th ward the Republican candidate received a little over 3,000 votes, compared to 11,000 for the two Democratic candidates.

We have no Republican leadership in Cook county that is worth following. Moreover, the spirit of revolt on the part of the Republican elected ward committeemen is so high that the county chairman is afraid to call a meeting of the Republican county central committee, if an excuse to convene the committee could be found.

Hundreds of Democrats, who served eight years under Gov. Horner, are still in the state service, active members of the Democratic organization, altho working under a Republican administration. Compare this to the action of Secretary of State Barrett, who fired, the day he took office, two outstanding Republicans who had been in that office for over 30 years.

The Republican organization in Cook county and Illinois had better take heed of the low state to which it has degenerated. The active Republican party workers are crying out for dynamic leadership. It had better evidence itself in some concrete form or the Republican party in Illinois will soon be a thing of the past, as it now is in Chicago. E. L. WESTERVELT.

MANNERS BEGIN AT HOME.

Chicago, Feb. 3.—I agree with Mrs. B. Emerson that there are many rude pupils in our schools, but I wish to protest when she blames the schools for those manners. If Mrs. E. will use a little arithmetic she will find that when a pupil graduates at 17 years of age he has spent but 12 per cent of his hours in the school. What about those people with whom he spends 80 per cent of his hours?

Psychologists tell us that the first six years of a child's life are his most formative years. With whom does he spend those first six years? Manners must be taught at home if the child is going to act in public in ways society considers acceptable.

FAVORS ADOPTION LAW.

Downers Grove, Ill., Feb. 2.—As one who for years lived in a state having a modern adoption law, and who watched it functioning, I urge the passage of the proposed legislation in Illinois. The period of probation really acts as protection to both adoptive parents and children. An instance: A childless elderly couple decided to adopt a school age boy. But the lively youngster so upset their quiet routine that all were very unhappy. After a few weeks, he was returned to the orphanage with no lasting harm and no legal difficulties. Also, the time allowed for investigation tends to discourage traffic and profiteering in babies.

WHITE HOUSE BUTLERS.

Chicago, Feb. 6.—I wonder if congress, with all the debate on the man power situation and the "work or fight" bill offered as a remedy, has overlooked the White House solution.

The head usher of the White House appeared before an appropriations committee to explain an item of $19,000 asked for additional help for the White House. "Two or three extra butlers are needed and some floor cleaners and such," was his explanation. The committee avoided further embarrassment to him by granting the request for six additional servants.

There's a man power shortage, according to our President, so the White House gets two or three extra butlers. How did they get along before? I don't know what the going rate in Washington is for extra butlers, but $19,000 divided by six makes the floor cleaners and such come pretty high, or will the jobs be given to "loyal workers for the party"? As for myself, with that sterling example of man power conservation, I am going to hustle right out and get me a job in a war plant. HENRY WILLIAMS.

ONE ILLEGALITY LEADS TO ANOTHER.

Chicago, Feb. 5.—The labor conscription bill, now before the senate, violates the 13th amendment of the Constitution. "National service" is compulsory labor, and compulsory labor is involuntary servitude.

"Enforced service for a private master is and has been clearly and repeatedly defined by our Supreme court as slavery," Bernard Baruch has pointed out.

Pro-slavery advocates argue that the "war need" justifies violating the Constitution. The contention is brazen, dishonest, and intolerable, for the constitutional question is the only relevant one. If one illegal act can be justified on the basis of expediency, any other illegal act may then be justified on the same ground; and we are down to the level of the Nazi gangsters.

PAUL R. STOUT.

F. D. R.'S CONCERN FOR VETERANS.

New Orleans, La., Jan. 25.—Our President always states how much he loves the veterans. If my recollection is correct, one of first acts when he became President was to reduce the disability and pension allowance of the veterans. His second act was to veto the bonus for the veterans of World War I.

H. F. KRUGER, 86, HAYMARKET RIOT SURVIVOR, DEAD

Wounded by Anarchists in 1886 Uprising.

Herman F. Kruger, 86, one of the last two survivors of the Haymarket riot of 1886, died yesterday in his home at 4449 N. Christiana av. Mr. Kruger was wounded in the knee during the anarchist riot, climaxed by the tossing of a bomb at the meeting at Randolph and Desplaines sts., and resulting in the deaths of nine policemen.

Born in Germany, Mr. Kruger came to Chicago in 1870. He had served as an Indian fighter in the United States army and had taken part in the roundup of "Little John," rebellious Cherokee chief. He joined the police department in 1883 and eventually became desk sergeant at the old West Chicago station.

Mr. Kruger retired from the police department in 1907 and immediately was elected alderman of the old 15th ward, serving until 1909. He was active in Democratic politics.

Mr. Kruger leaves five daughters, seven grandchildren, and two great-grandchildren. Services will be held at 1:30 p. m. Monday in the chapel at 3224 Montrose av.

The pastors of Negro and white congregations will exchange pulpits, and more than 150 Protestant churches will participate in union services thruout the next four weeks, designated by Mayor Kelly as Brotherhood month, which will be coördinated by the federation under the direction of Dr. Homer A. Jack, executive secretary of the Chicago Council Against Racial and Religious Discrimination. A number of Americans of Japanese descent, together with rabbis and Jewish laymen, will participate in the programs. The Evanston Ministerial association has arranged for talks on race relations by 14 speakers in the schools of that area. . . . The young persons of St. Thomas church, 3801 Wabash av., and St. Andrew's church, Evanston, will be hosts to the youths of other Episcopal congregations at an interracial service at 4 p. m. tomorrow in St. Thomas' church. Dinner and a recreational program will follow the service, sponsored by the Rev. J. Rodger McColl of St. Augustine's church, Wilmette, chairman of the youth commission of the Episcopal diocese. . . . Chicago Baptist youths will hold their 10th annual interracial fellowship rally at 3 p. m. tomorrow in Woodlawn Baptist church, 6207 University av. The Rev. Douglas G. Eadie, director of Christian education, will preside. The Rev. David M. Jordan, president of the West Side Ministers' association, will preach on the text, "That They May All Be One."

The fifth annual All-Chicago Lutheran Youth conference will open at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow in the graduate education building of the University of Chicago, 5835 Kimbark av. The Rev. Dr. Oscar Benson, president of the Illinois conference, Augustana synod, will preach at evensong at 4:30 p. m. in Rockefeller Memorial chapel. . . . Luther E. Schwartzkopf, graduate of Concordia Theological seminary, St. Louis, Mo., will be ordained at 10:30 a. m. tomorrow in Bond chapel, University of Chicago. His father, the Rev. Dr. Louis J. Schwartzkopf, pastor of Hyde Park Lutheran congregation, Missouri synod, will officiate, and a reception will be held in the afternoon and evening in the new pastor's residence, 1443 E. 60th st. . . . The Rev. Dr. John Timothy Stone will preside for the first time as acting director of the Sunday Evening club tomorrow night in Orchestra hall. He will introduce Francis B. Sayre, diplomatic adviser to UNRRA, who will speak on "Years Ahead." . . . "The Home Front" will be the topic of Channing Pollock's address before the Charles Carroll forum at 3:30 p. m. tomorrow in the Morrison hotel. . . . A conference on "Returning Service Personnel" for leaders in local churches of service men's committees will be held at 3:30 p. m. tomorrow in the Central Y. M. C. A. Dr. Martin H. Bickham will preside. The principal speaker will be Dr. Marion J. Creeger of the Federal Council of Churches. Other speakers will be Col. James L. McBride, chaplain for the 6th service command, and the Rev. Dr. Russell L. Dicks, chaplain at Wesley Memorial hospital.

The Rev. John Odou, S. J., associate editor of Queen's Work, St. Louis, Mo., will address the Holy Name officers' training school to be held next Saturday at De Paul university, 64 E. Lake st., and Sunday, Feb. 18, at Loyola university, 6525 Sheridan rd. More than 1,000 officers and committee chairmen of the 390 Holy Name societies in the metropolitan area will attend. . . . Seabury-Western Theological seminary, Evanston, will hold its annual open house tomorrow afternoon for all Episcopal parishes of the Chicago area. The Rev. Alden Drew Kelley, dean, will preach at the 5:30 p. m. evensong, after which faculty members and students will hold a reception in Horlick refectory. . . . Washington Heights Methodist church will hold a gratulatory service Friday night for the 88th birthday and 11th year as pastor of the Rev. John Norris Hall. The anniversary sermon will be preached by the Rev. Lester W. Sprenger of Normal Park Methodist church. . . . Preliminary announcement has been made of a "Call to Repentance" service to be held March 11 at 3:30 p. m. in the Chicago Stadium. The service will be conducted by the Rev. Dr. J. W. Behnken, president of the Lutheran Missouri synod and the sermon will be preached by the Rev. Dr. Walter A. Maier, International Lutheran hour speaker.

RADIO PROJECT IS ADOPTED BY CHURCH GROUP

A radio fellowship in Christian education has been set up by the International Council of Religious Education. The council, which met yesterday in the Morrison hotel, also voted for a full time radio department director of the council. The director will be Pearl Rosser of Philadelphia, Pa. The announcement was made by Dr. Roy G. Foss, executive director of the council, which concludes its sessions today.

The board of trustees of the council is acting for the entire organization because of the federal request for curtailment of travel. Originally a convention was scheduled.

Dr. Ross said the department of radio education was formed to develop programs for the 40 denominations of the council, as well as for the 183 state, provincial, and city councils of religious education in North America.

PAPAZAIN HEIR TO $900,000 IS OPPOSED BY KIN

The will of Aram Melchior Papazain, 81, who left an estate of $900,897 to his son by a second marriage when he died Oct. 2, 1943, in France, was contested in a suit filed in Circuit court yesterday by his son and daughter by his first marriage.

Papazain, former minister of education in Egypt, inherited a fortune from his first wife, the former Miss Isabel Gray, who died in 1914. She was a relative of an official of the First National Bank of Chicago.

Papazain left the estate to Haig-Aram Page Papazain of the British army. George C. Papazain, released from a German prison camp, and Mrs. Ellen Dawson Cass Papazaín Kovalenko, wife of a Russian refugee in France, contend that under French law all children must share equally in a father's estate.

50 MORE TO GO ON STAND DURING KUM BUM'S TRIAL

The trial of Hugh Greer Carruthers, 57, self-styled Kum Bum charged with fraudulently obtaining $289,000 from his followers, yesterday was adjourned until Monday after Defense Atty. Edward J. Hess informed Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan that he had 50 more witnesses to call.

For the first time, the government, on cross-examination, found a defense witness who admitted "another" religious affiliation besides that of the Neological Foundation. He was Myron Goldenberg, a licensed public accountant, of 300 Adams st., who said he was a member of the Anshe Sholom temple.

Other witnesses devoted their testimony to the results of "scientific breathing" which the Kum Bum taught in a series of printed pamphlets. One witness, Mrs. Bertha Huber of 6404 Laflin st., said she had tried to use Nan Gene, a hair shampoo which Carruthers is alleged to have peddled on the side, but that she threw it away because it didn't "bubble up."

EAST DIGS OUT OF BLIZZARD; 18 REPORTED DEAD

Boston, Mass., Feb. 9 (AP).—With a death toll of 18 and damage mounting into the millions, New England tonight was digging itself out of its worst blizzard since the Valentine's day storm of 1940.

A record fall of snow, ranging up to 17 inches in Boston, forced stores and schools to close and left most war plants short of man power.

Transportation, virtually paralyzed for 24 hours, was wheezing along in low gear. Highways were dotted with stalled automobiles. Soldiers answered a railroad appeal to shovel out switches. Thousands of commuters spent last night in police stations, railroad terminals, and hotel lobbies.

Thousands of workers, after struggling thru drifts to reach railroad stations, car, and bus stops, trudged home again upon finding service stalled. A piercing gale piled up 6 foot drifts on many roads.

CARL DUNNAGAN RENAMED HEAD OF GRAPHIC ARTS

Carl E. Dunnagan, president of the Inland Press, Inc., has been re-elected president of the Graphic Arts Association of Illinois, Inc. Eagle Freshwater of the Western Newspaper Union was elected first vice president; Walter H. Nelson of Rand McNally & Co., second vice president, and John F. Snider of the Logan Printing company, Peoria, third vice president.

W. H. King was elected treasurer, S. F. Beatty, secretary and general manager. New directors elected are Otto E. Bull, Calvin D. McKay, Ivan A. McKenna, Charles D. F. Merrill, Theodore Regensteiner, Jean Thiessen, and R. B. Nelson.

"Unless a miracle happens, the paper situation will grow worse in 1945, because of increased government printing requirements and the enormous demands of the foreign economic administration for paper for liberated countries," Dunnagan said at the annual meeting.

MORE 40 DEGREE TEMPERATURES FORECAST TODAY

More thawing weather, with the temperature around 40 degrees, is predicted for today, Forecaster E. S. Hanlon said. The temperature yesterday rose to 41 degrees, quickly melting the results of a two and a half hour freezing rain that fell early in the morning and which slowed traffic and forced city transportation lines to send out sanders. Few accidents were reported on the slippery pavements and sidewalks. There is a likelihood of continued mild weather tomorrow if the lake continues to fend off the cold pocket to the north of the city.

Church to Be Setting Today for 2 Weddings of Interest

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE chapel of the Fourth Presbyterian church will be the setting for two weddings today, one at 3 p. m., when Miss Virginia Stewart will become the bride of Lt. Robert R. Newell Jr. of the army, and the other at 4:30 p. m. when Ensign Robert D. Brigham of Winnetka takes Miss Norma Tonkin as his bride. The Ambassador East hotel will be the destination of both small groups of wedding guests after the ceremonies, as Mrs. Frank J. Stewart is giving a small reception in her apartment there for her daughter and Lt. Newell, while Mr. and Mrs. Loring L. Tonkin of Clarksburg, W. Va., who are staying in the hotel while here for their daughter's wedding, also will receive there.

No previous announcement of the engagement of Miss Stewart to Lt. Newell had been made. The bride, a graduate of Rosemary Hall and Smith college, has been working in the same army ordnance department in which Lt. Newell is stationed. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Newell of Upper Montclair, N. J., formerly of Cleveland, O., who are unable to be here for the wedding.

Miss Stewart will be unattended. George Lockwood of Duluth, Minn., will be best man for Lt. Newell, who is a graduate of Yale university. After a wedding trip to Mexico, Lt. Newell and his bride will be at home in Chicago.

Ensign Brigham, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clare Maynard Brigham of Winnetka, received his commission from the naval reserve training school at Northwestern university Nov. 22, and after being stationed in Norfolk, Va., he has returned for temporary duty at Navy pier. He attended Denison university, at which Miss Tonkin is a student. Her sister, Miss Jean Tonkin, also a Denison student, will be maid of honor. Here for the wedding is another sister, Mrs. William A. Crumrine of Colorado Springs, Colo. The fourth sister, Mrs. Merrill N. Davis, and her husband live in Chicago. Ensign Brigham has one brother, Lt. [j. g.] Jack Brigham, who took part in the Normandy invasion and who now is stationed in Norfolk.

Engagement News.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Newell Smith of Phoenix, Ariz., announce the engagement of their daughter, Betsy Elaine, to Dr. Ashton B. Taylor, son of Mrs. Ashton Taylor and the late Mr. Taylor of Wilmette. Miss Smith is a junior in the Medill school of journalism at Northwestern university, at which she serves as editor of the yearbook, the Syllabus. Her fiance, a first lieutenant in the army reserve, is completing his internship in Wesley Memorial hospital. He was graduated from the University of Chicago and from the Northwestern medical school, having taken part of his pre-medical training at the University of Stockholm in Sweden. The wedding is planned for June.

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Quinlan of Winnetka announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary Ellin, to John M. Aasterud, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. N. Aasterud of Pueblo, Colo. Miss Quinlan is a student at Trinity college, Washington, D. C., from which she will be graduated in June. Her fiance received his degree from Regis college in Denver, Colo., and studied law at Catholic university in Washington, D. C. He has received an honorable discharge from the army air forces after more than two years' service.

Maternity Center Events.

Two gatherings yesterday were concerned with the Chicago Maternity center, which will celebrate its 50th anniversary Wednesday. A large group of young persons attended a benefit cocktail party in the Racquet club given by the North Shore Service league to raise money for the center. They spent a pleasant few hours dancing, watching a Gay Nineties' fashion show, having tintype pictures taken, posing for a caricaturist, visiting the sandwich and cocktail bars, and enjoying an old fashioned barber shop quartet, while cash registers rang up a substantial sum for the center.

The other gathering was a business meeting in the morning in the Casino club, when Mrs. Philip D. Armour Jr. heard the first reports from her team chairmen on a drive to enroll 750 new members for the center. In the week since the drive opened, the chairmen reported, 72 members have been enrolled, with a total of $3,050 subscribed. Another meeting will be held next Friday in the Casino.

On the Calendar.

The young women who will usher at Anne O'Hare McCormick's lecture in the Eighth Street theater at 8 p. m. Monday for the benefit of the Cenacle Retreat house in Warrenville, Ill., will be entertained at tea this afternoon in the Woman's Athletic club. Before Mrs. McCormick's lecture on "Europe and the Peace," a number of friends of the convent will entertain at dinner, among them Mrs. Querin Dorschel, who will take a group to the Stevens hotel; Miss Jane Magan, who will entertain in the Cliff Dwellers; Mr. and Mrs. John C. Tully, and the Gilbert Haggertys, who will entertain with Mrs. Donald H. Elder.

Mrs. Frederick L. Spencer will entertain at tea at 4 p. m. tomorrow in her Crilly ct. home for Dr. Francis Froelicher, headmaster of the Fountain Valley School for Boys in Colorado Springs, Colo. Dr. Froelicher will speak and color movies of the school will be shown.

Dr. Dudley Crafts Watson will take members and guests of the Cliff Dwellers on a tour "From Hell to Heaven in Mexico" tonight in the club, illustrating his talk with color films with music. Dinner will be served at 6:30.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

The Witching Hour.

FRIDAY AFTERNOON.

A brooding silence hangs upon the air,
Close friends are murmuring low . . .
"O, could you spare
Just one thin dime for me . . .
just one thin dime?"

Again each girl is making solemn vow
That never, never more, will she fall short!
She'll budget carefully for sure next week
And 'gainst this awful poverty hold fort.

SATURDAY MORNING.

Ah, Saturday! . . . O, blessed day of joy
When each girl beams in rapturous glee anew,

As Others See Us.

This morning two of your much vaunted W. C. G.'s got on the suburban train bound for the loop and gave themselves complete hair-dos for the benefit of sundry hard boiled male passengers. They got on at different stations and sat in different parts of the car, but the technique was the same. Out comes the glass. Out comes the comb. Pull, dig, and tear at the snarls Pull the hair out of the comb and wisp it on the floor. Push up the back. Poke at the sides. Peck at the front. Start all over again—push, poke, primp, and peck!

A lovely public sight en route to business on an early morning train! Are men to be censured for not having much confidence in feminine brains? A.

And the Abbott Dancers.

One of the young lovelies among the white collar girls in our office afforded a humorous offset to a gray winter day last week when she erroneously wired as follows for a hotel reservation: "Please reserve room with show [instead of shower] for Mr. Emcee." M. HENNIGAN.

Getting Caught Up.

A man with valuable experience employing and supervising office workers says the bane of office existence is falling behind with work. When this happens, he says, women become flustered, so he offers three remedies:

"1. Compose yourself inwardly and realize that every busy person finds himself in some such spot.

"2. Decide on 'first things' and do them first.

"3. Allot a regular amount of back work to be done consistently each day, instead of plunging into all of it on one day. Ten minutes extra concentration daily will clear away many a desk."

Frosty Laces Enchant Airy Spring Modes

BY REA SEEGER.

Exquisitely white fragile embroidery and fine lace, combined with precious lengths of transparent organdy, strike the newest pre-spring neckwear notes. Used in vestees, dickies, and other frankly fake front stuff, the lacy materials take the lead in shopping interest.

These airy trifles work magic with winter weary wool suits. They also, of course, provide effective white frosting for the brand new suits, which come in pastels, bright colors, and checks and plaid tweed mixtures. In addition, they are excellent as white relief for the many dresses of lusterless crepe with a deep vee neckline and for the blouse tops that open like a short coat.

Snowy white takes preference with the shoppers, but watch the pale bon bon pastels—yellow, lime, pale blue, and pink—break the records any day now. The vestees and dickies also are made of filmy washable sheers and in many models, from the excessively frou-frou affairs to the little demure models primly tucked in with fine vertical lines.

Effective bands of lace or embroidery provide contrast for many a vestee or sleeveless blouse. The bands are used in chevron or horizontal applique across the front. Many open down the front with tiny baby buttons. Many are fashioned of band embroidery, with the embroidered motifs down the center front, the plain edge used at the side. White tape ties keep them neat and snug around the waistline.

Appenzell embroidery, with that delightful mauve gray tint in the thread, makes ideal vestees and vestee trim for the smart decorative models needed for suit jacket contrast. All this white frosting is at peak assortment now. Delay in obtaining it is dangerous as the stuff vanishes almost while you look.

National Nurse Group Against Draft Proposal

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9 [Special].—The nursing profession of the nation today notified the house military affairs committee it was opposed to proposed legislation to draft nurses for the fighting forces.

Miss Katherine J. Densford, president of the American Nurses' association, informed the committee studying the bill that the association favored an adequately supported program of voluntary recruitment.

The association, comprising 178,000 of the nation's registered nurses, favors a program "at least comparable in scope to those employed in the recruitment of WACs and WAVES, said Miss Densford.

Such a program, to be effective, must be instituted promptly in some federal agency, with funds, personnel, and authority to put it into immediate effect, Miss Densford asserted.

If the committee decides on a draft, the association would accept it "only as a first step in a selective service act for all women," she added. This would have to be supplemented by a general service act so "that our drastically reduced nursing service may be augmented by help from other groups of women," she said.

Miss Densford was asked to appear again before the committee when hearings are resumed next Tuesday to enlarge on her testimony.

Earlier, Col. George E. Ijans told the committee that President Roosevelt's recent speech urging nurses to enter the services had caused a hardship in veterans' hospitals.

"The glamour of a uniform, and the benefits under the G. I. bill of rights caused nurses to leave in droves to join up," said Col. Ijans.

"Our situation is desperate and we have asked the secretary of war three different times to commission our nurses so they will stay with us."

Veterans' hospitals must obtain 1,000 more nurses immediately and 4,000 within the next two years, he said.

Col. Ijans said the present patient load in veterans' hospitals comprises 43,598 World War I and 15,772 World War II patients. He asserted 2,897 more wounded men were turned over by the army and navy hospitals last month and the percentage is increasing weekly.

Questioned by Rep. Luce [R., Conn.], Col. Ijans conceded little effort had been made to use the 9,000 registered colored nurses because racial segregation is a policy of the veterans' administration.

Hutchins Carries On for Wife at Opening of Her Art Exhibit

President Robert Maynard Hutchins of the University of Chicago doffed his pedagogical chores yesterday to perform husbandly yeoman service at the opening of an exhibit of three new sculptures by his wife, Maude Phelps Hutchins, in the Albert Roullier galleries. It was the first time Mrs. Hutchins could not attend the opening of one of her exhibits, he said. She has been ill of desert fever. Two of the sculptures are portrait heads of Alexandra and Frances Ewing, the daughters of Mrs. John Brooks of New York. The third is a vase in two tones of terra cotta, decorated with four nudes. Several of Mrs. Hutchins' paintings also are exhibited, along with a pen and ink self-portrait.

Send the Boys Big Doses of Home News

BY SHEILA DALY.

[Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Every smart high school gal knows that the best 3 cent cure for loneliness when a soldier or sailor is far from home comes all wrapped up in an envelope, finished off with a return address from his own home town.

These homeychiles have heard the slogans, "A letter a day keeps the blues away" and "You write, he'll fight," and figure that they are just the ones to do the blues chasing for their particular friends in service.

So, filled with that red, white, and blue feeling, the girls sit down to write a newsy letter to one of their old friends. But comes the problem. Life has become rather routine since the boys went away and nothing worth writing about seems to have happened in the last few months. So out comes a brief "Everything's fine. Hope you are well" kind of letter that rates being sent back unopened.

It takes time and thought to write a good letter. If the fellow whom you are writing to is an ex-classmate school is always a fine subject with which to begin. It was so much a part of his life when he was home such news will make interesting reading now that he is away. Just tell him about the last all-school assembly, the skit the senior fellows put on for English class, how the basketball team is doing these days, and news about the teachers. He always used to laugh when something funny happened at school, so chances are 10 to 1 he'll relish a good laugh now when he can only reminisce about "school days" and the fun they used to be.

His friends are still his friends, even tho he hasn't seen them for the last few months, so he'll be interested in news of them, too. Let him know which boys are dating which girls these days, what goes on round the drug store, who's working where after school and on Saturdays, and which fellows have left or about to leave for service. Tell him who's been home on furlough, what his old gang has been doing for excitement lately, and how much they all miss not having him around.

Remember the things you used to enjoy talking over together. A good letter is just a good conversation put down in black and white, and he's lonesome for some one to talk with. So pull up a pen and get in the conversation. An item of high school gossip may seem like small talk to you, but he's far away and lonesome; to him it's front page stuff.

Thru the Looking Glass

A "quintessence" set of five little flacons of toilet water is a sweet valentine—a special success for the budgeteer who wants to find different and telling gifts that cost little.

These—they're quite small and dainty—come in a pretty blue and white box decorated with flowers. The fragrances are all florals of the country garden order. Lilac, white phlox, and night scented stock are three "straight" ones of exceptional beauty; the two others are blends, one called green moss, the other royal purple. The green moss is just what its name might suggest—cool, clean, and serene. The set of five makes a perfect small gift and may serve as an introduction to some scents the recipient will want later in more lavish quantity.

In the same family you'll find a bath basket that's a unique bearer of Cupid's good will on Valentine's day. This is luxurious but not crushingly expensive. Very pretty to look at, with a ribbon bow topping its handle, it contains two fat cakes of fine soap, a bottle of toilet water, dusting powder, and two bottles of bath essence, three or four drops of which will scent the tub wonderfully. The fragrances are all lovely and again are of the country garden variety. Lemon verbena is a special pet, rose geranium runs it a close second, and then come the night scented stock and the lilac.

College Women Face Greater Opportunity Than Ever, Club Told

Women graduates of liberal arts college have a greater opportunity and responsibility than ever before, Dr. Helen C. White, English professor at the University of Wisconsin and national president of the American Association of University Women, said yesterday. She spoke at the third annual conference of the Alumnae college in the Chicago College club.

The graduates have had a rounded education, she said, and enjoy the advantages of breadth of vision, discipline of mind, public spirit, and a broad orientation in tradition and in contemporary problems. However, she added, the present crisis of the world has made it evident that it is not enough that leaders have these advantages—more citizens also must have them.

Franklyn B. Snyder, president of Northwestern university, was the speaker at the evening session. The two day conference will close tonight in the club.

Wisconsin Leaders Criticize It's 'Model' Adoption Law

[A bill to change the Illinois adoption law soon will come before the Illinois legislature. Proposed amendments would require an investigation of the child and adoptive parents, a six months' probationary period, and the witnessing of consents to adoption—all to be supervised by the state department of public welfare or a licensed child welfare agency.]

BY NORMA LEE BROWNING.

Wisconsin has the kind of adoption law some Chicago leaders want for the state of Illinois. It has the rigid investigational requirements and the six months probationary period.

It is one of the states often mentioned by Chicago's social workers as having "progressive" adoptive legislation. Illinois, they say, is a "backward" state because it has retained its "antiquated," "outmoded," and "lax" adoption law.

While our own adoption law is being harshly criticized, it is interesting to observe that Wisconsin's "model" adoption law is being questioned—by Wisconsin residents—for its strictness.

Principal bone of contention, according to Milwaukee doctors and judges, is the investigational requirement.

Judge Michael S. Sheridan of the Milwaukee County court, said:

"I think our social investigations are carried too far. Take the case of a girl who comes from a fine family but makes a slip. She goes away, has her baby, and in due time the child is adopted into a fine family. There is no publicity, no red tape. That was the old system, and we thought it worked pretty well.

"Under the new law, what happens to this girl? The social worker makes her tell who the child's father was. Maybe he was one of the town's prominent lawyers, with a wife and children of his own. Under our law there must be an investigation of the 'former environment and antecedents of the child.' The social worker goes back to the girl's home town and begins digging into the background of both families—parents and grandparents. In some cases the reputations of both families are ruined."

Judge Sheridan also cited the recent case of a prominent Milwaukee attorney who wanted to adopt a child but almost backed out when the social worker, after asking him what his salary was, insisted on seeing his bank book, and then, still not satisfied, checked up at his bank to see whether he had told the truth.

"Some investigation is necessary," Judge Sheridan said, "but the social workers carry it too far. They insist on going back to your grandfather and great-grandfather. Well, if they went back to the great-grandfathers in my family, they might find a horse thief among them. Does that prove I'm an unfit father?"

Judge Sheridan said he sees no sense in parading the skeletons in the closet — which many families have if one goes back far enough.

"Frankly," he said, "I think there's a lot of merit in the old adoption system under which we could order investigations at our own discretion."

Some Milwaukee doctors, according to an article in the Medical Times, official journal of the Medical Society of Milwaukee County, also are questioning Wisconsin's adoption procedures.

"Milwaukee couples wishing to adopt children are forced to go out of the state to find them while Milwaukee institutions are full of children," the article says. "It is perhaps too easy for the social worker to find some discrepancy in the background of the child or of the pros-

On the Record

Heldentenor for Keeps.

Victor celebrates the recapture of Lauritz Melchior by assembling some of his records in "Scenes from Wagner Operas" [M-979; five 12-inch records]. This is interesting two ways. It is valuable evidence of the unrivaled heldentenor of our time, who is operatically elusive since he turned to movies and radio—and it shows how time flies. For the album opens with the brilliant performance of the love music from "Tristan and Isolde," recorded with Kirsten Flagstad and the San Francisco orchestra, Edwin McArthur conducting. The original album holding that duet was rounded out with Flagstad's Liebestod and Immolation. This time it's Melchior's show, and he earns the bows with singing of nobility, joyousness, and reassuring beauty. He sings the Narrative from "Lohengrin," the Hymn to Venus and Rome Narrative from "Tannhäuser," the Hammer Song from "Siegfried," and the Steersman's Song from "The Flying Dutchman." McArthur conducts in every case except the "Lohengrin" excerpt, done with Eugene Ormandy and the Philadelphia orchestra.

Columbia—Coming and Here.

Columbia sends word that two new symphonic records are on their way—Artur Rodzinski's of Tschaikowsky's "Pathétique," with the New York Philharmonic, and Eugene Ormandy's of Beethoven's Seventh with the Philadelphia orchestra. But right at hand are one new set and two reissues, all worth discovering. The newcomer is the Budapest quartet's recording of Beethoven's Quartet No. 4 in C minor, Opus 18 [M-556; three 12-inch records]. This is the only quartet of the first six written in minor mode, and it has one of those deep throated, impeccably accurate performances that made the Budapest four famous—here, of course, the original group of Roismann, Kroyt, and the two Schneiders. The recording has the focus of actual performance under desirable conditions.

Walter Gieseking records always were a treasure and the reissue of the Grieg Concerto in A minor is no exception [M-313; four 12-inch records]. Played with the Berlin State Opera orchestra under the direction of Hans Rosbaud, it has the Gieseking beauty of tone and limpid brilliance of style. The final side holds Grieg's gentle lullaby, "At the Cradle," and the "French Serenade."

Still an older reissue, but a sparkling one, is Antal Dorati's performance with the London Philharmonic of "Scuola di Ballo," the Boccherini music arranged by Jean Francaix for Massine's ballet on the Goldoni comedy [X-157; two 12-inch records]. This is gay going in elegant style, and it may make balletomanes nostalgic not only for "Scuolo di Ballo," but for "The Good Humored Ladies," too.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Feb. 9.—Daryl Zanuck has work under way on "The Home Stretch." It includes both the British and the Kentucky Derbys and some colored shots of the British coronation in May, 1937, which were shelved until a place was found for them. . . . Since Lizabeth Scott started work in "You Came Along," Herman Shumlin has decided he wants her for his next on Broadway. . . . When Connie Bennett saw George Rigaud's test for "Paris Underground," she said, "Get him—I don't care what he costs." She can pick 'em, 'cause now the gals are drooling over him. Born in Argentina and educated in Paris, he has combined the techniques of both countries, which sure makes a woman feel like a woman. . . . So Doris Sawyers and Moss Hart are romancing? When all the time Moss is just growing that beard so he'll keep warmer when he goes overseas!

A Story About 'Way Back When.

Dining with Mrs. Tommy Meighan, I learned that sister Blanche Ring was the first to hire Will Rogers. She saw him do his rope act in Texas and engaged him for "Wall Street Girl." He said he wouldn't talk. Opening night on Broadway, he was such a hit she asked if he wouldn't say something. He did—he said, "Thanks!" They were together for two years. Now she's living on land he first bought in California. She sits under the shade of trees he planted. . . . At the same dinner party Amos 'n' Andy played for hours, while Nelson Eddy sang. Blanche did "Rings on Your Fingers," Eddie Sutherland chimed in, while Mrs. Andy danced with Jack Potts. . . . Anita Colby and George Abbott still are together. . . . Ginger Rogers' new earrings are three diamond balls on each ear. . . . Mrs. Jack Bunyon is delighted with Virginia Van Upp and her writing job at Columbia.

Welcome on Mat in Big Letters.

Martha Sleeper lunched with Leo McCarey and it was reported she had signed for "Bells of St. Mary's." Not true. When she lunches with Louis B. Mayer Tuesday, the story will be that she's signed at Metro. She hasn't signed anywhere. Three studios want her. Hottest on her trail is Billy Goetz, for Sonja Henie's "Countess of Monte Cristo." When I say that Martha never looked prettier, it isn't a figure of speech—it's reality. . . . The Encino mayor election will be held in Eddie Horton's barn. An all-star cast is running—Tom Brenneman, Bill Elliott, Mischa Auer, and Paul Muni. . . . Kay Williams certainly got the ermine crowd for the opening of "Doughgirls" at the Bliss Hayden theater. . . . Helen Broderick had this note from Max Gordon: "Get out your recipe for spaghetti. We'll be out in April."

Something to Live Up To.

The picture, "Hollywood Canteen," has confused our soldiers. Now when they go to the canteen and find no stars to dance with, they ask, "How come?" It seems Warner's should see that the real canteen gets entertainers, too. The one big show of the week is put on by Ida Koverman from Metro. She never fails. . . . I'm wondering whether Katharine Hepburn will leave Hollywood and the movies for "As You Like It" on the stage. . . . Sybil Chism, who's played the organ for Lum 'n' Abner for six years, has retired. She says she hopes to have a baby. . . . Lili Damita and Charles Munn Jr. are a photogenic twosome at Palm Beach. . . . Andy Russell [The Other Voice] turned dramatic with Ingrid Bergman on the Command Performance radio show. . . . Hurray! The J. Carrol Naishes celebrate their 15th wedding anniversary tomorrow night.

Household Forum

By Louise Bargeli

Mrs. Henry B., Chicago—In broiling bacon, I have found that if I give the fork a quick twist as I remove bacon from broiler the strips will emerge with a nice curl.

Elaine W., Evansville, Ind. — A small mirror is helpful when I remove spots from a garment with a dry cleaner. I place the glass face of the mirror under spotted portion of garment. The cleaning fluid is kept in contact with the fabric long enough, in this way, to permit the substance that caused stain to dissolve.

Madeline S., Chicago—My husband screws mouse traps, three and four of them, to a block of wood. He sets them in what he calls "gangs." Then it is easier to bait them. Besides, the board can't be dragged so easily when a mouse is caught.

Score 'Model' Adoption Act in Wisconsin

pective parents that will serve as an excuse for placing the child in an institution or a boarding home."

Doctors feel that many persons who are happily married [and are never bothered with the bogey fear of a quirk of personality in their mate's uncle] do not have half the knowledge of their husband's or wife's background which the social agencies demand in adoption cases, according to the article.

"The doctors agree," the article continues, "that freedom from tuberculosis, insanity, syphilis, and other such conditions on both the part of the child and the prospective parents and the immediate progenitors of both should certainly be determined. But the soul searching inquiries and examinations often border on the absurd."

As an example the article cites the case of the social worker, a naive girl of 21 or 22, who questioned a doctor about the habits of a young couple living near him who were prospective foster parents. The doctor's replies to her investigational questions were patient and pleasant enough—until the young social worker popped up with the question:

"What about their sex practices?"

In the investigation of unmarried mothers, there is also often "more harm than good," the article says.

"In small communities," it continues, "the visit of an investigator and her inquiries create suspicion and embarrassment for the girl and her parents. The more protection she is offered from this sort of thing, the more likely it is she will go thru with having her baby instead of seeking an abortion. The doctors feel that anything which will spare her unnecessary publicity and prevent her from making a tragic mistake on top of her first one is worth while."

In Chicago, Dr. Henry Poncher, head of the pediatrics department of the University of Illinois, commented:

"Of course it is highly desirable that adoptive homes be adequate in every respect for proper bringing up of the child. But instead of giving social agencies complete control of all adoptions, I think it might be better, first, to make sure that all adoptive children come thru state licensed child-placing institutions, and then leave it up to the individual institutions to regulate their own investigations."

He said the proposed probationary period advocated by the social agencies may be fine for the adoptive parents, but unfair to the child—who could be shifted from one home to another until "the right home for the right child" is found.

"Even with our own children we don't know how they're going to turn out," he said.

He praised the work being done by Mrs. William Walrath of the Cradle society.

"She is not a professional social worker," he said, "but she provides her own social service and is doing an excellent job."

Dr. Clifford G. Grulee, secretary of the American Academy of Pediatrics, said:

"Every one who adopts a child has a right to know about its parentage."

He remarked that he does not approve of "those individuals and institutions who doll babies up and sell them," but added:

"You can't control crooks by passing laws. For every law that is made there is somebody who is going to devise a way to break it."

"MRS. PARKINGTON."

Produced by M-G-M, directed by Tay Garnett, featuring Greer Carson, Walter Pidgeon, Edward Arnold, Agnes Moorehead, Cecil Kellaway, Gladys Cooper, Frances Rafferty, Tom Drake, Peter Lawford, Dan Duryea, Hugh Marlowe, and Selena Royle, and presented at the United Artists.

By Mae Tinée.

Mrs. Parkington was quite a gal, apparently. As the film opens, she's 84 years old—and unbelievably well-preserved, I might add. It's Christmas eve and the rest of the members of her family are gathered for the customary holiday reunion. They're a very unappetizing group, on the whole, and one member, the neurotic ex-wife of a duke, tosses aside her few inhibitions by means of alcohol and states flatly: "The Parkington family stinks!" Far be it from me to disagree with her.

A son-in-law has embezzled funds to the amount of the entire family fortune, and, in deciding what to do about it, Mrs. P. reviews her life in a series of flashbacks which start with a view of her, young and dewey-eyed, hanging out the window of a boarding house watching a swash-buckling gambler hit the town. He proves to be the owner of a mine which he knows is unsafe, and in which her mother later is killed, but she doesn't hold it again' the major, whom she marries almost immediately after the disaster.

Scenes from their long and busy life are portrayed and her romance with the dashing gent is a perpetual one—in one case, thanks to none other than Queen Victoria's playboy son, Edward VII., who, with a wink and a royal command, preserves a marriage.

Walter Pidgeon plays the flamboyant Maj. Parkington, who starts out as a Victorian version of a wolf, makes fabulous sums of money—just how is not divulged—and almost succeeds in ruining all the members of the 400 because they won't come to a party he throws. I have liked Mr. Pidgeon far better in other roles.

Miss Garson is demure and lovely to look at, but struck me as a bit colorless for the part. My personal award for the best acting goes to Gladys Cooper for her work as a daughter, a cynical shell of a woman who is utterly indifferent to every one.

The whole film is as rococo as a wedding cake and the plot obvious and banal, but if you like long pictures with lots of costumes and extravagant sets, and not a great deal else, you probably won't think that two hours of same is too much.

Wise Parents Tolerant with Adolescents

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1945: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Do you take the irritability of your teen-age son or daughter as a personal affront?

"Last night," said an unmarried woman to me, "a dear friend of mine told me, with tears in her eyes, of her worries concerning her daughter, a girl of 15. I was astonished at her ignorance on the subject of adolescence and told her I often read advice on how to handle youngsters going thru this difficult period. My friend is so hurt she just wants to cry and mope, but I told her to write to you.

"I was surprised that my friend should know so little about child rearing that she could take it as a personal affront when her teen-age daughter is in bad humor."

"She takes it as a personal affront when her daughter is in bad humor" is a state of affairs that exists in many homes.

Far too often in families where teen-age children are concerned, many rapidly developing sons or daughters are the victims of moodiness—or an unevenness that they are not fundamentally responsible for.

At these times—in fact, all thru adolescence—the greatest understanding is needed. What seems like an antagonism or irritability directed at us is not usually a personal affront at all and should not be taken as such. It is chiefly that we just happen to be always there to get the impact of an explosion or irritability.

The parents of teen-age children often are greatly tried. But they must try to take all that happens without hurt feelings and antagonisms, altho that does not mean that all mannerliness on the part of teen-agers should "go by the board."

$5 PRIZE RECIPE

Butterscotch Apples.
[Serves four.]

5 medium apples
¾ cup brown sugar
¾ cup water
⅔ tablespoon cornstarch
¾ cup milk
¼ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon margarine
½ teaspoon vanilla

Pare, core, and cut apples in eighths. Combine sugar and water and bring to boiling point. Add apples, cover pan, and steam apples until tender. Remove apples from sirup and place in serving dishes [if not heat proof, cool apples first]. In another pan combine milk and cornstarch thoroly, stir constantly and bring to boiling point. Add to the sirup in which apples were cooked. Add margarine and vanilla. Pour over apples. Serve either hot or cold. May be topped with whipped evaporated milk if desired.

Circular Doily

BY ELLEN BRUCE.

A crocheted circular luncheon doily in an eight pointed floral design is a wise choice for luncheon sets. It is easy to create, and a complete set may be made in a short time. Each doily measures approximately 11 inches in diameter. Either a mercerized cotton or carpet warp may be used.

For instructions in crocheting the circular luncheon doily, No. 1275, send 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost, to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth av., New York 1, N. Y.

Order Use of Most Civilian Cotton in Lower Cost Clothes

Washington, Feb. 9 (AP).—The war production board tonight ordered most of the civilian supply of cotton fabrics channelled into moderately priced clothing, effective March 1.

It is the first major step in the joint WPB-OPA program to cut clothing costs 6 to 7 per cent and to replenish dealers' supplies of inexpensive garments. "The consumer should feel the effect of the order's provisions by early summer," said Kenneth W. Marriner, director of the WPB textile, clothing and leather bureau.

The ruling specifies 41 cotton garments in what WPB called "the low and popular price ranges" whose manufacturers will get priority aid in obtaining cloth. The list includes men's shirts and shorts, women's dresses, nightgowns, and blouses, and many types of clothing for infants and children.

Kitchen Pointers

By Mary Meade

"What is the best method for cooking pork hocks with sauerkraut?"

For tenderization the hocks require long, slow cooking. Cover hocks with salted water, bring to a boil, then reduce heat and simmer 1½ to 2 hours or until tender. Add sauerkraut and cook 30 minutes. Serve hocks on hot kraut.

"How is garlic vinegar made for use in salad dressing?"

Peel two or three cloves of garlic and mash them in a bowl. Heat 1 pint of cider vinegar, pour it over garlic, and return vinegar and garlic to the bottle. Let stand for two weeks, then strain out garlic. Use this vinegar cautiously, as too much garlic can ruin any salad.

"When sour cream is used in a cake or cooky recipe calling for sour milk, is it necessary to reduce the fat called for in the product?"

Because cream nowadays does not have a high butter fat content, the substitution can be made without altering any of the ingredients. When the cultured cream [sour cream purchased at a grocery] is used there also need be no reduction in amount of fat.

"Can you give me some interesting ideas for tea party refreshments?"

Tiny, hot, spiced muffins are a nice change from the usual tea party food. Jam turnovers made from pie dough and a teaspoon of jam, foldover style, also are delectable when served with the cup of tea. To make Surprise scones, roll a scone dough around a marshmallow-stuffed date, sprinkle with nut meats, and bake in a hot oven 12 to 15 minutes.

'Private Investigator Maclain'

By Baynard Kendrick

(Copyright: 1945: By Baynard Kendrick.)

INSTALMENT XXX.
AT THE JAIL.

"Maybe Troy wanted to commit suicide," said Gallagher stonily.

Maclain slowly opened his eyes. "By heaven, Davis, there's a sweet idea. Suicide—plus an attempt to kill the man who jilted her by seating him in the electric chair. But this is a story, Mr. Gallagher, and the pretty heroine is down in the morgue. I'm afraid that she's the only one that could tell us. But you could tell us why you came here tonight."

"I'm trying to find out who she lived with," said Gallagher.

"Unfortunately, you're a little late. Tho we still may be able to work together." He stood up and said, "You might run me down to the hospital, Davis."

"You can come along, too, Gallagher."

The captain fastened the chain on Driest and walked out ahead.

Maclain spoke softly to the surgeon and went in, leaning on the doctor's arm. Sybella was still unconscious.

"What?" asked Davis when the captain reappeared.

"Nothing," said Duncan Maclain.

Sarah Marsh, his cook, looked at him reproachfully as he pushed aside his second cup of coffee and stalked from the dining room into his office.

For an hour he sat twiddling with a jigsaw puzzle which refused to fit. An agitating ferocity crept over him as he strove to put the malignant pieces together. Finally it vented itself in a quick display of anger. Seizing one piece larger than the rest between his powerful fingers, the captain snapped it in two as tho it were a fragment of goldfish food, and tossed the halves away. They struck on the heavy rug in the middle of the room and he quieted at the sound of their fall. After a moment he left his desk and found them again.

Working with the intensity of a jeweler setting a diamond, he located a tube of glue in his drawer, delicately fitted the broken halves and glued them together. They stuck, but the wood would never be whole again. The process had left a scar.

His face was ravaged with some great internal upheaval as he selected a record haphazardly, put it on the phonograph, and started it playing.

It left the room too silent.

The lives of people who lived and breathed and loved and hated had dropped down into a deep black pit of anonymity.

You didn't kiss a woman's lips because you loved her and wanted to marry her. You kissed her lips to bolster your amour propre by her sweet response. You could use her to solve your puzzles, and puzzles correctly solved proved how good you were. What difference if she loved you and you snapped her life in two between your clever fingers?

He had discovered something that could not be broken and mended again with the sticky glue of self-esteem.

He had one more job to do. The reward was enough to keep him going altho it consisted only of bringing a little happiness to a couple of people he liked.

He sat up with a start and jerkily dialed the phone as tho he'd awakened to action from some wildly disturbing dream.

"Ferguson?" he asked when the ringing was answered.

Larmar's lawyer gave a sleepy, "Yes. You woke me up. Sunday's my day to sleep."

"I just woke myself up," said Duncan Maclain. "I have to talk to Jordan today. Can you go down there with me and get me in?"

"What's up?" the attorney demanded more alertly.

"Last night I told Davis a story and gave myself a new idea."

"About the carillon?" Jess Ferguson was eager now.

"About the carillon," the captain repeated. "First I have to prove it didn't kill her."

"That'll be helpful."

"I have to prove it didn't kill her before I can prove that it did," said Duncan Maclain. "It's a peculiar situation, Ferguson, in which I know the truth, and yet things are not always what they seem."

It was damp in the visitor's room at the jail. The captain found it difficult to force cheerfulness. He sat at the plain board table with Ferguson beside him, and Larmar across from them on a stiff kitchen chair.

It might have been helpful if Larmar had been antagonistic, or anything except apathetic. It was hard to give aid to a man who didn't care. Ferguson grew restive under his client's lack of coöperation, but the captain persisted gently in his search for information.

Ferguson broke out angrily. "Maclain's not trying to heckle you, Larmar. He's trying to find out what happened on Thursday. Not part of it. Everything."

"I've told the police," said Larmar, "everything I have to tell."

"It's not enough," said Ferguson. "You're acting like an angry kid. You're the only one who can help yourself right now. If you don't do it, you'll rot right here in this cell."

"Im rotting anyhow," said Larmar.

The captain took out a linen handkerchief and put it to his nose. "We've been all over what you told the police, Larmar. I think somebody set a death trap for you."

"You've said that before."

"Nothing you've told the police or me has changed my opinion. I think that the bullet that was meant for you killed Troy."

"I think you're crazy," said Larmar. "I think it's one of Ferguson's wild ideas. It would do nothing but prejudice me if I was on the jury."

"You're in the prisoner's box," said Duncan Maclain with sudden coldness. "Follow a course of stubborn silence and you'll come out of the prisoner's box with a conviction hung on you for murdering Troy."

PETRILLO LOSES FIRST ROUND IN UNION CONFLICT

Independent Group Wins in NLRB Inquiry.

James C. Petrillo and his American Federation of Musicians yesterday lost the first round in a jurisdictional dispute involving "pancake turners" of the National Broadcasting company, the Blue network, and numerous independent stations. A trial examiner for the national labor relations board recommended in an interim report that NBC and the Blue network be required to bargain collectively with the National Association of Broadcasting Engineers and Technicians [NABET], an independent union. The board must pass on the report.

Would Replace NABET.

NABET men have been turning records on stations of the networks, except in Chicago. Petrillo years ago obtained an agreement with NBC [the Blue network was then a part of NBC] that union musicians would turn records on its local outlets. Now Petrillo desires to replace the NABET platter turners elsewhere with his AFM men.

The two networks in declining to bargain with NABET as the exclusive representative of their technical employes interfered with their organizational rights, Howard Myers, the trial examiner held. The report said the companies' defense was based on the contention that to bargain with NABET would result in reprisals from Petrillo's union. It added that the labor board and the courts repeatedly have "denied the validity of similar urged defenses to charges of unfair labor practices."

After NABET was certified some time ago as the bargaining agency, Petrillo intervened, contending that his union had jurisdiction.

Network Comment Withheld.

Myers said it is the "plain duty of the respondents to obey the mandate of congress as expressed in the national labor relations act and to bargain with NABET." He proposed that the companies post notices that they will not interfere with collective bargaining.

Comments were withheld by the network managements yesterday. Previously, there have been reports from Petrillo headquarters that musicians would strike if the networks signed a contract, involving platter turning, with NABET.

The Inquiring Camera Girl
BY MARYON ZYLSTRA

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Mrs. Lee Figg, 120 S. Butler av., Indianapolis, Ind.]

THE QUESTION.

If you wanted to meet an attractive girl and didn't know any one to introduce you, what would you do?

WHERE ASKED.

Y. M. C. A. hotel.

THE ANSWERS.

Seaman Louis [Corky] Thomas, Detroit, Mich.—Pretend I'm in a Chicago railroad station, and I see a beautiful girl. I'd rush up to her, throw my arms around her, and kiss her. Then I'd say I thought she was my sister-in-law. I'd carry on from there . . . or be carried out from there.

Able Seaman Robert W. Price, 212 W. 22d st., New York—This is the way I worked it here last night. A girl was sitting in the lobby. I took out some gum and offered it to a friend. Then I asked her if she'd like some. Came back an icy, scornful stare. I said, "Smile, it looks much better." She did. I took her to a movie.

J. H. Dale Norton, elevator starter, Y. M. C. A. hotel—That's always a problem. I wouldn't want to let her know I was interested in her, so I'd say something to fit the circumstances. If we were both waiting for a bus I might say, "Sloppy out, isn't it?" She would either agree or ignore me. There's no harm trying.

Seaman Marlowe C. Bjorklund, Henning, Minn.—I'd ask if she knows the city or if she's a stranger, too. Then I'd find out if she could help me locate. Somewhere in the conversation, I'd tell her my name and where I was from. She might give me advice and leave, but I'd certainly try to persuade her to go dancing.

Shelby D. Northcutt, singer, Y. M. C. A. hotel—It all depends upon circumstances. In a department store, I'd approach by saying, "I have a sister about your age and I'm trying to pick out a gift for her. What would be appropriate?" I might have to buy what she'd like, but I could give it to her later when I knew her better.

WAIT SOLDIER'S STORY ON BABY IN DIVORCE SUIT

Pvt. Gerald Brennan, 31, of the army air forces, is expected to deny in Superior court today in his suit for divorce on a charge of adultery that he asked his wife, Irma, 21, of 5114 Bishop st., to have a baby by another man while he was in Trinidad, British West Indies.

Pvt. Gerald Brennan [top] and Mrs. Irma Brennan.

Mrs. Brennan admitted yesterday that the child, Amanda, who was born July 19, 1943, was illegitimate. The mother said Brennan sent her money for the expenses of the birth, and accepted the child when he came home on furlough, altho he knew he was not the father. Atty. Eugene Migon, representing Brennan, said Mrs. Brennan concealed the baby from her husband when he was home.

"I'm sorry you are not going to have children," Mrs. Brennan said her husband told her before he went overseas. "'A child would be something to fight for and come home to. I wish you would have one anyway.' Before I could answer he kissed me and got on the train."

VET'S ARMY COAT STOLEN.

Raymond G. Feldman, 1414 E. 59th st., recently discharged from the army, reported to police yesterday the theft of his officer's army coat and an army field jacket, valued at $50.

VET CHARGES ATTACK BY HEAD OF WAR PLANT

Bert K. Naster, president of the Superior Electrical Industries, 1259 S. Campbell av., a war plant, was being sought yesterday by police on a warrant charging assault and battery obtained by Lt. Glen Crawford, 22, a paratrooper returned to this country for hospitalization, after being wounded twice in Holland.

Lt. Glen Crawford [top] and Comdr. R. C. Eardley.

Lt. Crawford procured the warrant in South State st. court before leaving for the Barnes Veteran General hospital to undergo operations to gain the use of his left hand. He is the son of Glen C. Crawford, a loop real estate broker, whose home is at 412 Lee st., Evanston.

Charges Attack in Drake Hotel.

In obtaining the warrant, Lt. Crawford testified that on Feb. 1 he was attacked by Naster when he stopped to speak to Miss Dorothy Harland, an old acquaintance, who was seated with Naster and a party of friends in the Camellia room of the Drake hotel.

Naster, he said, became annoyed as he chatted with Miss Harland and suggested that he "move along." Others in the party protested Naster's actions, he said.

Comdr. Robert Eardley of the coast guard patrol, a companion of Lt. Crawford, interposed and they retired to the bar. Later a waiter informed the veteran that Miss Harland wished to speak to him. As she began to apologize, Lt. Crawford said, Naster came up behind him and struck him twice, knocking him to the floor.

Miss Harland, a pianist at the Rio Cabana night club, who resides in the Wellington Arms hotel, deplored the affair, charging Naster's conduct was rude and the attack entirely uncalled for. Naster, she said, had been drinking considerably.

In Brawl with Union Agent.

Capt. Andrew Aitkin of the Marquette station, in whose district Naster's plant is located, said his men had made several unsuccessful attempts to arrest the executive since receiving the warrant Tuesday. Office employes told police Naster had left Saturday on a business trip in the east.

Naster was involved in a brawl in 1942, police said, when he assaulted Richard Ross, a business agent for the United Electrical Workers' union, after being summoned by Naster to draw up a new contract.

Rep. Shafer [R., Mich.]—This is another indication that the New Deal will not halt in its quest for power. Like Simon Legree it wants to own us body and soul.

Rep. Woodruff [R., Mich.]—What is this going to be—another Gestapo? As days go by and things continue to develop along certain lines pointing toward totalitarianism, it's becoming increasingly apparent that unless things radically change we in this country will experience all of the so-called blessings with which the German people have been favored since Mr. Hitler took charge.

Rep. Allen [R., Ill.]—I am determinedly opposed to the introduction into this country of any of the totalitarian concepts which millions of our men are fighting overseas. I am confident that congress will bar any super-Gestapo at home and will view with suspicion any move to take compilation and evaluation of intelligence from the army, navy and state departments.

At the army and navy there was no official comment on the Donovan-Roosevelt scheme. It was expected, however, that both services would resist any move to shift their intelligence divisions to outside control, even tho such a move were sponsored by the White House.

PUBLISHING BODY FLAYS WALKER'S BAN ON ESQUIRE

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9 (AP).—The American Newspaper Publishers' association today said Postmaster General Walker's order denying second class mailing privileges to the Esquire magazine was arbitrary and unconstitutional censorship.

Seeking to intervene in the pending appeal of the magazine in the United States District Court of Appeals, the association said the order "constitutes an interference with freedom of the press as guaranteed by the 1st amendment."

Simultaneous with its request to intervene, the association's attorney, Elisha Hanson, filed a brief with the Appellate court asserting that District court which upheld Walker's order had erred in failing to find that he had exceeded his authority and had constituted himself a censor.

OKLA. AGGIES TEST DE PAUL FIVE TONIGHT

N.U., Buckeyes to Open Program.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The Oklahoma A. & M. basketball team from Stillwater, Okla., led by Bob Kurland, 7 foot center, arrives today to challenge De Paul and George Mikan, the Demons' 6 foot 9 inch center, in the second game of the Stadium's seventh double header of the season tonight. The opening contest at 8:15 o'clock matches Ohio State, defending champion, and Northwestern in a Western conference game.

The Kurland-Mikan duel, prime attraction for an attendance estimated at 12,000, quite likely will determine national honors for the center position. Mikan has averaged 21 points this year while scoring 360 of De Paul's 1,027 total. He clearly has outplayed his opponents on such teams as Illinois, Notre Dame, Hamline, Purdue, and Long Island. Kurland's most impressive performance was in the Oklahoma City collegiate tournament in December, when he held Marlin Hicks of Baylor, Bill Henry of Rice, and George Kok of Arkansas scoreless from the field. Kok is 6 feet 10 inches while Henry is 6 feet 8 inches tall.

Demons Seek Revenge.

The clash between the Cowboys and De Paul continues last year's competition in the New York invitational tournament when De Paul whipped the Aggies, 41 to 38, after trailing, 15 to 2, midway in the first half.

The records of the teams are comparable, altho the Cowboys have lost three games to one defeat for De Paul. The Demons were beaten by Illinois, 43 to 40, in the Stadium but evened the series later in Champaign. The Oklahoma Aggies were beaten, 46 to 44, by Temple, 34 to 31, by the Norman [Okla.] Skyjackets, and, 41 to 38, by Arkansas.

Kurland's scoring average is 16.44 points and he has fine support from Cecil Hankins, Weldon Kern, and Doyle Parrack. De Paul's regulars all have scored more than 100 points each in 17 games. Gene Stump follows Mikan with 190 points and the others are Eddie Kachan, 150; Jack Allen, 118, and Ernie Di Benedetto, 107 points.

Whip Irish and Purdue.

De Paul reached its peak for the season last week when it defeated Notre Dame and followed a night later with a decisive victory over Purdue.

Northwestern, despite its loss to Ohio State, 53 to 46, in Columbus, is hopeful of winning tonight. That loss, incidentally, was the Wildcats' first conference defeat and Northwestern did not have the services of Frank Wright, who became ill after arriving in Columbus. Max Morris, Northwestern center, in his fight to retain individual scoring honors in the conference, will play against Arnold Risen, 6 feet 8½ inches, the tallest Big Nine center. Bill Pfeiffer, Risen's relief man, is 6 feet 5 inches.

BLUEJACKETS DEFEAT BRONCO QUINTET, 57-38

Kalamazoo, Mich., Feb. 9 [Special].—With Mickey McGuire connecting from all parts of the floor tonight in collecting 22 points, Great Lakes defeated Western Michigan, 57 to 38, as the Bluejackets made it 26 victories in 30 starts for the season.

HAROLD GREEN DEFEATS REIF IN NEW YORK RING

New York, Feb. 9 (AP).—Displaying superior speed and sharper punches, Harold Green won a 10 round decision over his Brooklyn neighborhood rival, Morris Reif, in Madison Square Garden tonight. Green weighed 147¾, Reif 145.

A crowd of 13,018 that contributed to a gross gate of $42,675 saw Green thrice stagger Reif with a fast attack. Reif struck back savagely at times, but on each occasion Green quickly regained the upper hand.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD.

TWO stories of unusual sports interest broke on successive days this week. . . . The first announced that Buck Shaw had turned down a 10 year contract at $15,000 a year from the University of California at Los Angeles to remain as head coach of the San Francisco team in the newly organized All-America conference. . . . The next day Lt. [j. g.] Paul Brown, on leave as head coach at Ohio State university, signed a five year contract as general manager and head coach of the Cleveland club of the All-America conference. . . . These items have double significance. . . . First, they stand as evidence of faith in the future of professional football on the part of two of the game's outstanding leaders. . . . Secondly, they prove the stability of the new major football league. . . . Coaches do not turn away from big state universities like U. C. L. A. and Ohio State, unless they are convinced such moves will be for their long range interest, both professional and business. . . . Midwest fans may not be well acquainted with Shaw's standing in the coaching world. . . . He spent his days as a head coach at Santa Clara university. . . . Grantland Rice recently told us that he rated Shaw the No. 1 coach of college football. . . . Brown's record at Massillon [O.] High school and at Ohio State is well known to fans in this area. . . . Two other coaches, both popular in their sections, also have joined the All-America. . . . We refer to Lt. Comdr. Jack Meagher of the Iowa Seahawks, who for seven years was head coach and athletic director at Alabama Polytechnic. . . . He will direct the Miami eleven. . . . Sam Cordovano, for many seasons Lou Little's line coach at Columbia university will coach the Buffalo team, of which he is co-owner. . . .

There is another angle to these stories more important perhaps than the two already advanced. . . . The type of men going in for professional football is a guarantee of the continued prosperity of the undergraduate game. . . . All these men—Brown, Shaw, Meagher, and Cordovano—are products of collegiate ranks. . . . None has previously been identified with the play for pay brand. . . . They have learned from observation that college and pro football can flourish, side by side, as long as each respects the rights of the other. . . . The National Football league long has had a rule that no member club could hire a college player until his class has been graduated. . . . The All-America conference certainly will go as far, and farther if necessary, to safeguard college ball. . . . Elmer Layden as commissioner of the National league, has studiously avoided any conflicts with college football. . . . Is there any reason to predict that Comdr. Crowley, commissioner of the All-America, will be less zealous? . . . They were teammates at Notre Dame, where they learned about football from one of the greatest sports leaders America has developed—the late Knute Rockne.

CLEVELAND TO HAVE WINNING ELEVEN: BROWN

He's an Old Pro Football Fan.

BY EDWARD PRELL.

Lt. [j. g.] Paul Brown wrote a letter yesterday. He wrote it between intervals of answering the telephone in his office at the Great Lakes Naval Training center to hear congratulations on his post-war job as coach and general manager of the Cleveland team in the All-America Football conference.

The letter was to L. W. St. John, athletic director at Ohio State university. It perhaps was the most difficult letter the 36 year old coach ever wrote. It was official notification that he was resigning as Ohio State university's gridiron leader.

He Was Happy There.

But it was more than that. He told of the conflict of emotions which came to him as he weighed his decision. He recalled the happy days at Ohio State and the keen regret with which he is leaving college ranks to enter his new field. "I hope Saint understands," he murmured as he sealed the envelope. There was a letter, too, to Ernie Godfrey, the Buckeyes' line coach. It was not easy to leave Ohio State.

Then his eyes were alight at the thought of this new adventure in football.

He's an Oldtime Fan.

"I'll never forget the pro games my gang saw when we were kids," he mused. "You see, Massillon and Canton were cradles of the sport. We had a flat bottomed boat which we rowed across the Tuscarawas river in Massillon. Then we scrambled up the river banks, wiggled under a billboard, and presto—we were on the sidelines. It seemed that the cop on guard always was looking the other way when we arrived."

Then the dynamic young coach came back to the present.

Lt. Brown hasn't had time to perfect plans for his Cleveland organization. But one thing's certain. It will be a hand picked group, carefully selected, from top to bottom. He doesn't know the number of assistants he will have on the field, nor has he hinted at their possible identity.

Only Two Are Left.

Only two members of the large staff with which he surrounded himself when he came to Ohio State in 1941 still are there. They are Carroll Widdoes and Paul Bixler. It was Bixler who coached Massillon's arch rival, Canton. The city limits of these Ohio towns merge.

"Let's see," mused Paul, "where the others are. Eddie Blickle was killed. Trevor Rees is a lieutenant commander in the navy, Tippy Dye and Fred Heisler are navy lieutenants. And Fritz Mackey and Hugh McGranahan are in business."

It's a Good Town.

"Cleveland is basically a good sports city," he declared. "The fans want the best there is and will come out for the best. But the possibilities there never have been scratched below the surface. I can see the day when we will have two powerful professional leagues, the All-America and the National, and it will make the game healthier."

As to the relation of intercollegiate and professional football, the lieutenant has definite views.

"Each has a distinct place in our sports structure," he said. "I would not want to see the two ever have anything but pleasant relationships. You can say that I always will be a strong friend of college football."

They'll Be His Boys.

Brown believes that family responsibilities will lead many returning war veterans into professional football to enable them to continue their college studies.

Then Brown, the coach, started talking.

"I plan to carry thru on the same idealism I had at Ohio State," he said, "and arrange for full opportunities for our Cleveland players, both as to salary and business future. I will want our boys to be high class and will pick them on the basis of personality as well as ability. With them I will have the same relationship as I had with the boys at Ohio State—after all, they will be former collegians and only slightly older.

Realizes It's a Tough Job.

"My team," he said, eyes sparkling, "probably will look a whole lot like my Ohio State squads. I have no illusions, tho, about this undertaking. It will be a tough go, but that's the way I like it. I realize it will take more than a year or two to build, but we're not going to waste any time."

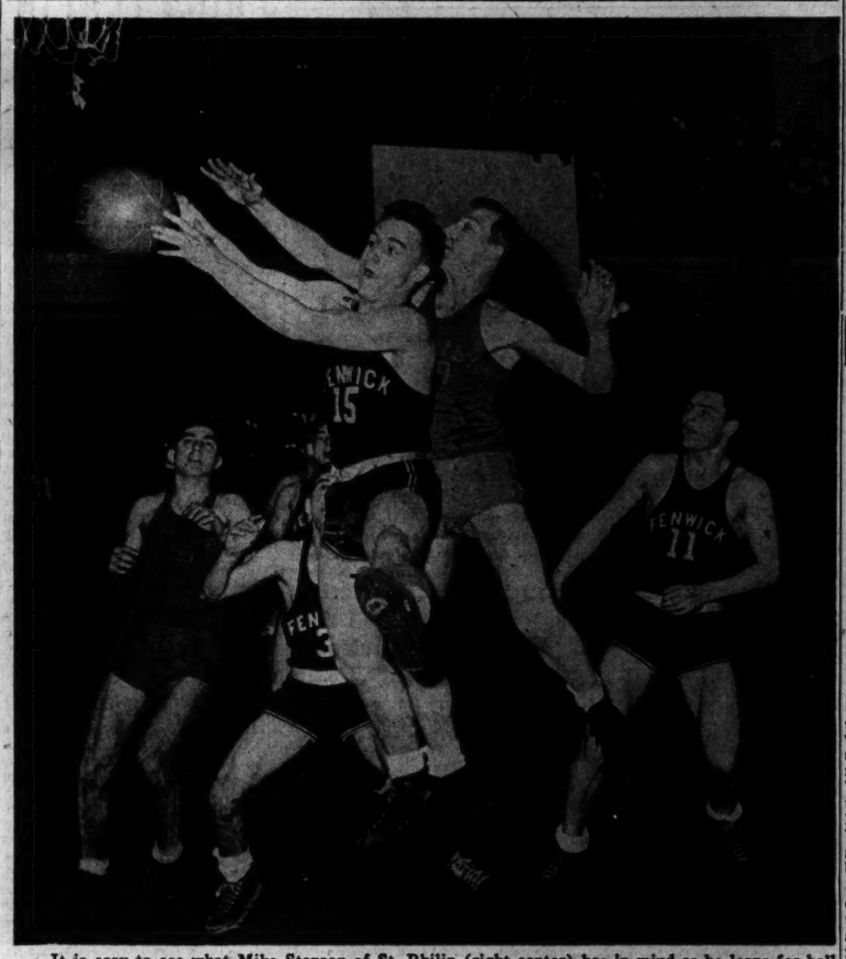
JUST LET ME GET AT THAT BALL!



It is easy to see what Mike Stenson of St. Philip (right center) has in mind as he leaps for ball in last night's basketball game with the Fenwick High junior team in the St. Philip gymnasium. However, William Crowley (15) of Fenwick has the same idea and gets there first to recover ball off backboard. St. Philip won, 50 to 33. Other players who can be identified are Capt. Richard Flando (35) of St. Philip, and Mike Grunert (3) and William Duchon (11), both of Fenwick. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

OFFER WIDDOES HEAD COACHING BERTH AT OHIO

Columbus, O., Feb. 9 (AP).—There doesn't seem to be much doubt about it—the "acting" will be dropped from Carroll Widdoes' Ohio State university football coaching title.

Widdoes, who was Brown's assistant both at Massillon [O.] High school and at Ohio State, became acting head coach last spring when Brown joined the navy. His 1944 team went thru a nine game schedule without a defeat or a tie and won the Western conference championship.

No Reason for Delay.

L. W. St. John, Ohio State athletic director, said today no date had been set for the formal selection of Brown's permanent successor but he added:

"I don't see any particular reason for delay. We have every reason to believe we have a pretty good outfit and we can just go right along with them.

"About the only formality would be to drop the word 'acting'."

Widdoes Isn't Certain.

The only rub as far as Ohio State is concerned is that Widdoes is reported to have been sounded out by both Cornell university and the University of California at Los Angeles on the coaching jobs now vacant at those two schools.

Even Widdoes couldn't say what his decision would be if he should get offers from either of those schools and also the expected one from Ohio State.

REPORT MARTIN CONSIDERED FOR COMMISSIONER

New York, Feb. 10 [Saturday]—(AP).—United States Circuit Judge John D. Martin was reported today being considered for the position of commissioner of baseball by National league members of a four-man nominating committee. He is a former president of the Southern association.

President Sam Breadon of the St. Louis Cardinals said he had no comment on "anybody." Phil Wrigley of the Chicago Cubs was unavailable.

Savoy Shoots for 3d Title in Golden Gloves

BY FRANK MASTRO.

The Savoy Athletic club will attempt to capture its third consecutive team championship in the city Golden Gloves finals in Marigold Gardens Monday night.

Nine sectional champions will represent Savoy in the 16 title bouts, eight in the open class and one in the novice division. The south side club's strongest competition for team honors is expected to come from the Catholic Youth organization, which has eight candidates remaining in the tournament.

Breaks C. Y. O. Monopoly.

NOVICE CLASS—Walter Jackson, 175 pounds.

Baylark is the defending city champion and will meet Joe Lindsay of the C. Y. O. for the title in his class. Another contest between the Savoy and C. Y. O. will be the light heavyweight open title encounter between Scales and Art Raby.

Novices Well Matched.

Altho the fights between the experienced boxers on the card are arousing great interest because the eight winners will represent Chicago in the Tournament of Champions in the Stadium Feb. 26, 27 and 28, the eight novice battles well may feature the show.

The novices are evenly matched and any of these bouts may develop into a show stealing thriller. That category includes one between James Radats, C. Y. O. lightweight, and Don Lonergan, Madison A. C. Lonergan, 16 year old junior at Crane Tech High school, who does part time work in a war plant at 3047 Carroll av., displayed an adept left jab and a wicked right while fighting his way to the north side title in his class. However, Radats is no shrinking violet and showed he knows his way around the ring in the south sectional tournament in St. Sabina gymnasium last week.

Dad Was Army Champion.

Jimmy, 17 and a sophomore at Hirsch High, first became interested in boxing thru his father, who won an army title while a sergeant in the last war. Dennis O'Keefe, nephew of the old South Chicago professional middleweight and a former C. Y. O. champion, then took charge of Jim's training four months ago at Grand Crossing park. When the younger O'Keefe was appointed an instructor at the C. Y. O. center, Jim enrolled there and Coach Dick Fitzpatrick helped Dennis improve the lad's skill. Jim lives at 7527 Ellis av.

BUCKEYES TAKE BIG NINE LEAD IN PERCENTAGE

It's a Big Night

EIGHT of the Big Nine basketball teams will see conference action tonight and three of the four games have important bearing on the title race. They are Ohio State vs. Northwestern in Chicago Stadium; Illinois at Minnesota, and Iowa at Indiana. Altho Ohio State technically is the conference leader because of its six victories, Illinois and Iowa, like the Buckeyes, have lost only one game apiece. Tonight's other game matches Michigan and Wisconsin on the latter's floor. Both are out of conference contention.

Madison, Wis., Feb. 9 [Special].—Ohio State's basketball team, with a superb exhibition of basket shooting and all-around floor play, romped to a 63 to 34 conquest of Wisconsin tonight before 10,000 in the Badger fieldhouse. It was the Buckeyes' sixth victory in seven Western conference attempts and gave them the lead on a percentage basis.

The Badgers were outclassed in every department by the tall, methodical Buckeyes, who had amassed a 24 to 9 margin midway in the first half. Wisconsin's only lead was a 4 to 1 margin built up in the first few minutes of play on a basket by Des Smith and free throws by Don Bunke and Bill Johnson.

Then the Buckeyes Get Going.

Ohio State then went to work in earnest. Don Grate pushed in three quick field goals, while Arnie Risen was counting twice from the court. Wisconsin made only four baskets in the first 20 minutes and the Buckeyes led, 37 to 15, at intermission time.

ST. PHILIP SENIOR QUINTET BEATS FENWICK, 55-28

BY DAVID CONDON.

[OTHER PREP NEWS ON NEXT PAGE.]

The St. Philip High school senior basketball team last night moved a full game ahead of Fenwick in the Catholic league north section race by beating the Friars, 55 to 29, while the Gael juniors, undefeated in league competition, added another victory to their impressive string.

The St. Philip seniors atoned for an earlier defeat by Fenwick in routing the Friars before a capacity crowd in the St. Philip gymnasium. St. Philip led, 20 to 12, at the end of the first period, and by half time had a 30 to 15 advantage.

The Gael juniors, bowling over all opposition in their path to the section title, trailed the Friars, 15 to 12, at the half, after the score had been deadlocked, 8 to 8, at the end of the first quarter. As the third period got under way, St. Philip moved to the front, and by the end of the quarter held a 27 to 23 lead. In the fourth period, the Gaels made it a rout and won, 50 to 33.

The south section leaders, Leo's Lions, had little trouble trouncing De La Salle, 42 to 23.

REPORT FORMER DETROIT TACKLE KILLED IN ACTION

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 9 (AP).—Officials of the Detroit Lions, professional football team, said today they had received word that Alex Ketzko, former Michigan State player who was a Lion tackle in 1943, had been killed in action in France last Dec. 23.

Ketzko, whose home was at Mattawan, Mich., played with Michigan State in 1938 and 1939 and was with the New York Giants pro team before he joined the Lions. He went overseas last May and his wife, Mrs. Helen Ketzko of Teaneck, N. J., reported he was serving with the 7th army.

N. U., 49; MICHIGAN, 34.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Feb. 9 [Special].—Northwestern returned to the Western conference victory column tonight by defeating Michigan, 49 to 34.

The triumph ended a five game famine for the Wildcats, who hadn't won since beating Wisconsin and Minnesota in their first two conference starts. It was Michigan's sixth loss in 10 Big Nine contests.

Northwestern reversed its anticipated tactics in the first half and used big Max Morris, the Big Nine's leading scorer, as a decoy while Fred Johnson and Frank Wright were combining for 15 points to give the Wildcats a 26 to 18 intermission lead.

Morris Gets 11 Points.

The demoralized Wolverines made only 14 of 86 shots from the field. By comparison, Northwestern dumped 22 field goals thru the nets in 68 tries.

Morris, handling the ball beautifully on setup plays and taking only a few first half shots, reverted to his scoring ways early in the second period to get eight points, enough to give him scoring honors with 11 for the game. Johnson and Wright were close behind with 10 each.

After a dull opening 3 minutes Michigan took a two point lead on Don Lindquist's two free throws when he was fouled by Johnson. Frank Clawson got a basket for the Wildcats to even the score and Michigan went ahead again momentarily on Walt Kell's field goal. Then Johnson made the first of eight first half points and Northwestern was off.

GOLDEN GLOVES FAMILY AFFAIR IN FORT WAYNE

Records Show Brothers in Title Roles.

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Fort Wayne, Ind., Feb. 9.—Mitt me, brother, I made it, too! That seems to be the call for the gathering of the clans when Golden Gloves tournaments are finished and the champions crowned for their sortie into The Chicago Tribune Charities Inc.'s Tournament of Champions from this old Indiana city which takes its name from Mad Anthony Wayne's fort of pioneer days.

Those were exciting days in American history. Brothers fought side by side against the onslaughts of the Indians and built a great midwestern city. This is an exciting period in Golden Gloves and since Fort Wayne entered that great amateur boxing venture 16 years ago, brothers have carried the city's standard into Chicago year after year.

Seeks His Sixth Title.

The 1945 tournament, sponsored by the Journal-Gazette and directed as usual by Sports Editor Robert Reed, closed its semi-final round last night before a capacity crowd of 2,000 in the General Electric club gymnasium. From the fights emerged a lad by the name of Bob Crosley who two years ago was accompanied into the Chicago Stadium by two brothers, Lee and Max, after the three had won Fort Wayne championships.

Bob hasn't made the grade yet this year, but he's expected to win in the lightweight division of the finals, which will be held next Thursday night. Brother Lee is in the army and Max has given up the sport. If Bob wins it will be his sixth championship, the five previous ones as a featherweight. Lee fought as a welter and Max as a middleweight.

Remember Burns Boys?

You'd think recounting of the family boxing history of the Crosleys would account for enough Golden Gloves fraternalism, but it's just a start. What Golden Gloves fan will forget the Burns boys, Bob and Tommy? Both were fine fighters and Fort Wayne champions, but to Bob went most of the honors in Chicago. His first trip to the Tournament of Champions netted him the Barney Ross sportsmanship trophy in 1941. He was beaten in the finals by George Horne, but went on to win the National A. A. U. welterweight title and came back in 1942 to capture the Chicago championship and his second A. A. U. crown.

That year Tommy fought as a featherweight in the Stadium and fell by the wayside as brother Bob climbed the heights and was rewarded with the captaincy of the Chicago team against the New York squad. Neither is boxing this year, but they're fighting for keeps with the navy in the Pacific.

Other families sharing in Fort Wayne's Golden Gloves titles are the Gaunt brothers, Ike and Chuck; the Hersheys, Bud and Ken; the Surfaces, Otis and Forrest, and the Conrads, Lloyd and Paul.

JUG M'SPADEN WINS OPEN LEAD IN NEW ORLEANS

New Orleans, Feb. 9 (AP).—Harold [Jug] McSpaden, the steady man from Sanford, Me., topped a field of 104 professionals and amateurs in the opening round of the $5,000 New Orleans open golf tournament today by touring the difficult course in a 4 under par 68.

While McSpaden was making his early bid for first place in the all war bond prize event, six other pros were also blasting par. Byron Nelson, Toledo, O., leading money winner of the winter circuit, Claude Harmon, Grosse Pointe, Mich., Bryan Winters, Dallas, Tex., and Denny Shute, Akron, O., turned in 70's.

Veteran Craig Wood, Mamaroneck, N. Y., and Johnny Bulla, Chicago, each shot 71. Bulla arrived by plane one hour before starting competition and turned in an unusual card of one eagle, 5 birdies, 6 pars and 6 bogies for the 18 holes.

Cleveland to Have Winner Under Brown

goes back to his spectacular years at Massillon High, where crowds of 20,000 were not uncommon. He believes the All-America, with eight teams, is ideally constructed. This will make for a uniform 14 game home and home schedule. "And we'll probably play two or three exhibition games, too," he added.

He'll Install His System.

Brown had time, between thoughts of the future and the past, to think of the 1945 Great Lakes eleven which he will coach.

"I'll put in my own system," he said, "the single wing and T. I'd like to coach Great Lakes' best team in this war and it probably will be my last chance. Last year I took the squad just a few days before the season and used the T formation which had been installed."

The telephone rang again just as Brown called an office girl to post the letter to St. John.

"Gee, I hope he understands," he said.

WALSH PRAISES MOVE

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 9 (AP).—Christy Walsh, vice president and acting head of the new All-America Football conference, says the league is fortunate in obtaining such a man as Lt. [j. g.] Paul Brown, former Ohio State coach, who has been signed to coach and manage the Cleveland team.

Walsh said he and Don Ameche, co-owners of the league's Los Angeles franchise, are seeking a coach in the same class as Brown and Buck Shaw. The latter, former head coach at Santa Clara, will coach the San Francisco entry in the league. Walsh would mention no names, but said two men are being considered for the Los Angeles job.

RETTINGER, '39 ILLINI FOOTBALL HERO, IS MISSING

Champaign, Ill., Feb. 9 [Special].—Capt. George Rettinger, one of the heroes of Illinois' famed 1939 football upset of Michigan, has been missing in fight somewhere between India and China since Feb. 2, the war department informed his wife here today. Rettinger is a transport pilot.

Capt. Rettinger.

Rettinger was full back on the 1939 Illinois team and caught a 40 yard sleeper pass from Jimmy Smith for a touchdown. Michigan had won all its previous games by overwhelming scores, while Illinois had lost all its contests prior to this game.

Rettinger is the third member of the '39 team to be reported lost: Lt. Col. Tom Riggs has been missing since Dec. 26 at St. Vith, France. Ensign Ralph Hathaway died in a plane crash.

OTTO GRAHAM NOW STATIONED AT GLENVIEW

Otto Graham, former Northwestern university football and basketball star, has reported for primary flight training at Glenview air station, Comdr. Luther De Forest, public relations officer at the station, said last night.

Graham, captain of the 1944 Northwestern basketball team and elected the most valuable football player in the Western conference in 1943, came from North Carolina preflight school. Otto's all around play was a factor in the College All-Stars' 27 to 7 conquest of the Washington Redskins in Dyche stadium in August, 1943.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The 16-day marathon which several hundred bowlers from every corner of the country have been waging in a search for a portion of $67,900 in prizes reaches its climax this week-end with the final sessions in the Petersen singles classic at Archer-35th Recreation, the De Vito singles classic at the Park Manor Bowling center, and the Petersen doubles tournament at Gateway Recreation, scheduled for tomorrow.

Heading the treasure list, of course, was the Petersen singles, now reaching the conclusion of its 33d spell. Eight 32-man squads, four today and four tomorrow, remain to complete the assignment which began with a roster of 1,728 bowlers on Jan. 27.

Roy Milan became the fourth Detroit bowler to crowd his way into the select group when he rolled a 1,554 on last night's first squad to take the No. 10 position. The second squad saw no better effort than the 1,495 submitted by Walter Ward, Cleveland veteran. The same contingent included Andy Varipapa of Hempstead, N. Y., who rolled a 1,299 which showed a rather wierd range of low game of 126 and high of 189.

But Milan was dislodged from the tenth role by Eli Maricich of Chicago, who rolled a 1,562 on the final squad of the night, granting that you regard 1:45 a. m. this morning as night. Maricich came thru with a strong finish to drop Johnny Crimmins of Detroit into third place on the squad. Johnny wound up with a 1,497 against the 1,499 posted by Jack Bishop of Chicago.

WHITE SOX BUY TOUCHSTONE, 39 YEAR OLD ROOKIE

The White Sox, for the second time in two weeks, yesterday announced the purchase of a 39 year old pitcher. This time it is Clay Touchstone, a right hander, who has been called to bolster Jim Dykes' seventh placers. Clay thus will become a teammate of Earl Caldwell, 39, obtained recently on a conditional purchase arrangement with the Milwaukee Brewers. The addition of Touchstone and Caldwell is expected to make Thornton Lee, 37, feel like a frisky kid.

Touchstone last played with Oklahoma City of the now suspended Texas league and also had a number of good seasons in the Southern association.

Don Hanski, a lefty who was with the Sox, off and on, in 1943 and 1944, was inducted by the army yesterday. Don, a cousin of Eddie Hanyzewski of the Cubs, is a pitcher, but filled in at first base in several games in 1943.

PAHR TIES POINT MARK AS LUTHER ROUTS CHRISTIAN

Forward Joe Pahr of the Luther institute senior basketball team equaled the Private league scoring mark, established earlier this season by Johnny Groth of Chicago Latin, as he scored 46 points against Chicago Christian yesterday.

Luther remained in the running for the Private league crown by routing Christian, 80 to 36, after leading, 39 to 13, at the half.

Pahr, a junior who stands 5 feet 8 inches, scored his points on 21 field goals and four free throws. Groth, who this week quit school awaiting a call from selective service, also registered his 46 point total against Latin.

Harvard school, idle yesterday, is currently leading the Private league with eight victories and one defeat.

Competition for the 1945 midwestern figure skating championships opened yesterday on the Arena rink and will be concluded tonight. Opening today's schedule will be the men's junior school figure event at 8 a. m. The day's continuous program will be climaxed with exhibition skating at 7:30 tonight.

Competing in the meet, sponsored by the Chicago Figure Skating club and sanctioned by the United States Figure Skating association, are senior, junior, and novice men and women.

Chicagoan Leads Novice Men.

After preliminary events yesterday Larry Van Der Bosch of Chicago held a slight lead over Marlyn Tomsen, St. Paul, in the men's novice school figures.

Janet Ahrens, St. Paul, held a comfortable margin in the senior women's competition. In the women's novice division no clear cut challenger for Joyce Scotvold's lead had developed.

Finals Start This Morning.

Scoring in the meet is divided, 60 per cent for school figures and 40 per cent for the free skating event. Novice and junior finals will be held this morning and senior free skating is scheduled to start at 6:30 tonight.

Bomar Takes 3d in De Vito on 1,750 Total

ILLINOIS BEATS INDIANA TRACK TEAM, 70 TO 34

Bloomington, Ind., Feb. 9 [Special].—Illinois won nine first places out of 12 events, to score a 70 to 34 victory over Indiana here this afternoon in the opening track meet of the 1945 indoor season for both teams.

Robert Kelley, Illinois' National A. A. U. quarter and half mile champion, took firsts in the mile and the half mile runs, but failed to place in the quarter mile event. William Buster, Illini freshman, tied the Indiana field house 60 yard dash record of 0:06.2.

OAK PARK BEATS SCHURZ, MAINE IN TRACK CONTEST

Oak Park won both ends of a triangular high school track meet last night in Oak Park. Scores in the frosh-soph division were Oak Park, 76; Schurz, 64½, and Maine, 9½. In the varsity class totals were Oak Park, 94½; Schurz, 38½, and Maine, 34.

N. U. WINS SWIM, 54 TO 30; MEETS IOWANS TODAY

Northwestern university's swimming team defeated Illinois Tech last night in the Wildcats' Patten pool, 54 to 30, as a tune-up for this afternoon's Big Ten dual meet with Iowa.

WAUKEGAN AND MORTON FIVES STILL UNBEATEN

Morton and Waukegan, two Suburban league entrants rated among the best prep basketball teams in the state, each scored senior victories last night to continue their nip and tuck battle for first place in the league. The two fives are tied with seven victories and one loss apiece.

Waukegan routed Oak Park, 44 to 23, after holding an 18 to 9 lead at the half. Bob Jones scored 15 points. Morton turned back Evanston, 51 to 41, as Dick [Cowboy] Bauman scored 19 points.

Proviso Five Wins.

Proviso's senior five edged out New Trier, 40 to 38, to complete the Suburban league schedule.

In the South Suburban league, Kankakee won the title by remaining idle in conference play, while Thornton of Harvey defeated Kankakee's closest rival, Calumet City, 32 to 30, a tHarvey. Outside the league Kankakee beat Hinsdale, 64 to 22.

Kankakee Undefeated.

The defeat was Calumet City's fourth in ten games. Kankakee has nine victories against no defeats, with three games to play.

The Thornton-Calumet City game was tied, 16 to 16, at the half, and closely contested all the way. Bob Anderson scored 11 points to lead the Thornton attack.

Riverside-Brookfield, which clinched the West Suburban league title last week, added another league victory to its credit by trouncing York, 44 to 22.

CEILINGS BLOCK MEAT IMPORTS FROM CANADA

Dominion Supplies Held Plentiful.

Low price ceilings on meat along with a tariff on imports from Canada were blamed yesterday by meat industry leaders for lack of imports of Canadian meat, altho Canadians are on an unrationed basis and have plenty of meat available.

Aside from a negligible amount of dairy cattle and some low grade sheep and lambs no meat is shipped into this country from Canada, they said.

Store Counters Full.

Meanwhile consumers in the United States find their supplies of meat becoming slimmer and slimmer as larger amounts are set aside for the army and navy, and lend-lease purchasers are scouring the land to fill their requirements.

Visitors to Canada report meat dealers' counters there filled with a wide variety of cuts available. Meat in Canada has been unrationed for about a year and no move has been made to return it to a ration basis.

One spokesman explained that meat price ceilings in this country were low in relation to other commodities and to income of the people. He asserted that on the whole the price line has been held firmly in the meat business. Some types of meat are selling at higher prices in Canada than in the United States despite the plentiful supply there, he said.

British Orders Filled.

Altho Canada's total meat production is small in comparison with the productive capacity of this country, any surplus diverted to the United States or to England would help, it was explained.

Canada has filled Great Britain's minimum requirements in a comparatively short time and Britain has been buying as much more meat as Canada has been willing to sell.

Some Americans who find their meat supplies becoming more difficult to obtain have expressed criticism. They believe if more meat were put into the allies' larder by Canada, it would ease the situation to some extent in this country.

Lend-Lease Stocks Low.

About 60 per cent of the meat in the United States at present is set aside for military use, with all supplies frozen until the army and navy obtain their requirements. Lend-lease and civilians share the remainder.

One source said lend-lease buyers have become more insistent on supplies in the last few weeks, for their stocks are lower than a year ago.

Shipments of live stock from Mexico, which in normal times were negligible and consisted mostly of feeder stock, have practically dried up, it was said. The cattle received from Mexico were of inferior quality.

13,600 IN DETROIT IDLE AS RESULT OF TWO STRIKES

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 9 (AP).—Some 13,600 workers were idle tonight because of strikes in plants of Briggs Manufacturing company and Square D company.

The Briggs walkout by the CIO United Auto Workers involving an estimated 12,500 employes, started Tuesday over a dispute concerning job assignments in the Mack Av. plant and spread to four other plants here.

A total of 1,100 Square D employers, members of the CIO United Electrical Workers, walked out in what they said was a protest against the method of distribution of a recent war labor board order granting wage increases to hourly employes and piece workers.

National Tea Sales Rise 7.51 Per Cent in January

National Tea company yesterday reported sales in the four weeks ended Jan. 27 were $7,330,880, 7.51 per cent more than in the corresponding 1943 period. The number of stores in operation declined to 827 from 874 a year earlier.

SEC ORDER PROVIDES HELP IN RESTORATION OF MANILA UTILITIES

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 9 (AP).—The securities and exchange commission today expedited restoration of full electric power and traction service in war torn Manila by striking from a divestment order against Associated Electric company the names of three subsidiaries—Manila Electric company, Escudero Electric Service company, and Associated Utilities Investing corporation.

Urbano A. Zafra, economic adviser to the president of the Philippines, and A. F. Tegen, president of Associated, appealed to the SEC earlier this week to release the Philippine properties from the order so Associated could invest 2½ to 22 million dollars for their immediate rehabilitation.

Until the Japanese occupation, Manila Electric furnished all electric, street railway, and bus service in the Manila area. Escudero supplied electric service in Luzon's Laguna du Bay district. Associated Utilities is an inactive subsidiary of Manila Electric.

The SEC stipulated that the three companies may be reinstated in the divestment order at a time appropriate "in relation to the status of the rehabilitation program."

Plan Offering, Split in Stock of H. C. Lytton

Plans for a public offering of common stock in The Hub-Henry C. Lytton & Sons were disclosed yesterday thru a notice by the Illinois secretary of state's office that authorized capital stock would be increased from 20,000 to 500,000 shares.

Henry C. Lytton.

Stock in the company, which is one of the leading men's and women's retail apparel companies in the Chicago area, has been closely held by Henry C. Lytton, founder, and members of his family. Lytton was 98 years old last July 13. He was born in New York City.

Ten for One Split Expected.

The stock will be split on a basis of 10 new shares for each one now held, it was reported, with a subsequent public offering of 100,000 shares of the new capital stock contemplated. About 200,000 shares would remain unissued to provide for possible future expansion.

Registration of the stock with the Securities and Exchange commission is expected after negotiations have been completed with an eastern underwriting house to handle the public offering.

Name Will Be Changed.

The corporate name of the company will be changed to The Hub-Henry C. Lytton & Co.

Willard Cole is executive vice president of the company, which has branch stores in Evanston and Oak Park. It also has embarked on an expansion program which included the opening of clothing departments in downstate stores operated by Block & Kuhl of Peoria. Five of these departments are in operation.

WAR PRODUCTION FIGURES OF G. M. TOLD FIRST TIME

The General Motors corporation disclosed yesterday for the first time detailed production figures on some of the more important war items which it has manufactured. Such information had been withheld for military security reasons, only the dollar volume of specific items being given. Since the defense program began, G. M. has produced:

More than 140 million shells and shell casings, 180,000 cannon, 1 million .30 and .50 caliber machine guns, 2.4 million carbines, 180,000 airplane engines, 9,000 complete bomber and fighter planes, 31,000 tanks, tank destroyers, and armored cars, 740,000 trucks, including amphibious "ducks," and a major part of the diesel engines produced for United States use on both land and sea.

G. M. plants are making more than 3,600 items for the fighting forces of the United States and other allied nations.

KEENEY TO ADD TO FACILITIES AT NEW LOCATION

J. H. Keeney & Co., peace time producer of coin operated machines now engaged in navy equipment work, which last fall bought the one story plant at the northwest corner of Rockwell and 50th sts., now occupied by Majestic Radio & Television corporation, yesterday announced plans to triple its floor space at the new location by erecting two new buildings, an engineering structure and an office building.

The present Keeney plant at 6610 S. Ashland av. has been sold to the 6610 S. Ashland corporation, an affiliate of Mrs. Steven's Candy company, for $76,500, thru Naumann & Steuer. Ungaro & Sherwood was attorney.

Securities Filed in 1944 Exceed 2 Year Aggregate

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 9 (AP).—The 2 billion 601 million dollars in securities registered during 1944 under the securities act exceed the combined volume of the two preceding years, the securities and exchange commission's January statistical bulletin disclosed today. It listed the 1943 volume at 1 billion 144 million and the 1942 volume at 834 million. The final quarter of 1944 accounted for about two-fifths of the total, despite the 6th war loan drive, which cut December registrations to 38 million.

Securities, Commodity Markets Close Feb. 12, 22

Securities and commodity exchanges thruout the country will be closed next Monday, Lincoln's birthday, and Thursday, Feb. 22, Washington's birthday. Live stock markets will remain open. Among the exchanges closing will be the New York and Chicago Stock exchanges, New York Curb exchange, Chicago Board of Trade, and New York and New Orleans Cotton exchanges.

Bids on 4½ Million Issue Are Requested by B. & O.

Baltimore, Md., Feb. 9 [Special].—The Baltimore and Ohio railroad today invited bids on a proposed $4,575,000 issue of equipment trust certificates to finance not more than 80 per cent of the purchase price of five locomotives, 1,000 steel hopper cars, and 500 steel box cars. Delivery of the equipment is expected next quarter.

WARD BAKING'S SALES RISE, BUT PROFIT IS DOWN

Russell Asks Early Tax Reduction.

Net income of the Ward Baking company decreased in 1944 despite substantially increased sales, its annual report issued yesterday disclosed. General Baking company also reported much larger sales with profits about the same as for 1943.

Downward revisions in the rates of federal taxation "as early as possible," were demanded by Faris R. Russell, Ward Baking chairman.

"Long continuance of a large or preponderant proportion of earnings being taken by the tax collector as a senior partner without risk must eventually and most adversely affect the value of shareholders' investments in incorporated businesses, as well as discourage additional ventures and new and additional opportunities for employment," Russell asserted.

Tax Termed Inequitable.

He termed "neither fair nor equitable" the imposition of double taxation, first on a corporation's earnings and then again on the stockholders' dividends.

Ward Baking's net income in the 53 weeks ended Dec. 30 was $1,300,282, or $5.08 a preferred share, compared with $1,623,285, or $6.35 a preferred share, in the 52 weeks ended Dec. 25, 1943. Profit was after tax provisions in 1944 of $1,915,400, against $1,469,000 in 1943. Sales soared $6,627,201 to a record high of $56,174,032.

Cake sales again increased and were the most profitable of the company's operations, Russell said. Profits from increased bread sales were unsatisfactory, as in 1943, and will continue so until the bread baker is permitted a moderate increase in the price per loaf to absorb the increased costs of production, he asserted.

No Change in Demand.

No letdown in the demand for bakery products is in view, said Russell. Ample supplies of flour are expected, and prolonged continuance of current shortages of sugar and shortening are not expected, he said.

General Baking reported net income in the 53 weeks ended Dec. 30 was $1,792,326, or 71 cents a share, compared with $1,729,119, or 67 cents a share, in the 52 weeks ended Dec. 25, 1943. Federal tax provisions amounted to $3,040,000 in 1944, against $2,210,000 in 1943. Sales rose to $70,056,000 from $61,742,000.

Central Cold Storage company, Chicago, reported 1944 net earnings of $227,210, or $2.44 a share, compared with 1943 profit of $208,236, or $2.23 a share. The largest part of the gross income of $1,775,000 was derived from storage and handling charges, said Jared W. Fox, president. Tonnage in 1944 averaged approximately 12 per cent more than in 1943.

BILL PREPARED TO REDUCE GOLD BACK OF NOTES

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9 [Special].—Chairmen of the house and senate banking committees Monday will offer legislation sponsored by the federal reserve system to reduce gold reserve requirements against federal reserve notes and reserve bank deposits.

Present reserve requirements against federal reserve notes are 40 per cent gold and 35 per cent gold against bank deposits. Under the new legislation both would be reduced to 25 per cent.

Reserve board officials said the legislation was made necessary by the vast war time volume of currency in circulation which exceeds 25 billion dollars.

Chicago, Omaha Newsmen Buy Paper in California

Next Week's Municipal Bond Sales Will Slump

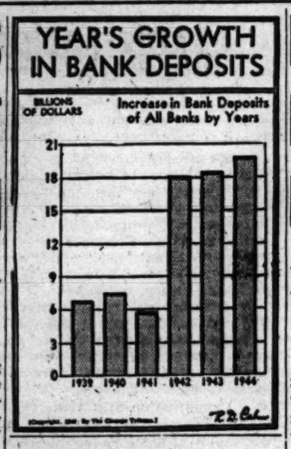
New York, Feb. 9 (AP).—Sales of municipal bonds next week will contract sharply to a total of $3,574,000, the Daily Bond Buyer reported today. This week's volume was $7,640,500 and the weekly average for the year was $37,004,583.

STATE DEPARTMENT SEEKS PLACE FOR U.S. IN WORLD AIR GROUP

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9 (AP).—The state department said today it will ask the senate to authorize United States participation in a permanent international aviation organization. It also said this country accepts as executive pacts three other agreements reached at the recent Chicago aviation conference.

These call for establishment of an interim group to handle civil aviation matters while the permanent body is being set up and for freedoms of the air, including right of transit and nontraffic stops.

In asking American diplomatic representatives to notify foreign governments of its action, the department referred to restrictions placed on the executive agreements making certain points subject to senate ratification of the treaty. These points deal with the possibility of disagreement on interpretation of the air freedoms clauses. The promise to share in expenses of the interim organization is contingent upon congressional appropriations.



Ask to Bypass OPA on Some Pay Decisions

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9 (AP).—The war labor board today asked Stabilization Director Vinson to act as direct referee on "fringe" wage awards, without the present requirement for price clearance with the office of price administration. Meanwhile the WLB will try to work out a formula for such wage hikes along the line of the Little Steel formula on general increases.

"Fringe" awards are those involving such items as night shift premiums, reclassifications, and vacation pay.

Request Is Unanimous.

WLB Chairman Davis said the board was unanimous in the request that Vinson referee such cases as he does those involving general wage hikes.

In a directive Dec. 12 Vinson asked the WLB not to hand down any "fringe" awards requiring compensating price increases and suggested consultation with OPA. Davis has held this was unworkable.

Several major industry-wide cases await a break in the WLB-Vinson deadlock. The two nearest to decision involve packing house and textile workers.

Wins Indirect Appointment.

The CIO United Packing House Workers executive board, after two days trying to see Vinson in person, today won an "indirect" appointment. They complained to several California congressmen and Vinson agreed to receive Rep. Holifield [D., Cal.] and others tomorrow morning.

Meanwhile, Lewis Clark, union president, warned "Vinson will be responsible" if a strike developed in the packing industry.

Davis said at a news conference he believed the "fringe" question could be worked out satisfactorily with Vinson. He said WLB proposed that Vinson referee such decisions while the board worked out "stabilizing limits" as it previously did in the Little Steel formula and substandard and wage bracket cases.

AFL ASKS QUICK REFUNDS OF TAX TO ASSURE JOBS

Miami, Fla., Feb. 9 [Special].—Request for a speedier tax refund for corporations by the internal revenue department to assure more post-war jobs was made today by the American Federation of Labor executive board.

President William Green sent a letter to Rep. Doughton [D., N. C.], chairman of the house ways and means committee, urging amendment of the tax laws to speed refunds of excess profits tax credits.

Green said many companies might be unable to reconvert to peace time operations and full employment because of lack of working capital "due to the fact they have been compelled to use their tax reserves for current operations."

HIGHER PRICES OBTAINED THAN NAVY PROPOSED

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9 (AP).—The maritime commission reported today "widespread interest" in its offering for sale of 1,400 new metal life floats which the navy discarded in favor of an improved type. Because of this, bids for delivery to buyers in the east and middle west will be accepted, it said. Previously the commission had directed all inquiries to its San Francisco office.

The commission took over the sale of the life floats after the navy had proposed to sell them for scrap at 50 cents each. The commission's price is $50 each, or $35 in lots of 20 or more, and 16 have been sold at the higher prices.

Benson & Hedges Files Common Stock with SEC

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 9 (AP).—Benson and Hedges, tobacco manufacturer and dealer today registered with the securities and exchange commission 30,000 shares of common stock without par value, accompanied by full and fractional share subscription warrants. The stock will be offered at $25 per share to holders of preference and common stock at the rate of one new share for each two held. Proceeds will be used to reduce debt and for other general corporate purposes.

BROAD RETREAT IN STOCKS LED BY WAR ISSUES

Liquors, Specialties Counter Trend.

New York, Feb. 9 (AP). — Stocks retreated today in an extension of the light selling which stalled the market's rise yesterday. In addition to thoughts of a possible early ending of the European war, with consequent home economic adjustments, many accounts were lightened in preparation for the long week-end—principal exchanges will close Monday for Lincoln's birthday—and because of the belief a further "technical correction" was likely.

Losses ran to two or more points, especially in war issues, after an uneven opening, but extreme setbacks were reduced in most cases. Distillers, specialties, and scattered industrials managed to gain. Dealings shrank to approximately 1,180,000 shares from 1,530,000 yesterday.

Second Decline Since Jan. 30.

The Associated Press 60 stock composite was off 0.4 to 59.6, its second decline since Jan. 30. Of 944 issues traded, 567 declined and only 185 advanced.

At 1944-'45 highs with gains of one to more than two points were Schenley, on a pleasing earnings statement; Charles Pfizer, on proposals for a dividend in stock; Flintkote, in response to expansion of properties, and Distillers corporation. Some merchandise shares also advanced, and Douglas Aircraft bucked the trend of war issues.

RAIL BONDS FALL BACK.

New York, Feb. 9 (AP).—Selling pressure sent many rail issues down fractions to 2 points in today's bond market. Industrials and utilities were less disturbed, but minor declines predominated. United States government loans were about steady. Delaware and Hudson 4s climbed to a new peak of 105½.

For the fourth straight day this week foreign bonds in the Associated Press averages made a new high, at 69.9. Since the allied armies began pushing the Germans back in the latest offensives, a much better demand has appeared for bonds of numerous European debtors, including Greece, Poland, Denmark, Jugoslavia, and Norway. In addition, the new series Brazilian loans have attracted strong buying.

CHICAGO LIST DECLINES.

Prices declined yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange. Seventy-one issues of the 124 traded declined, and only 31 advanced. Leading demand in a reduced 42,000 share turnover were Admiral, up ¼; Chicago corporation common, up ⅛; Aviation corporation, unchanged; Armour, down ¼, and Cities Service, down ⅛. Horder's, among six to reach 1944-'45 peaks, rose 2¼.

RFC Reports Surplus Goods Supply More than 1 Billion

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—The Reconstruction Finance corporation this afternoon reported it has received as disposal agent 1 billion, 147 million dollars worth of capital and producers goods which have been declared surplus. A classification lists many types of goods the civilian population is lacking as well as many types of little use aside from war.

In the meantime, a senate war investigation committee inquiry into auction sales of surplus by the Defense Plants corporation, an RFC subsidiary—exposing political influences, a reported attempt at bribery, and recklessness with government money—was to be resumed Monday.

Aircraft Surplus Large.

Total RFC surplus sales as of Jan. 15 aggregated $94,644,000, representing a return of 70 per cent of the original cost of $134,396,000, the agency said. Plants costing more than 25 million dollars were taken over by lessees with 100 per cent return to the government on the taxpayers' investment. There were other items in which the return did not approach the 70 per cent average.

The largest class of surplus in the list was aircraft and aircraft equipment, $796,606,000 worth. Of this total, 7,178 military planes costing $22,987,234 have been sold for $10,122,376, the report disclosed.

The aircraft classification included 63 barrage balloons of which 19, costing the government $47,500, were sold for $475. It also included 973 gliders of which 94 costing $197,784 were sold for $35,445.

Among the surplus items which are in short civilian supply were:

Leather—$4,699,015 worth, including sales for $1,003,579 of quantities that had cost $1,886,138, leaving $2,812,877 in warehouses.

Air conditioning and refrigeration equipment—$544,101 worth, including $46,348 worth which has been sold for $19,165.

Drugs and medicines—$101,818 worth, including $15,235 worth sold for $2,585.

Photographic goods and processed motion pictures—$31,863 worth of which $9 worth was sold for $7.

Paints, varnishes, lacquers, japans, and thinners—$1,533,000 worth, including $33,000 worth sold for $17,000.

Construction materials—$29,868,129 worth, including $13,709,919 worth sold for $10,374,439.

Plants and real estate in the list cost $69,592,666. In this class, sales have returned $729,912 on property that cost the taxpayers $1,567,902.

People and Events

C. Guy Willard yesterday was elected an assistant cashier of the First National Bank of Chicago. Willard has been on leave of absence from the bank for several years as chief revenue clerk in the state treasurer's office at Springfield. He will return to the bank Thursday.

A. W. Steudel of Cleveland, president of Sherwin Williams company, has been elected a director of Wilson & Co. He fills the vacancy resulting from the death of George A. Martin, who was chairman of Sherwin Williams.

The Studebaker Export corporation announced Mel S. Brooks, formerly head of export operations in Canada and Australia and now acting domestic sales manager, has been elected vice president.

Vernon C. Usher, of Usher's Associated Dairies, recently was elected president of the Bakers' Club of Chicago. Other 1945 officials are: W. E. Long of the W. E. Long company, first vice president, and M. M. Jackson of Vienna Model Bakery company, second vice president.

Officers and directors of the Cudahy Packing company were re-elected at meetings of the stockholders and directors yesterday in Portland, Me.

Edward H. Masterson and William H. Coy have been elected assistant cashiers of the La Salle National bank, announced C. Roy Phillips, president.

ILLINOIS OUTPUT FOR WAR PASSES 12 BILLION MARK

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9 (AP).—Illinois' share of major defense-and-war contracts and projects from June 1, 1940, to Oct. 1, 1944, amounted to $12,149,935,000, the WPB reported today. Cook county's total was $8,660,890,000. The national total was 205 billion dollars.

The board explained that the figures are net, reflecting all decreases due to contract cancellations and other reductions. They do not include contracts of less than $50,000 nor contracts for foodstuffs and food processing.

Of the Illinois total, $10,725,048,000 was for supply contracts and $1,424,887,000 for facilities. Of the supply contracts, $2,029,855,000 was for aircraft, $402,205,000 for ships, $3,704,865,000 for ordnance, and $4,588,123,000 for all other.

RETAILER TRADE VOLUME ABOVE YEAR AGO LEVEL

New York, Feb. 9 (AP).—Bad weather and other factors this week brought the most varied reports of retail activity in many weeks, Dun & Bradstreet said today.

"Over-all volume was only slightly below the preceding week and 8 to 12 per cent above last year," the agency said. "Demand in the northern and northeastern sections was largely routine with seasonal goods moving well and interest in spring merchandise low. In other districts, new spring lines were well received and all staples were in good demand."

COURT REFERS TRACTION PLAN TO STATE BODY

Igoe Warns Delays Must Cease.

BY WILLIAM SHINNICK.

Asserting that delays in efforts to reorganize and improve Chicago's local transportation will not be tolerated, Judge Igoe of the federal District court yesterday ordered that a new plan for the unification of the surface and elevated lines be presented to the Illinois commerce commission.

The new, so-called trustees' plan is a revised version of a former proposal which the commission rejected 18 months ago on the ground it was financially unsound. This time the court is asking the commission to certify only that the revised plan is in the public interest and is fair to the public and the present owners of traction securities.

Consider City Ownership.

Before handing down the order, Judge Igoe made clear his position on the city's proposal to buy the two properties, which are in bankruptcy, and operate them as a municipal project. He said the trustees' plan made provision for municipal ownership, and that he was ready to consider any new plan along the same line.

Only a few hours earlier the city council committee on local transportation had approved an offer to be made to the traction owners, under which the L securities holders would get about 14 million dollars and the surface lines investors an estimated 85 millions, provided the deal is approved by referendum and the city can raise the money by selling revenue certificates backed only by income of the unified company.

Offers Cash Adjustment.

The trustees' plan contemplates giving the first mortgage owners of the surface lines, to replace their 72 millions of 5 per cent bonds, 45 millions of fully secured 4 per cent bonds and 27 millions of 4½ per cent income bonds, plus a cash adjustment of about 3¾ millions.

The L first mortgage group would receive 7 millions of the 4½ per cent income bonds. Junior holders would receive about 1 million shares of common stock, divided approximately two-thirds to the surface lines and one-third to the L.

Expert observers said the revised plan would require only $1,800,000 of fixed interest, compared to 4 millions under the original, but that numerous other factors condemned by the commission were not eliminated.

Judge Igoe asked the commission to pass on the matter by March 16, and granted the securities and exchange commission, as adviser to the court, 90 days to report on the soundness and justice of the plan.

Are you thinking about a post-war plant in one of these states?

Perhaps we can be helpful to you:

Undoubtedly you are now doing much thinking and planning on post-war manufacturing and distribution. You may be thinking about locating a plant or distribution facilities in one of the eight states shown above, where the population has increased more than a million since 1940.

Southern Pacific is a pioneer railroad in this region. We know it intimately. Also, our terminals are located on direct shipping routes to the vast markets of Asia, Central and South America. For this reason, we believe we are in a unique position to help you with your plans.

Southern Pacific is the largest Western railroad, and has more miles of line than any other United States railroad. In the West alone, Southern Pacific serves more than twice as many communities as any other railroad—many of them exclusively. So if you locate a plant or distribution facilities in this territory, the chances are two-to-one your customers will be served by our rails.

We have experienced traffic men living in every sizeable city and town along our lines. These men know their communities intimately. Through them and the facilities of our industrial department, we can furnish you with specific information about any community on our lines. We have handled matters like this for many years. And those who have dealt with us know that we can be trusted with their most confidential plans.

You may be certain that any advice we give you will be sound and unbiased, for if a location we recommend should prove unprofitable to you, our railroad would suffer, too.

So if you have any interest at all in manufacturing sites or distribution facilities in our territory, please write me. I assure you that your inquiry will receive prompt, personal and confidential attention.

PATINO MINES.

I note Patino Mines and Enterprises Consolidated paid dividends last year of $3 a share, yet the stock is quoted at about 19. What is its dividend and earnings history?—F. K.

The price relationship of Patino stock to the company's expanded war time earnings and dividends is doubtless affected by uncertainties in the longer term outlook. The company, whose tin mining properties are in Bolivia, has profited from the interruption of shipments from the other major sources of tin supply in the Malay states and Dutch East Indies. The situation should be changed by allied victory.

The company's labor costs are believed to have increased as a result of government pressure. As with many other mining properties, the life of its ore reserves is not a matter of exact information, so far as the public is concerned.

Patino is required to deliver to the Bolivian National bank 42 per cent of the value of tin concentrates exported, receiving in return blocked Bolivian currency. Earnings are reported in both English pounds and bolivianos, according to the origination of the currency. As analyzed by Standard & Poor's corporation, the profit in pounds, exclusive of boliviano results, was equal in 1943 to $4.09 a share on the 1,350,000 shares, $2.93 in 1942, $2.44 in 1941, and $1.30 in 1940. On the same basis, the profit ranged from 21 cents a share in 1939 to 49 cents in 1937.

Dividends were: 1944, $3; 1943, $4; 1942, $4.25; 1941, $2.15; 1940, 40 cents. A distribution of General Tin Investment shares was made in 1938. A cash dividend of $1 a share was paid in 1938, $2 in 1937, and 60 cents in 1936.
